Several State Legislatures in session.

The crowd in town Monday did not discuss politics much.

In 1800 Chicago slaughtered 25 percent more cattle than she did in 1880.

St. Jackson's day will be extensively celebrated by the Democrats to-morrow.

If the United States would live up to her treaties with the Indians there would seldom be any trouble with them. The treachery is not all on the part of the Red Men.

The business men of Cincinnati are being annoyed by a counterfeit half dollar that is very difficult to detect. The spurious coin bears date 1877 and is being extensively circulated.

A DRIVE of $10,000 slander suits are agitating Fayette county. Levi Sparr and J. W. Smith had been making derogatory statements as to the characters of Misses Julia and Mollie Green.

The Courier-Journal of the 1st inst. did the rounding up act of the business of Louisville, and a magnificent showing it made. Especial attention was given the C.J. and its prosperous growth.

This end of the State is awaiting the announcement of J. W. Bryan as a candidate for Governor. He concludes to make the race, all the time the other candidates spend in North Kentucky will be wasted.

COUNTY JUDGE HILL, of Campbell county, has cornered the marrying business so far as he and the Justice of the Peace are concerned in that county, by refusing to authorize the Justice to solemnize the rites of matrimony.

The mountain members of the Georgia Legislature, to make themselves solid with their constituents engineered through the Legislature a bill asking President Harrison to release from the Georgia jails all the moonshiners therein confined, but the Governor says he will veto it.

It is now said that Hon. James Blackburn will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Auditor of Public Accounts. When Mr. Blackburn off of the track the territory in which Auditor Norman will have a clean sweep is considerably increased, and places his nomination beyond a peradventure.

The Farmers' Alliance has not made much headway in this part of Kentucky, and so far as we are informed there is not an Alliance organization in this or any of the adjoining counties. The farmers generally seem to recognize that through the Democratic party they can obtain such legislation as they desire.

If the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer—a Republican journal—reports Senator Thomas C. Platt, of New York, correctly, Senator Platt has evidently seen the handwriting on the wall in his State. In an interview with him the correspondent says the Senator said: "I do not count New York a Republican probability in 1892. There is no use of disguising the fact that New York is a Democratic State, and it will so record itself whether Governor Hill or ex-President Cleveland be nominated. I do not think their antagonism will change the result. Tammany will stand up even if Cleveland be the man. If the result depends wholly upon the difference between Hill and Cleveland then count New York out of our calculations."

A RECENT decision of the Superior Court knocks Letcher county's Board of County Commissioners into the soup. The Superior Court decides that the Legislature can create no courts but those provided for by the Constitution. From the information we have in regard to the act establishing the Letcher county Board of Commissioners, it deprived the County Judge of his authority to officiate as a member of the board, and when he refused to abdicate in favor of the Commissioners in so far as the business of the Court of Claims was concerned, they resorted to a mandamus proceeding which was carried to the Superior Court with the result above mentioned. The County Judge is associated with the Commissioners in this county, but only the opinion of a higher court can determine whether or not that makes them a judicial body.

In a recent issue the Courier-Journal makes the following statement in reference to the dissolution of the tobacco combine:
 The Western Tobacco Association has been dissolved. At least it no longer has any official existence. As is well known, the Western Tobacco Association was the corporate compound of the allied tobacco venders of Louisville and Cincinnati, a combination which has recently occupied so much attention in the public press and the public mind. Opposition to it on the part of the growers caused the meeting at Lexington and the succeeding one at Louisville, and the projected corporate warehouse in this city. For sometime the combine has been languishing. It has encountered two obstacles, the scarcity of money and the strenuous opposition of the tobacco growers. The stock subscription books were to be opened in New York City, but owing to the troubles in the money market, it was decided to wait until funds became abundant. But as money is not yet plentiful, and there seems to be no prospect that it will be for a long time, the suitable occasion for taking subscriptions did not arrive.

Under these circumstances the warehousemen have deemed it best to drop the consolidation. Does transferring the property of the individual warehousemen to the Western Tobacco Association had they had never been filed. On Tuesday these debts were endorsed and returned by the President of the Western Tobacco Association to each warehouseman. Therefore all the latter are now operating in the same old way and will continue to do so, the Association in the meanwhile having gone out of existence.

The Kentucky Democratic Club will celebrate Jackson's day at its commodious rooms in Covington to-morrow night. Among the eminent speakers who have been invited to be present and take part in the oratorical branch of the celebration, are Brown, Clay, Hardin and Clardy. Gov. Bryan will deliver the address of welcome, and we predict it will be the ablest and most eloquent effort of the evening.

With the accounts of the battles with Indians in the Northwest and between the lines, it is very difficult to avoid the conclusion that Indian treachery is not equal to that of Uncle Sam's warriors. The statement that a mere handful of Indian warriors, with their women and children about them, and surrounded by a large body of soldiers, commenced an attack in which they knew nothing but annihilation would result, is preposterous.

News Notes.
 Kentucky now has ninety cigar and tobacco factories.

In Nernon county, Mo., hundreds of horses are dying with a disease similar to colic.

Gen. Robert E. Lee's birthday, January 19, is now a legal holiday in Virginia.

Congressman Culver, of Texas, has defended 114 men charged with murder, and has never had a client hanged.

Geo. W. Childs, proprietor of the Philadelphia Ledger, gave away over $25,000 on Christmas to employees and others.

Kentucky sent over $60,000 worth of choice beets to the Christmas feasts of the nobility and gentry of England this year.

There are five Taylors in the next House—one from Tennessee, one from Illinois and three from Ohio. They are all Republicans.

Burglars have become so numerous in Clark county that officers have been appointed to patrol every precinct in the county.

The New York World puts it down as a settled fact that David B. Hill will succeed Wm. M. Everts as Senator from New York.

The new bridge over the Ohio river connecting Cincinnati and Newport, is to be opened for public travel about March, 1891.

It will require 3,780 cars to move the orange crop of Southern California this season. The value of the crop is estimated at $2,608,000.

The disciplining of the American Indian has been an expensive diversion for this country, as our Indian wars have cost already $700,000,000.

An agent from the German Government shipped from Lexington, this State, last week, 500 head of Shorthorn cattle, steers, young bulls and heifers.

Cornelius E. Wood gave a Christmas gift of $125,000 to erect a permanent home for the Young Women's Christian Association of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A surgeon says he can take any human face and, with four cuts of the knife and a few stitches, so alter its original expression that a man's mother won't know him.

The orange crop in Spain and Southern Europe generally is a failure this year. The frosts charge raisers will not go into a decline at the report of such news. "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good."

The fact that the Kenton Insurance Company, of Covington, has reinsured its holders in the National Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., leads to the belief that it is out of the field.

Two French aeronauts are preparing for a voyage of exploration to the North pole in a balloon. The balloon will carry five persons, eight Equinax dogs, a sledge and an unsinkable canoe, with provisions for the party.

Women are settling in the far West and the news now comes that 150 of them have taken up claims in Western Washington within six months past.

East Washington as many more have put in claims.

The Adams Electric Railway Company, of St. Louis, claims to own the original patent covering electric motors, issued to Dr. Wellington Adams, of that city, which shortly begin legal proceedings for damages against all other electric railroad companies.

The ratio of dependent children in New York is 1 to 263, in Ohio 1 to 1,000, in California 1 to 250 and in Michigan the ratio is 1 to 756.

The difference is due partly to the fact that Michigan has rescued over 3,000 pauper children through the State public school at Coldwater, giving them an education, and made respected citizens of them. None of the other States named has any such institution.

The Lawrenceburg Register disseminates the following information: that the general cause of religion may be aided, and a great deal of profanity prevented:

Everybody knows how miserable it is to wrestle with a new collar in the effort to get it buttoned, but not everybody knows that a new collar can be buttoned as easily as an old one if you only have the knack of doing it. Dip the tip of the forefinger in a glass of water, and wet the button hole, and in an instant it is soft and pliable; put on the collar, and as soon as the linen round the butt hole dries it will set to the shape of the button shank and hold the collar firmly to its place. There is no trouble at all about it.

The following from the George town Times shows how a progressive town is liable to get things in a confusion:
 When one hears the "intinnulations of the bells, bells, bells" now he don't know whether it is sleigh, the street car or the bread wagon that is coming.

The Winchester Independent now mourns the loss of a very important piece of office furniture. It says:
 Stolen from this office, a Smith & Wesson double action .32 caliber revolver. A liberal reward given for its return.

We hope that the prediction with which the Williamstown Courier concludes the following item is correct:
 When such rampant Pennsylvania protectionists as senator Quay and Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron baron, admit their belief that the McKinley law will be the last tariff ever passed by Congress it is certainly high time for the moderate Republicans to desert the sinking ship of "protection." And they seem to be doing it, too, at quite a lively rate of speed. So lively, in fact, that Mr. Harrison will be the last Republican elected President.

The Argus is responsible for the following:
 Franklin county has a very prominent gentleman within its borders that traveled all over his farm on horseback the other day, looking for a stray horse. When he concluded his trip he discovered he was riding the animal he was looking for.

In Simpson county, Georgia, is a gold field that has never yet panned to operate, but it is said that Senator Harris, Postoffice Inspector Sharp together with several St. Louis capitalists, are going to undertake its operation, for which purpose they will invest large amounts of money. The South is certainly well equipped with mediums through which to attract capital, and if she keeps up her present rate for the next decade she will be the most important section of this the greatest of countries. This bloody strife and the inventors of southern outrages combined, have failed in their efforts to keep the South dishonored and despoiled, and capital seeking investment continues to flow southward in increased volume, much to the chagrin of those in the North who would delight in seeing their southern brethren weighed down with the iron yoke for time without end.

Under the new law, when the Supervisor of Tax increase an assessment it is their duty to notify the party whose assessment has been increased. This is certainly a good amendment to the old law, but it will not be as easy on the Sheriff as it may give him considerable riding to do.

The Indians are getting away with a good many soldiers.

W. W. Grimley, of Big Bone, was in town yesterday.

There was full attendance of the Board of Commissioners Tuesday.

Remember the lecture at the E. E. church next Monday night.

By means of an entertainment the Florence public school has secured an International Dictionary, price, $9; and also a globe, price, $7.

Very little business was done by the County Court Monday.

Mrs. Longmoores will be probated. John Beatham was naturalized. Jacob Kipp, of Walton, was appointed guardian for his children.

The Boone County Recorder came knocking for admittance this week and "wasn't welcome," but before we could cast our scrutinizing glance over his columns, Miss Ida B. Griffith, one of the independent set, formerly of "Jill's" corner, carried it home, and we have her word that it is an excellent sheet—Winchester Independent.

It is suggested that Hon. John S. Gaunt's tour through this county at this time has some political significance—that he is arranging his fences for reelection to the office of Commonwealth's attorney. If none of Boone's voters enter the race for that office, Mr. Gaunt will be pretty hard to down in this county. He is a hustler when he enters a canvass.

The Master Commissioner sold property as follows last Monday:

In the action of Benjamin M. Allen against Caroline McManis, about 83 acres on Gunpowder to plaintiff for $1,467.71.

In the action of R. D. Hughes, &c., against James Marshall's heirs—39 acres, 3 rods and 21 poles of the James Marshall farm near Richwood, to Samuel Taylor for $1,000.

In the action of J. W. Allen, &c., against Ben T. Allen, &c., 80 acres on the waters of Big Run creek, to F. M. Hunt for $300.

In the action of Simon Slett's Administrator Lucius Dickers, &c., about 70 acres on Mudlick Creek, to Martin Slett for $400.

In the action of Richard Madden's Administrator Richard Madden's widow, &c., 21 acres of the Madden land adjoining W. U. Underhill, to said Underhill for $1,000.

In the action of B. L. Rice, &c., v. B. F. Norman, &c., to B. L. Rice and Bert Conner, 20 acres on Gunpowder for $850 and 25 acres of same tract, subject to B. F. Norman's homestead, to L. C. Norman for $200.

WHEREAS our Brother, T. J. Edwards, has been stricken by the ruthless hand of disease, and his life and labors ended thereby and

WHEREAS Bro. Edwards was a member of this congregation, and one of its Elders, always at his post of duty and ready for any and every good work; now, therefore, be it resolved

1. That we very deeply deplore the death of our Brother, and especially the manner of that death.

2. That as a Christian and officer of this church, we had perfect confidence in his honesty and integrity of our deceased Brother, and feel that, as a church, we have suffered a very great loss in his death.

3. That we desire to express to sister Edwards and the members of her family, our heart-felt sympathy, with and for them in this sorrowful bereavement, and earnestly pray God to bless and comfort them in their sore trial.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to sister Edwards, and also be read in our country paper.

Done by order of the Florence Christian Church this 1st Lord's day in January, 1891.

An enormous volume twice the size of the bulkiest family Bible that ever graced a marble topped table in a country parlor, reached the Capital the other day. In gold letters on its broad back were the words, "History of Members, second session, Fifty-first Congress."

In this book will be recorded, not the private history of the members, but all their private acts.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The Constitutional Convention assembles today. Hands off, no boys, until we see whether or not their vacation has benefited the delegates.—Owensboro Messenger.

Capt. C. T. Allen thinks the Constitutional Convention ought to go through its work earlier than April 1st. Yet he says that there are so many to take a whack at things it is difficult to predict when the final will come.—Princeton Banner.

It has been suggested that the next Legislature will probably be largely composed of present Constitutional members. As the convention will, in all likelihood, not adjourn before the time for convening the next General Assembly, why not turn the delegates into Representatives and only choose the necessary Senators, and so save the expense of numerous elections? Having paid the cost of a new Constitution, which, in all probability, will by no means constitute the people will be in honor to appreciate this movement for economy, which the Times is proud to have originated.—Louisville Times.

The Con. Con. has resumed business at the old stand. Now, gentlemen, get down to business. Do not devote more than one day to the consideration of any one subject and bear in mind that two speeches on a side are enough of discussion. When in doubt what changes to make, make no changes. Shut out the wind of the chronic talkers with a liberal use of the previous question. Reconsider and pass a liberal open clause to antagonize the cities by meddling too much with their charters. If these directions are followed you may yet turn out an instrument that will meet with the approval of the people.—Owensboro Midnight Sun.

If the press of the State is to be credited with a true reflection of popular opinion, the people are greatly disappointed and dissatisfied with the work of the Constitutional Convention. Ominous growls come up from all quarters. It was expected that the delegates sent by the people would strike from the present Constitution a few of its features that were abuses, and add here and there improvements which experience seemed to point out as necessary. But contrary to that expectation, the body seems to think its prime duty is to change all things, to revolutionize the government, to have nothing as it was before, and to tread in untrodden and dangerous paths. The people are seriously apprehensive that the new instrument may prove a Pandora's box of evils hard to be understood, and requiring years of costly judicial experiment to construe. They want nothing of the kind, and if they are left with the power of reflection, its fate may even now be foredoomed.—Brookridge News.

Much of the criticism that the Constitutional Convention is receiving on account of its apparently slow and deliberative methods of work, is, it seems to us, unjust and untimely. After years of annoyance the people of Kentucky have succeeded in assembling a select body of men, charged with the weighty responsibility of framing a new set of organic laws. That body is composed, in the main, of men of more than average experience and ability, and they are laboring earnestly, we believe, to frame a document that shall meet with popular favor and be productive of general good. To those who are competent for such duties, the salary is but a small inducement to daily away time and spin out the session. To such men every day they remain in Frankfort is at the sacrifice of so many dollars. We may therefore conclude that they are advancing as rapidly as they think consistent with thorough investigation and fair discussion. Doubtless some valuable time is squandered in unprofitable wranglings and mediocre oratory. But this is a matter of such gravity that they can afford to move with cautious deliberation, and the people can afford to be patient. Errors in a State Constitution are not easily rectified. And besides, if the people shall find any considerable number, they will reject the document altogether, and all this outlay of time and money will be in vain, and we must return to the old instrument with which the people have often proclaimed themselves dissatisfied. Again we urge, let us be patient.—Glasgow Herald.

In the last fortnight Winchester and Owensville have each suffered severely from fire.

Gov. Buehler will make a trip around the world when his term of office expires.

The Democratic county committee of Bourbon county has called a primary for Feb. 14th to settle the nomination for representative.

Through the Lexington Press the American friends of evangelist George O. Barnes are getting up testimonials to him to show their appreciation and to enable him to return from Scotland.

Inspector Norwood reports the total output of coal in Kentucky last year at 55,135,859 bushels, 3,415,607 bushels less than year before. Of the 164 mines but 79 were in continuous operation.

The Fort Wayne (Ind.) Herald has made a canvass of the Republican editors of Indiana for President and finds their preferences to be as follows: For Harrison, 16; Blaine, 10; General Sherman, 1; Gresham, 1; Reed, 1. Ten were for the nominee. The Gazette sums up "that the outlook for Harrison is not particularly favorable."

Mrs. Halstead is quoted as saying that in 92 there would be "the greatest political struggle this country has ever known." If Mr. Halstead really believes this he must be surely counting on the passage of the force bill. Without that measure to help the Republicans carry the Southern Democratic States the next election is much more likely to be the d—est clean sweep ever known.—Louisville Post.

Major H. S. Hale, State Treasurer, reports that his arrangement with the Frankfort banks for interest on the State's deposits resulted in a revenue to the Commonwealth of $4,841.77 from July 1 to December 31, 1899, which amount has been credited to the account of the Treasurer by the banks and charged up to him by the Auditor. The arrangement by which the interest will be paid by the banks will continue during the present year, and, as Major Hale says, "as long as he remains Treasurer."—Capital.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Herald says Judge Holman, of Indiana, is opposed to any further increase in the number of Representatives. "The present number," he says, "can attend to all the wants of the people. If we go on increasing the number of Representatives the responsibility will be too much divided, absenteeism will be increased, the quorum will have to be made a small part of the House, and thus legislation will remain in the hands of a few men. The House is already so large that nobody but a chairman of a committee amounts to anything; members now leave the House without asking leave. I can remember John J. Crittenden standing up here and begging for ten minutes for one day's leave of absence. In the old time a member was expected to be on hands all the while and leave of absence was rare. If we get thirty-six men more in here we will be so crowded that we may have to take the desks out. When I first came to Congress in 1856, there were no desks. Members sat on long benches, and the only desks they had were little drawers under the benches in front of them which we used chiefly to keep our pistols in. General Singleton, of Mississippi, who used to sit beside me, came in every morning, took a big revolver from his pocket and put it in the drawer, where it could be easily reached. If we take out the desks, stop the writing and bring the members nearer to the Speaker, we will have better order and do more business."

No Collector has been appointed for this district yet, and those who, in the recent past, pretended to be on the inside in regard to matters pertaining to the appointment, now concede that they have no information touching the appointment. The truth of the matter is, they never had any information in regard to the matter, but made such representations that the impression may prevail that they are important factors when it comes to appointments under the administration.

SENATOR FARWELL, of Illinois, has been defeated for a nomination for reelection by the Republican caucus. Richard Oglesby has been called upon to succeed him.

The candidates for Governor are out looking up the voters, and expounding to them Democratic doctrine, and at the same time laying the lines to capture the nomination.

The office of clerk of the United States Court at Frankfort paid the clerk the magnificent sum of $15 34 for his last six months' service. It is hardly necessary to add that the clerk has resigned.

It is predicted that in the event the silver bill that passed the Senate is successful in getting through the Lower House, it will meet a foe in the White House, who will knock it cold with a veto bill.

The Crittenden county Board of Health, owing to the prevalence of the diphtheria, has notified the trustees of the Marion churches and schools to hold no meetings or schools until the further order of the board.

The Pendleton county Board of Commissioners fixed the tax rate in that county for this year as follows: Pauper tax, 25 cents on the $100; Turnpike, 35 cents; Poll tax, $2 50; Road tax, $1 50 per acre and five cents ad valorem.

The Duber Watch Case Company located in McKinley's district, discharged a large number of workmen because they voted against McKinley at the last Congressional election. What else has that company done for? Made an assignment the other day.

Four enterprising colored men contemplate starting a newspaper at Winchester. The Independent says the first issue will appear about the sixth of next month, and that the colored people are taking great interest in the scheme and are giving the proposed publishers much encouragement.

JOSEPH CHANDLER, of Campbellsville, says that he will engage in ten days after notice, and for $5,000, to produce a better Constitution than the present Constitutional Convention will make. It is a great pity that the members of the convention are not endowed with ability equal to that of Mr. Chandler.

These leading Republican papers are quite busy discussing the question as to whom will be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency next year. In fact they appear to be more interested in the Democratic nomination than they are in their own. Perhaps this is because they are satisfied that the next President will be a Democrat.

The Constitutional Convention can not desert in dabbling in legislation as it proceeds. Probably this fault is to be accounted for from the fact that quite a number of the delegates have been members of the Legislature some time in the past, and law making, to them, is so fascinating that they can not refuse to indulge in it when ever the occasion offers.

It is now clear that the free coinage amendment to the financial bill will receive the support of four-fifths of the Democrats in the House in combination with a Republican contingent, and it is reasonably certain to go through the House before the close of the session. The responsibility for its final enactment as a law will probably devolve upon President Harrison, whose influence, so far as it has been exerted, has been in opposition to free coinage.

The course to be pursued by Speaker Reed is no longer problematical. He has decided that the measure shall have full consideration in the House, although he has by no means abandoned his own personal convictions regarding silver. He will not, in the first place, nullify President Harrison's chestnuts, to use a homely phrase, out of the fire. In the second place he expects the force bill to come over from the Senate before long, and he will make concessions to the silver men in order to secure their support for such bill. He finds too, that the pressure would be greater than he could bear if he undertook to usurp the veto power by pocketing the bill, and he is willing to let it go to the President as soon as possible. It can be predicted with almost absolute certainty that the President will sign it under protest.

The fight for the passage of the force bill promises to begin today in the Senate in good earnest. Yesterday was occupied by Mr. Evans in a speech of over three hours in length in favor of the bill, and just before the Senate adjourned Senator Hoar gave notice that to-day he would ask the Senate to remain in session until the consideration of the bill is completed. The determination has been reached to pass the bill if possible, and every effort will be made to reach this end. It is not true that the bill will today be antagonized by any other measure brought forward by a Republican Senator. It can be stated positively that Senator Paddock does not, as has been stated, intend to call up his pure-flood bill to-day.

The Democrats in the House are fully alive to the gravity of the situation, and share the feeling of the Democratic Senators that the bill will pass the Senate. The policy of delay in the House will be more pronounced than ever. Everything in the House will now be delayed by the Democrats on the least possible excuse, while the Republicans are already beginning to concern themselves about the presence of a quorum of their own members.

The Idian war which for some weeks past has occasioned solicitude throughout the country because of its formidable proportions, is practically ended. The chiefs have not only come into Pine Ridge with professions of peace, but a large delegation of them will soon be in Washington to lay their case before the Great Father, with a view to the establishment of better relations with the Government. The campaign has been an arduous one for the troops engaged, being carried on in the face of many difficulties, and at a most inclement season of the year, and fortunately the general engagement that on several occasions seemed imminent, was averted. The great question now to be settled is that of permanently maintaining the pacific conditions that have been brought about at great cost and hazard. The lesson of the war will not be lost if it shall be the means of instituting reforms that have long been needed, and impressing upon the Indians not only sense of the power of the Government, but of its honesty and justice.

The committee, appointed to make the usual annual count of stamps in the vaults of the Internal Revenue Bureau, have submitted their report to the Secretary of the Treasury, and the statistics gleaned from it are interesting as showing the vast number of stamps required to collect the revenue of the Government through this source during a single year. The report shows that there were on hand in the vaults Dec. 26, 1889, all told, 78,865,717 stamps, and that from that date to Dec. 23, 1890, there were received from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for issue 829,033,641. There were delivered to collectors for issue during this period 876,066,300 stamps, leaving a balance on hand December 23, '90, 32,057,841 stamps, which by actual count were found by the committee to be in the vaults.

There is not pending in Congress to-day a more just and meritorious measure than the bill providing for the reorganization and readjustment of the Railway Mail Service. This important system of postal service, has not been properly encouraged, and the employees have not been given the proper incentive for striving for more and more perfect working of the stuporous routes. There is no other branch of the government, which should, it became demoralized, would more seriously effect the business of the country. The Railway Mail Service is really the nerve system of the country, and its disarrangement would mean untold calamity. There is not much danger of its collapse, but when its scope is contemplated and given its proper consideration, there is every reason to believe that Congress will extend that aid and encouragement to which it is entitled.

There is one objection to the force bill which has not been placed prominently before the public. Suppose our elections and Indian uprisings, and several bitter Congressional sessions should happen to fall due in the same year? How could the underpaid soldiers would be compelled to work over hours.

Kentucky in Congress.
A correspondent of the Lexington Leader, from Washington, thus refers to members of the Kentucky delegation in Congress:

The Kentucky delegation occupies a high position in the House. John H. Wilson, of the Tenth district, is making himself useful in many ways. Kind and attentive to the wants of his constituents, and with a willingness to help everybody, he is untiring in his duties, and has the respect and confidence of the entire membership.

Fisley, of the Eleventh, is still on deck and watchful of the interests of his constituents, though seldom taking part in the debates. His Republicanism shines forth conspicuously, and he is always at his post.

There is no member who does more work and is more successful than he undertakes than Governor McGarry, of the Eighth. He commands the respect of both parties, and by his promptness, punctuality and thorough acquaintance with the rules and requirements necessary to the successful transaction of public business, is enabled to render valuable assistance to all Kentuckians who visit the Capital. He is the author of more important measures that have passed the House than any other member of his party. His recognized ability and kind and genial manners have united in making him one of the foremost members of the House.

Ellis is untiring in the discharge of duty, and though modest, is none the less deserving of the esteem of his fellow members. Taylor, the handsome man in the House, young, brilliant and dashing, is destined to make his mark, not only in Congress, but in any sphere of life to which he may be called. It is as cheerful as a ray of sunshine to take a look at him and listen to the words that well up from a big, warm-hearted Kentuckian. Caruth, with magnificent executive ability, has a way of accomplishing everything he undertakes, and this is saying a great deal. Stone, liberal-minded and with comprehensive ideas of the "eternal fitness of things," is honored and respected by all.

Breckinridge, the dignified yet breezy member from the Ashland district, is assiduous in attention to his duties, and is regarded as one of the most finished orators and ready debaters in the House. It is only necessary to know that he is to speak to secure a full House and an overflowing gallery.

Goodnight enjoys the respect of everybody. Always in his place, faithful and zealous in the discharge of duty, he will not disappoint the people he so worthily represents.

Montgomery is a useful and serving member, and is held in high esteem by his fellow Representatives, as well as by his host of friends everywhere.

The handsome and accomplished young Representative from the Covington district, as the successor of Mr. Carlisle, is bearing his honors worthily and well. His constituents will have no cause to regret his selection. It may not be to regret his selection that these Kentuckians are all as handsome as they are able and meritorious, and while the House, as a body, can justly boast of a fine-looking membership, no State can excel that of Kentucky.

It is difficult to pursue any course of reasoning that would lead to the conclusion that Tom South would, after Bert Rusk's confession, desire to take part in lynching Jno. Keys. South has been charged with the murder of Fes, and having alibi, and been working diligently to clear himself of that would bring about the lawful conviction of those whom he believed to be the murderers, and as soon as he strikes "pay dirt" to charge him with an effort to organize a mob to hang Keys is preposterous. South is particularly interested in having Keys and his accomplices convicted by evidence properly brought before the country. Those who were in Lawrenceburg from this side of the river the day Rusk made his confession heard not a word about South trying or desiring to organize a mob to come to Burlington and hang Keys, but on the other hand, those who have visited Lawrenceburg in the last few days have been told that they over there expected a Kentucky mob might do the work.

There is an increase of from $3,000 to $4,000 in each precinct in Fleming county in the amount of money listed for taxation. The Auditor's Agent has been after the tax-shirkers up there.

Thirty-five hundred Indiana miners have sent a petition to the State Senate protesting against the confirmation of the appointment of Capt. Hovey's Mine Inspector.

James and Bud Walker of near Columbia, Kentucky county, were in the South several weeks with mules, and say it is the worst year for the sale of mules since the war. The farmers can not get even a small cash advance on cotton, and they have no money. The crop is immense.

Sleep breeders from various parts of the county report the early lambs doing nicely, notwithstanding the recent heavy sleet. Brack Bonta had 69 dropped before the sleet and only lost one—Harrodsburg Democrat.

None of the convicts are now engaged on outside contracts, but all in either the prison at this place or the new one at Eddyville. The quote of the latter will be filled at an early day by transfers from the old prison. The bulk of the work now being done here is the manufacture of brooms and chairs, while at Eddyville shoes and steam engines will in a large part be the articles manufactured. The prisoners here are in good health and the discipline of the prison under Warden Bolen is good.—Frankfort Capital.

The farmers of Meade county, who are members of the Farmers' Alliance, take the same position assumed by their Hart county brethren on the question of politics in their organization. They do not believe in a third party, and deprecate the attempt to make the Alliance a cat's paw for political works. The object of the organization is to improve the condition of the farmer, not to promote the interest of ambitious politicians or to oppose the present political parties by inaugurating a third one. A majority of the farmers of Kentucky affiliate with the Democratic party. They have no grounds for believing that their organization can not accomplish its objects as well through the medium of the Democratic party as it could through a party distinctly its own. The well-informed members of the Alliance recognize the fact, and refuse to sacrifice their political convictions merely to please a few sore-heads.—Danville Advocate.

New York manufacturers of linen colors and cuffs have decided to reduce the wages of their employees 10 per cent. The McKinley tariff increases the duty on these articles 50 per cent. Where does the "protection of American workmen" come in?—Transcript.

"It is a great pity" remarked a gentleman "that the Constitutional Convention was ever provided with a stenographer. This functionary is largely responsible for the long drawn out character of the proceedings. It is safe to say that if the buncombe speeches of the delegates had never been published the convention would have completed its labors long since. There are more record makers and less business capacity in the convention than the average Legislature." I am no kicker, but the gentleman I think hit the nail squarely on the head.—Lexington Transcript.

Horse Notes.
It is said that Nelson, the famous trotter, has been priced to Jacob Rupert at $136,000.
Flora Temple was the first mare to enter the 2,30 list, Dexter the first gelding and Mambrino Gift the first stallion.

Ten years ago there were but 60 animals in the 2,30 list; at the close of 1890 the number was 328, 63 of which entered the list the past season.

It is said that the oldest mare in America is owned by Dan Hancock who lives near Cambridge City, Ia. She is 40 years old and was purchased by him during the Mexican war. Mr. Hancock keeps her at work on his farm every day, and she enjoys, apparently, the best of health.

Hon. E. E. SITTLE, of Owen county, declines to enter the contest for the nomination for Attorney-General.

The Constitutional Convention was considering the poll-tax question last week—it will probably take up the road law this week or next.

It was all a mistake about Hon. James Blackburn withdrawing from the race for the nomination for Auditor. He is still in the ring, and he says there he will stay until the convention settles the matter.

If the people should refuse to ratify the work of the Constitutional Convention, each member will be found declaring if the other ninety-nine had done as he deemed proper, the people would have stood by the work.

L. P. SARKIS, editor of the Mill-ton Free Press, W. O. Coleman and W. F. Peak, the last two ex Representatives, are candidates for the Democratic nomination as candidates to represent Trimble and Oldham counties in the next General Assembly.

The Secretary of War has sent to Congress a letter showing that the engineer does not consider the harbor at Owensboro, worthy of improvement. Owensboro can no longer harbor any expectation of the Government expending a large sum of money of her harbor.

There are thirty papers in Texas that are booming Governor Hill for the Presidency. It will take considerable booming to bring Hill into greater popular favor than Mr. Cleveland now enjoys, but everything pertaining to the Democratic candidate for the Presidency may be thoroughly revolutionized before the meeting of the National Convention.

The infamous elections bill now pending in the Senate, if passed, will be a death stroke to the World's Fair in so far as the South is concerned. The Southern States will refuse to furnish exhibits if the elections bill becomes a law. If they are forced into a political attitude of a character like unto that of the reconstruction period, they can see no future for their section, and will waste no money making a display at the World's Fair when they can expect no benefit therefrom on account of the legislation directed at them from Washington.

The Farmers & Labor Union of Pendleton county is not well pleased with the Supervisors of tax. In a recent meeting it resolved that it regards the Supervisors as an unnecessary expense and a burden upon the people; that to have an Assessor at a reasonable salary and a Board to go over the work that he has stated upon oath to be correct, when, at the same time, it is possible for the members of this Board to know the property of the tax-payers, is unjust to him and to the taxpayers, therefore the law creating such should be repealed.

The Capital removal question is being agitated again. Lexington and Louisville are very anxious to become the seat of government, each claiming that it is by odds the most desirable and accessible location for the State Capital. Louisville has been holding public meetings for the purpose of formulating plans for capturing the desired prize. Frankfort is considering a threat to withdraw her trade from Louisville if she does not let up on the Capital question, but it is claimed that in the event Frankfort finds she cannot retain the Capital, she will turn her force to the aid of Louisville. The fight will grow quite interesting and Frankfort may become quite uneasy, but she will come out winner.

How is it possible to loan money at 6 percent and give the lender 17 or more percent was fully explained in the Legislature yesterday. The process is simple. Certain Building and Loan Associations come in from other States and organize local Boards. A thousand dollars is then loaned for ten years at 6 percent, the principal payable in ten annual installments. But in charging the interest no account is taken of the payments, so that $1000 interest is collected on the $1000, the rate per cent being 6 percent for the first year, 13 for the second, 10 for the third, 13 for the fourth, 20 for the fifth, 30 for the sixth, 40 for the seventh, 50 for the eighth, 60 for the last year.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

Captain Terrill, no doubt, honestly believes that he is in need of Democratic armor. I don't think probably the Kentucky Historical Society, had by some means, come in possession of that wonderful "suit of mail," worn by that eccentric Don Quixote, and that in a moment of forgetfulness, or conceit, and with no evil intent, our doughty Captain made the exchange, and has ever since been charging around at a loss.

Don's suit, to the dismay and discomfort of his friends, and with but little damage to his toes. The good, old Don, after many wonderful adventures, and a long illness, was finally restored to his reason and his friends, and I trust that a long relief from the exacting and harassing duties of a Representative will have the same happy effect upon the Captain.

As Captain Terrill is a candidate for reelection, and no longer carries his principles as he did his battle (in his saddle pockets), but openly avows them, and as he has accused others of striking a blow at the fundamental principles of our government, we must understand his views upon the subject.

The question is, "have the people the right to control their own local affairs?" The people of a State have their rights, but they can not repeal or amend a law of Congress; the people of a county can not repeal, or set aside a State law; neither can a precinct repeal or set aside a county law. This is true, because this is a government of the people, the majority ruling, or controlling; otherwise this would soon become a government of factions, each precinct, county or State, or Federal control, and the result would be confusion, conflict of authority, anarchy and bloodshed.

Captain Terrill sought to repeal a county law. How? By distracting the minds of the people, claiming that he "wanted to let the people settle this question for themselves," that they were "clamoring for another vote," that "he did his best to represent the people upon this question," that "the people have the right to control their own local affairs," and that "some, like myself, were so puritanical and pharisaical, that they would stifle the voice of the people," he deliberately refused the right of suffrage to 3 of the people of the county. Foiled in this, Captain Terrill passed through the House another bill repealing this law absolutely, without any substitution whatever, thereby substituting his will for the will of the people, and disfranchising every voter in the county upon this question.

Can we consistently denounce Tammany and Republican methods and condone such an outrage as this? Let us consider this liquor question a moment. License means to permit, and carries with it the idea of approval. To prohibit is to prevent, and carries with it the idea of opposition to the thing prohibited. The one is opposed to and antagonizes the other. To license the bawdy house or gambling hell, is to approve of prostitution, debauchery and gambling. Therefore we prohibit the commission of these and all other crimes, of every grade and description, because we are opposed to the commission of crime, and try to suppress it.

Now, what of the saloon? Is it good or evil? Shall we license or prohibit it? The Supreme Court of the U. S., the highest and most impartial tribunal in the land, says: "By the general concurrence of opinion of every civilized and Christian community, there are few sources of crime or misery equal to the dram-shop." "The statistics of every State show a greater amount of crime and misery attributable to the use of ardent spirits obtained at these retail liquor saloons than to any other source." And we living in this favored Christian land, loving our country, our homes and our fellow-man, claiming to be upright, moral, Christian men, are asked to become equally guilty with the perpetrators of this crime and misery by licensing these dram-shops that caused it. But, it is claimed if we close the saloons irresponsible parties will sell; shall we become the accomplices of murderers, adulterers and gamblers, because irresponsible parties may or will commit the crime?

How is prohibition secured? By vote of the people under or by the authority of the local option law. Under such a law (not a force bill, Captain—yours was that), the people of the county voted against the sale of liquor, and as a result, we have prohibition. How does it work? Admirably, according to Captain Terrill, who is good authority, too, who is now sold in some dark place in the county—a mean article at that, and at double prices, clearly indicating a high tide trade, and as a consequence, drunkenness is so rare that Captain Terrill has invited no over to the saloons at Lawrenceburg and Auburn to see drunken men, to prove that prohibition is a failure in Boone.

That little quibble of yours, Captain, over restriction, was amusing, but very far from the truth. If the saloon ever is only restricted in his sale to minors, then, according to Webster, he can sell, but in limited quantities; but as the law says he cannot sell, it is prohibition, and you stand committed to prohibition to the minor, to a man when drunk, and upon Sunday. You must abandon that pig or puppy policy of yours, and advocate prohibition for all, or the saloon open to all.

If Captain Terrill had any purpose in view when he introduced that wonderful wine argument, than to misrepresent me and to show his ability to quote scripture, I do not know what that purpose was. He well knew that I never called wine, "damnable stuff," and he also knew that anyone could do anything mentioned upon any occasion referred to by him, and not violate one single feature of prohibition. Prohibitionists would be satisfied with wine made by the Saviour. Saloon men never. But Captain Terrill would have my little prohibition act cutting down the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. Yes, and like the original George Washington, I would not lie about either, as did the serpent, the first antiprobhibitionist, and the leader of your party to-day, to our first parents, deceiving and beguiling them to their ruin. You, Captain, condemning my course, would either fold your hands and see the ruin wrought, or aid the serpent in his deadly work.

Well, Captain, if the Lord made everything, and everything the Lord made was good, who made that mean article of whisky? Not the Lord, surely, and there is so much of the mean, and so little of the good, and as it is so hard to distinguish between what the Lord made, if he made any, and what the devil made, would it not be a good idea to have an expert, like yourself, a kind of middle-man, as it were, enjoying the confidence of both parties, to tell us what to drink, or, in the absence of this, to stick a little closer to rain water.

Thank you, Captain, for the many good, strengthening and invigorating things kept in the saloon—not in the Democratic party—that you tender me; but I have somewhere read of one, who enjoyed all those good things, in fact, fared sumptuously every day, but whose appetite, at last, was for only one drop of water. I am not yet ready to sell my birth-right for a mess of pottage.

J. L. WALTON.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

As the roads are getting muddy, muddy to create some turnpike fever, would it not be a good time for some one of the many candidates for Representative that are spoken of, to come out squarely for a turnpike law that will tax the property in the county enough to enable the county to take stock to the amount of seven hundred and fifty or one thousand dollars in each mile of turnpike built in the county? The tax plan is the only legitimate way to get at the matter fairly, as there are so many nonresidents who own very valuable property in the county, and who would pay nothing any other way, and yet they would be benefited as much as anyone. A tax of fifty or seventy-five cents on each one hundred dollars, would be the means, in a few years, of picking the principal roads in the county. Some will say, "we have got a good pike and don't want any more." We might have used the same argument about new things done in the county, but we did not. For instance: About building our fine, county asylum, county jail and court house. They are built and paid for and are an honor to the county. Now, all that old Boone lacks, are good roads, and the only way to get them is to vote for the man who will pledge himself to pass such a law as soon as he gets to Frankfort. Who will be the one to make the fight? This issue will have to be faced sooner or later, and we had as well begin it now.

Would it not be well for the County Commissioners to publish the delinquent tax list? We will bet our old hat that next year there would be a smaller number of delinquents if it was done.

FAIR PLAY.

The Agricultural Press of Springfield, Massachusetts, desiring to ascertain, as far as possible, the choice of the different sections of the county for the next candidates for President, sent out a large number of letters of inquiry, and it has received numerous answers, which it sums up as follows: In New England, for Cleveland, 23,523; for Hill, 3,351. Middle States, Cleveland, 28,548; Hill, 9,028. Central States, Cleveland, 17,841; Hill, 1,899. The Northwest, Cleveland, 2,305; Hill, 411. Pacific Coast, Cleveland, 755; Hill, 215. The South, Cleveland, 4,758; Hill, 726, being a total for Cleveland of 71,877, and for Hill, 17,118. These expressions are by the farmers in the various sections, and are strong which show that the Democratic wind is blowing very strongly in the direction of Mr. Cleveland, and indicate pretty clearly that he will be nominated by acclamation by the Democratic National Convention.

In the same section $2,500 Republicans want Mr. Blaine for their Presidential standard-bearer, while 31,013 declare in favor of President Harrison, from which it appears that Blaine has the call on Harrison in the event he should decide to become a candidate for the Republican nomination. The Republicans in the Northwest are not particularly fond of Harrison—in fact the figures obtained by the Agricultural Press show that Blaine is the favorite in every section, with Secretary Blaine pushing Harrison.

As to Elections. The report of the Committee on Elections has finally been amended and adopted by the Convention. Its great length prevents its publication in full, but the main points may be stated in the following condensed form, from the Courier-Journal:

Voting, except in elections by persons in a representative capacity, shall be by secret official ballot. This does not apply, however, to elections for school trustees.

Not more than one election each year shall be held in this State, or in any city, town, district or county thereof. Elections for school trustees, however, are left for regulation by the General Assembly.

Election day is made the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each year, as at present, in August.

The General Assembly is required to provide for the registration of persons entitled to vote in cities and towns having a population of 5,000 or more.

Every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years who has resided in the State one year and in the county six months, and in the precinct sixty days, is declared to be a voter.

Persons guilty of treason, felony or of such high misdemeanors, pronounced by the General Assembly sufficient, or bribery at an election, and persons who are in confinement under judgment of a court for some penal offense, and idiots and insane persons, are refused the right of suffrage.

Persons are disqualified from holding office who shall be convicted of having used or consented to the use of money, or other things of value, in securing their election.

Corporations which influence a voter directly or indirectly, by the use of money or other things of value, or by any compensation whatever, shall, upon conviction of same, forfeit their charters if organized under the laws of this State.

The Legislature is required to provide laws depriving of office any one who has secured his nomination or election by the unlawful use of money, fraud, bribery, etc.

One long section is devoted to the manner in which vacancies in all elective offices shall be filled.

The General Assembly is required to provide laws for the restriction or prohibition of the sale of liquor on election days.

The talk of a third party is all right if it does not interfere with our Alliance, but it must not be understood that our Alliance is to be converted into a political party. If there is to be a new party formed that will be a new party formed by the united demands of the people.

It is sheer nonsense to try to force public sentiment. Let us advocate the people in our Alliance, and wait for results. Many of our people are impatient and can not wait. Some of our States have taken independent political action. That may be all right if public sentiment demands it, but let us hold to our great educator—the Alliance.

The great battle is to be fought in 1892 and will require well disciplined forces to be successful, therefore, let us act with wisdom. We can afford to wait and discipline our forces and if the power now governing us will grant our demands, it is the better. It is a hopeful sign to see our people meeting in large bodies, and discussing those great questions, but don't act too hastily.

L. D. Thomas read a paper before the State Board of Agriculture at Indianapolis, on the 8th of January, upon the grass seed to stock and places clover at the head. He says, a given weight of clover contains more of the phosphoric acid and lime to make the bone, and more of all the mineral elements required to grow the animal structure than timothy or blue grass.

A farmer is no better than any other man simply because he is a farmer; but being a farmer he more thoroughly understands the needs of that great majority class, and if he possesses ordinary ability can be more implicitly trusted to work for their interest than a professional politician. This is why the people are asking for farmers to fill their offices.—Western Advocate.

The following is taken from an interview with the great editor, published in the Chicago Tribune: "At the next national election you will find as complete a breakdown for the Republican party as the Whig party met in 1852, when it carried only four States in the Union. The Whigs nominated Winfield Scott and the Democratic candidate was Pierce. When the result was announced it was found that the Whigs had been so soundly thrashed they hardly knew what had happened. The party has never been heard of since, and this is the fate in store for the Republican party. Cleveland is the logical conclusion of the situation. He is especially strong in the West. The Democratic platform is what was set forth in the document prepared at St. Louis during the last convention, and was explained more fully in Mr. Cleveland's message."

THE FORCE BILL DEFEAT

all Republicans had been as villainous, unscrupulous as G. W. Hoar and John I. Davenport would the country have been a good deal the worse for it. The shame of impeaching a President would have been on the Democrats. All Republicans had been as malicious, as unscrupulous as Oliver P. Morton, John A. Bingham and Thaddeus Stevens. To a saving remnant of honorable and conscientious men the country would have been a good deal the worse for it.

It is difficult at a single glance to comprehend the full villainy of the Mayonet election bill now before the House.

which was to have been the mightiest product of a regulated monopoly Republicanism. The bill was born of the necessities of monopoly rule, of the embarrassments of detected vote-buyers and of the unweening desire of fat fryers and peddlers and blocks of five millionators to reach election results cheaper and quicker methods than had yet employed. It was a masterpiece.

device to relieve the robber the necessity of buying elections, to compel the people through official machinery to pay for their own education and enslavement. It would build up a standing army of Republican mercenaries under the command of John L. Davenport and others of whom would have been responsible the body who would have served for

ing public funds unstintingly to party ends, and who would have the absolute power so to intimidate and qualify voters and falsify the count as to make it forever impossible for American people to elect a Congress that did not echo the demands of the greedy and plunder. In a word, the measure to which Thomas Bacon the impudent usnrper of the House of Representatives, as yet unrebu-

The wickedness of this attempt to curtail the liberties of the people became more apparent when it was found that there was absolutely no demand for it save from the professional class—those who, like Thompson and tion crosses like Davenport and the monopolies that keep the funds. The pretense that it was in the interest of the colored race in the South is absurd. It was the only way that the colored people, rescued from their long bondage and from the lawlessness of the reconstruction period, did not want. Its enforcement contemplated their subjection to a political serfdom worse than that which they were so recently deluged and to the whites of the South only, but of the North as well, it is an imposition of alien bosses which would have been intolerable. The hope of a disintegrating party order and privilege, its defeat logically upon the heels of the great popular uprising in favor of responsible, economical and honest government.

Considering the forces that have been instrumental in building up a 'B. Reed in the House and a George Hoar in the Senate, it can be doubted that the country has ever been in very great danger. The force and the idea, so magnificently championed by so powerfully sustained, seem to have met its Waterloo.—Chicago

PETERSBURG.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

The regular correspondent from here invites the Walton correspondent to "not out his man and Capt. Terrill will know him in the soup." We would grant him this, but for the fact that we presume that he meant his Captain would defeat any opposition that may be offered. If this regular correspondent should also be as wide of the mark in this case as he does in many others, that he reports from here, there will be many dry eyes in this precinct when the soup is done boiling, putting it mildly.

There is an element here—call it "Preacher, Puritanism, Prohibitionist" or what you will, that will not follow with you any further. Many of them followed him before in preference to a grand young man who would have been an honor to us. We were misled—we will not be again.

We now want a man without a hobby, of good sound Democracy of course, who takes an interest in his home enterprises.

His scripture quotation is amusing. They say he scarcely finds time to attend to his domestic affairs at home, so busy is he searching the scriptures for proof to back up his whisky principles. He quotes Paul where he tells Timothy to take wine for his stomach's sake. Like the witty Irishman, I would say, "My name is not Timothy and there's no wine in it."

We hope that the meeting called to be held at the Court-house on the first Monday in March will not be neglected, and that the good people from all parts of the county will come out and select a standard bearer who will lead us to victory. If it is a good man (with whom whisky is not a god) we pledge them a respectable vote in the Petersburg precinct. x x x

The following short and pointed address was delivered at a quiet meeting of Democrats near Verona, by a gentleman of the southern part of the county, and is here reported verbatim:

"The people in this part of the county are already beginning to manifest an interest in the coming election of a county representative, and the question is often asked, who will be the candidate for that office? The answer has as yet failed to come save from our present Representative, Mr. Terrill. Some are satisfied with him others are looking around to find someone to make the next best thing."

These articles appearing recently in the Recorder, touching upon the "temperance question" have in a great measure shaped the lines which will divide the voters of our county in the coming primary election. Such, however, should not be the case for the "whisky question" is not a political one, neither should it enter as a factor into the election or the defeat of any person. It is the personal matter of the article does not unfit him for the discharge of the duties imposed. The people can and should, upon the basis of morality, elect whoever they desire to represent such laws as will regulate and control the whisky traffic. And the representative of a people—matters not whether he be in favor of "local option, high license" or any other law to regulate the sale of liquor—should be governed by the best of the people whom he represents. He should let the people settle the question for themselves, and be subservient to the will of the majority as expressed at the polls.

The great principles of Democracy—that which underlies the very foundation of the party, and is so sacred to the hearts of the American people today, is in the people alone lies the power to govern. It is the people, through their representatives, for the people and for the people our county exists.

It is not better that we, in choosing a Representative, inquire concerning his soundness of Democratic faith, his intellectual ability, his integrity and his honesty, rather than concerning his views on the best method of regulating or suppressing the sale of whisky; and then select the man whose Democratic views are sound, whose intellectuality is sufficient, and whose integrity is unquestionable (regardless of his opinion upon the whisky question) in preference to the one who may think that his best qualification is to be right on that question.

The representative men are those who are conservative and liberal in their views, and who do not favor the oppression of any particular class or thing beyond a just and reasonable standpoint.

The business of our county represents many and varied interests controlled and managed by many different kinds of people, who possess different temperaments, different abilities, and are endowed with unequal capacities to carry out their respective avocations in life, are subjected to different influences, surrounded by different circumstances, and possessed of different habits; all of which naturally should be considered and represented, provided for and protected in their respective avocations without prejudice or favor, so far as that they will be amenable to the law of the land, and that the rights and privileges given to our man, or a set of men, does not interfere with the rights and privileges of others.

Taking this view of the case it is very evident that the man who possesses no religious views, or no religious subject of legislation, which he may come in contact with and will not make a fair and impartial legislator.

Turnpike Talk.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

I would like to make a few remarks in regard to the system of taxation for the purpose of improving our roads. The article from "Fair Play," in the Recorder of January 28, struck me so favorably, that I can't help encouraging it. I, as well as the majority of my neighbors, heartily endorse it, and I will briefly mention some of the most important reasons. In the first place, the capitalist are the best benefited, and they are the most dilatory about subscribing to a stock company, any like. I know a very important piece that fell through with just on that account. They expect to reap their farms to men of moderate means, and make their money off of them. They want a high rent for their land, and in writing, making him give good security, and then if he is lucky enough to get a crop at all, he can't haul it to market without making twice as many trips as he would be necessary, and for every one pays his part. Or, why not adopt the Ohio and Indiana plans of improving the mud roads. Good roads certainly are a great saving to vehicles and a pleasure to the driver and cost less to the team. This subject should be intended to, and we hope "Fair Play" will attend to it. J. S.

Mr. Meeks is a native of this county, and is also Uncle Sam's private detective, dropped down on our P. He showed John his credentials, and told him that Uncle Sam expected P. M.'s to be obliging in cases like that, and John did not say a word, but he told Meek about a certain registered letter that was in the office for him. Meek went after the registered letter, and next day registered at the Covington jail.

Owens county has 250 miles of turnpike that cost $180,250.

There has been talk of moving tobacco pressed and shipped from Owens this season—before ever before, and the crop will be for shipment earlier.

Henry Holbrook sold his crop of tobacco, consisting of about 7,000 lbs. to the Owensboro dry house at 10 cents all round.

The tobacco market is still keeping up. Local buyers are paying all the way from 7 to 10c all round for crops. Quite a lot of tobacco has begun to move to the market, and money and interest will likely ease up in a few weeks. John Oliver sold his crop to F. N. Johnson at 13 cents all round; John Lawrence to Frank Turner at 14c; J. T. Gove to the Seaboard at 15c.

Geo. S. Hunt is the possessor of a cow—a better cow than which does not exist. The other day his mother did the churning, putting in a gallon of cream. After churning about the usual time it became so lumpy that it could not work, and upon removing the lid, it was found that all the cream had turned to butter, except about a tablespoonful of the lactal fluid. The cow was milked by W. B. Duval, and the milk was poured into the churn. Mrs. Hunt, whose veracity can not be doubted.

Frank Burgess, of Dillsboro, who about three weeks ago shot himself with a high power rifle, and in writing, making him give good security, and then if he is lucky enough to get a crop at all, he can't haul it to market without making twice as many trips as he would be necessary, and for every one pays his part. Or, why not adopt the Ohio and Indiana plans of improving the mud roads. Good roads certainly are a great saving to vehicles and a pleasure to the driver and cost less to the team. This subject should be intended to, and we hope "Fair Play" will attend to it. J. S.

READ THIS TWICE!

The only Protection that will effectively protect all people, all classes, all labor and all interests is that styled SELF PROTECTION I require only one of a truthful knowledge of ways and means, legal and illegal, just and unjust, by which the burdens of government, profits of labor and industry, are so unequally divided.

That knowledge is power, and ignorance is slave, is forcibly illustrated daily in all walks of life, among all people, in all countries.

Where knowledge is used as a power or a means for gaining wealth without labor or an equivalent thereof, it becomes necessary to deceive or keep in ignorance of such methods those from whom the wealth is taken; hence it is that of the ten thousand newspapers printed in the United States, less than one absolutely free and independent of the power or control of some class, party or monopoly whose interest it is to keep the great mass of people in ignorance of their methods.

The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer is one of the few, if not the only one, absolutely free from such influences. It is the most honest, thorough, able teacher and exponent of truthful knowledge, of reliable data, free from partisan bias, fair, frank and explicit to such degree that one cannot but feel edified and enabled of forming correct conclusions therefrom. Such a paper should be in every household. Sample copies can be obtained by addressing the publishers, in Cincinnati, O.

Judge Baker, of this place, one of the incorporators and a vice-president of the company, attended the meeting, and from his talk it is evident that the meeting developed nothing that is calculated to encourage persons along the proposed route, and who have become so deeply interested in the building of the road. Propositions to build the road were made the company, the best one requiring the gift of the right-of-way (the whole length of the route, supplemented by $100,000 in money. Of course the company is not in condition to accede to this demand, and if the road can be secured only through that method, it looks very much like it is gone glimmering, in so far as the present day and generation is concerned. Huntington is no longer connected with the scheme, having withdrawn when he sold the Kentucky Central to the Louisville & Nashville system. The company held a meeting in the city on the 10th inst. for the purpose of considering the present condition of affairs as relates to the proposed road. Judge Baker, of this place, one of the incorporators and a vice-president of the company, attended the meeting, and from his talk it is evident that the meeting developed nothing that is calculated to encourage persons along the proposed route, and who have become so deeply interested in the building of the road. Propositions to build the road were made the company, the best one requiring the gift of the right-of-way (the whole length of the route, supplemented by $100,000 in money. Of course the company is not in condition to accede to this demand, and if the road can be secured only through that method, it looks very much like it is gone glimmering, in so far as the present day and generation is concerned. The meeting largely referred to was purely informal.

The little town of Hamilton was considerably excited a few days ago, over a shooting scrape within its limits. R. K. McManis and a young man named Black fell out over some money matter, when McManis made a pass at Black with a knife, and Black drew his pistol and shot at Mc, twice, one ball taking effect in his arm. Fortunately, his bullet was suppressed before there were any serious results.

Mart Skinner, "the first ward spider," and John William, "the red comb bantam," were the participants in a prize fight on Friday night last. The fight took place in Adam Bauer's tobacco barn across the river. Skinner and William are brother-in-laws, and willingly agreed to hammer each other if there was any money in it. The purse was $20, but they would have fought just as hard for $10. The English, of Cincinnati, President of the Ninth National Fair bank, acted as referee. Six rounds were fought and William proved the victor. They were stung by Skinner's nose was badly damaged, but otherwise no punishment was noticeable. About 100 persons witnessed the fight—all strangers in that part of the county.

There's a good deal of guarantee business in the store keeping of to-day. It's too excessive. Or too reluctant. Half the time it means nothing. Words—only words. This offer to refund the money, or to pay a reward, is made under the hope that you and that you won't claim the reward. Of course, So, whoever is honest in making it, and works—not on his own reputation alone, but ~~on the reputation of the~~ dealer whom you know, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee. The business wouldn't stand a year without it.

What is lacking is confidence. Back of that, what is lacking is that clear honesty which is above the "average practice."

Doesn't it strike you that a medicine which the makers have so much confidence in, is the medicine for you?

The majority in this country is represented by the minority in Congress.

The new Revenue Collector in this district takes possession of his office next Saturday.

The pilot on the Sherlock was laboring under a hallucination that that steamer approached the C. & O. bridge on that fatal night.

The Constitutional Convention is plodding along. Some are so heartless as to openly charge that the delegates are stretching their work for revenue.

HON. JOHN C. BERSHIRE, of the Indiana Supreme Court, died of typhoid pneumonia last week. He was raised at Rising Sun, and attended law school with F. H. Ridgell, Esq., of this place.

The fact that a man is a clergyman renders him ineligible to the office of legislator in this State. In the eyes of the Constitution makers the clergyman have not reached a plane of statesmanship that qualifies them for the responsible position of lawmakers.

The Louisville Times says the Constitutional Convention is supreme, and suggests that a few proposed amendments be tacked on to the old Constitution and that it be submitted along with the new one, and that the one getting the most votes be adopted.

The Democrats are now some what demoralized on the Presidential question, but they have plenty of time in which to pull themselves together for the grand rally in '92. They have nothing like the work to do to get themselves together that the Republicans have.

ONLY a few more days of the present Congress. Speaker Reed is not anticipating the unanimous adoption of resolutions thanking him for his fair and impartial rulings while presiding over the House. Should such resolutions be presented of course Mr. Reed will decline them adopted.

The report of the Labor Commissioners of Maine show that over three thousand farmers were abandoned in the State last year. Mr. Blaine should at once go to work and make a treaty with the farmers of his State whereby they may be induced to remain on their lands. None of the factories up that way have been abandoned.

The Democratic Executive Committee of this county is called to meet next Monday to consider matters of importance to the party, the most important of which is probably the fixing of the time and manner of nominating a candidate for the Legislature. Taking everything into consideration it now looks like the atmosphere hereabout will be redolent with politics next Monday.

SOME of the citizens of Union City, Indiana, are not satisfied with the present location of the line between Indiana and Ohio, and claim that the line is really from one to eight miles west of the present line, and an effort is being made to induce the Ohio Legislature to have it resurveyed. If the line is located where the Union City people declare it belongs it would make a difference of 5,000 votes in Indiana in favor of the Republicans.

THE Democratic State Central Committee met in Louisville last week and called the State convention to meet in Louisville on the 13th day of next May. The candidates for the nominations for the various State offices will now begin a lively canvass, as the time fixed for the convention will just about allow them to visit the several counties. Those who have been contemplating offering for an office will announce at an early day or abandon the idea. Kentucky is entering upon another political hurrah.

A stallion belonging to William Thomas, of Mercer county, attacked a jack and a fierce fight ensued. They would bite and tear each other from each other. Finally the jack got hold of the stallion's neck close down to his shoulder and tore a piece clean out, severing the stallion's wind pipe. The stud at the same time landed a kick below the jack's knee on the hind leg, breaking it so that it only held by the skin. The stallion died, and Mr. Thomas killed the jack to relieve his sufferings and prevent it from doing any more mischief.

The steamer Thomas Sherlock collided with one of the piers under the C. & O. bridge at Cincinnati, Tuesday night of last week, and sank, being a total loss. Only two lives were lost out of about fifty passengers. The boat was leaving for New Orleans.

AFTER the National Democrat reviews Mr. Blaine's little reciprocity dicker with South America, it has a very interesting appearance. If Mr. Blaine should be favored with a copy of the expose it will make his reciprocal pulsations rapid and short, accompanied with a shortness of breath.

To-morrow the delegates of the Constitutional Convention will give the citizens of Frankfort a reception. The Capital Hotel will be given up to the festivities, and a grand time is anticipated. If it does not surpass anything of the kind ever held in Frankfort, it is not to be mentioned in the new Constitution.

The desire to breed and raise fine horses is evidently growing in this county. More men are taking horses than ever before, and more money is being invested in this class of stock than at any time in the past. If the indications are true the grade of horses in this county will be greatly improved in the next few years.

The Jefferson Herald advocates the election of a superior lot of Representatives for the next General Assembly. It says the new Constitution is adopted, the arduous task of starting that in operation will devolve on the next Legislature. This is all true, but the next General Assembly of Kentucky will be a chip off of the old block.

MAYSVILLE is going to have a tobacco warehouse of her own. Being in the midst of the burly district, Mayville is of the opinion that she can build up a good traffic in the weed, and induce a strong corps of buyers to attend her sales. The tobacco will be handled and sold on a different plan from that of the other warehouses, the seller not being required to have his tobacco priced.

THE delegate in the Constitutional Convention from Gallatin, considers Governor Buckner, ex-Kentucky Judge Thoburn and Bennett, and the brains of the Convention, and says that every measure they support is because of patriotic motives, and not selfish and personal ends. Mr. Brown has been a faithful member and close observer, and says that too many speeches are made for the purpose of giving vent to personal spite.

WILLIAMSTOWN has another paper, of which Public Opinion is the title. Mr. O'Hara & Menough are the editors, and judging from their first impression they fully understand their business, and will give their patrons value received for their money. Williamstown, backed by Grant county, is a good field for a local paper, but will it support two in a manner that will make it profitable to both? The problem is yet to be solved. We put Public Opinion on our exchange list and wish it success.

TACTIC quite often has a very severe sting, and Watterson's letter addressed to Gov. Hill, of New York, in which he told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, as regarded the attitude of the Democratic party towards Mr. Cleveland and the Presidency, stood Governor Hill fearfully. He considered the letter impertinent, but that may have been because he thought Mr. Watterson questioned his information on a topic with which everybody was so familiar. Watterson told the ground that his letter contained nothing that one Democrat could not write to another with propriety, and it seems that the leading Democratic journals of the country sustain his view of the matter. There is one strange feature in the case, and that is Hill's failure to receive the letter.

At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society, President Parkinson delivered an address, his subject being "The Farmer in Politics." He was enthusiastically of the opinion that the farmer is not out of his sphere in politics. He claims that it is one of the farmer's first duties to be a thorough politician, and to use his utmost efforts to suppress the evils and abuses in politics, and to place higher and better principles of government before the masses. He grew eloquent in warning farmers of the dangers arising from the acquiring of land by monopolies, and the centralization of the wealth of the country, led up to and made possible by unjust legislation. He predicted that unless legislation in the interest of the masses was soon had, half the wealth of this country would be controlled by ten thousand men within the next twenty-five years. He urged the election of farmers to the State Legislatures, and to Congress, and deplored the fact that there are scarcely enough farmers in Congress to constitute a majority.

TO the Editors of the Recorder: Captain Terrill flatters me when he calls me the Prohibition chief, and while I disclaim all thoughts of leadership or authority, I am an advocate of prohibition, and belong to that party of good citizens, who, independent of party affiliations, cast 1,147 votes against the saloon a few years ago.

A Democrat in politics, I challenge any man to point to one act of mine, either public or private, that contravenes the principles of Democracy. KENTUCKY STATE NEW

Commonwealth's Attorney Speer
ment Abolished by the Convention.

Under the New Order Each County Will Have Its Own Prosecutor.

Apportionment and the restriction of local apportionment occupied the time of the constitutional convention. The constitution was the right of the country against the states in the light of the apportionment. A committee will be formed to study the constitution. The committee will be composed of three members. The district is to be based on population and territory.

In committee of the whole the constitution will be considered. The committee will be composed of the legislative department, with the result of the constitution. The committee will be composed of the special committee to make the apportionment. The committee will be composed ment. The committee will be composed of the Early the other morning Mitchell was alone, alone, of himself, and his wife with an ax, inflicting a frightful wound in the head and on the arm. He gave himself a severe wound. Mitchell had been on an

Mrs. R. H. Dancy burned to death at Lancaster, by her clothes catching on fire.
She was an invalid, and was alone at the time. When she found she was dying, and had but a chance of escaping upon the stairs, she threw herself down.

At Lancaster, indignation meetings have been held protesting against the proposed constitution. The meetings were held at the Lancaster Hotel. The meeting was held to consolidate the counties of Garrard and Rockcastle.

Mr. Beckner, of Clark, on the BRU, offered a resolution to apply the direct tax fund, of which this state has hope of getting $500,000, to the common schools in the event that such proves to be true. His resolution was referred to the committee on education.

An amendment to limit the salary of the governor to the amount now allowed by law ($5,000) was rejected after a debate of two hours, as well as one to provide that no state officer shall receive a compensation in excess of that of the governor.

An additional section proposing to create the office of county treasurer was again rejected by a vote of 31 to 16. The report was ordered engrossed and referred to the committee on style for correction of errors.

The convention adjourned till Monday when the report on the legislative department will be taken up. The only part of that report remaining is the three sections relating to the legislative apportionment.

Characteristics of English women.

The English woman is truly an anomaly. She has engaged the court for two days and a half, returned a verdict ally, and her ways are most extraordinarily and past all divining. She appears on Oxford or Regent street in the morning in native cloth and furs up to her ears; at 5 o'clock she will receive a call from a man who will bring her for a cup of tea in a heavy plush robe with high Medici collar; and then in the evening you will discover her at the theater or opera in a filmy gown, extremely décolleté, as though such a thing were still unknown in Fordland.

don. Later you will find her in the lobby—or perhaps on the sidewalk—in slippers and openwork stockings, a sortie du bal thrown around her shoulders by a bareheaded, candle-waiting from five to fifteen minutes for a brougham.

And still she lives. Perhaps one reason why her head is so well protected from the cold is the mass of hair she piles on—puffs, frizzes and curls—I fear me two-thirds of it false. Seldom is the hair dressed low on the head, and to have it undule, or waved at the sides, is the latest fancy. Then, for the head-dress is a jet or gold fillet, a ribbon bandeau tied on the top in a bow, or a flexible serpent in gold or silver is coiled through puffs and curls, with the head resting on the brow. The

I lost my own umbrella and my wife's as well. They cost $15 between them. Since then I have carried a cane on pleasant days and I never lose an umbrella. It's great economy."—Albany Express.

It has been raining out-worms in Virginia.

The Arkansas State Senate has passed a bill calling a Constitutional Convention.

The Illinois Legislature is having a hard time trying to make a United States Senator.

The searchers for Government pay will take a rest while the President is off on his hunt.

When the Fifty-first Congress shuffled off its mortal coil the force bill was lost in the shuffle.

Mr. Clardy has declared that he is opposed to the new treasury scheme. It is better late than not all.

The Farmers' Alliance doth continue to grow, and the membership in this State is now quite formidable.

It is said that Thomas Reed, of Maine, very loathsome to in any wise refer to the Fifty-second Congress in his presence.

Again the rumor is afloat that the Constitutional Convention is trying to arrange for adjournment about the first of next month.

W. S. BAILEY, of Carroll county, has announced as a candidate for reelection as County Representative in the next General Assembly.

The rules and regulations under which the Democrat nomination for County Representative is to be held, appear elsewhere in this impression.

GOLDEN GRANGE has been doing considerable work in the last month, and the farmers in the Gunpowder neighborhood are taking more interest in the order, and recently had a lecturer from Ohio to visit them.

The convention has reconsidered and concluded to let the persons take a hand in the business of enacting laws under the new dispensation, provided vox populi concludes to allow the new dispensation inaugurated.

The Democratic candidates for the nomination for State officers are quite busy now, and Messrs. Clay and Clardy have but little time to spend in the Constitutional Convention if they expect to keep Brown from coming under the string in the lead.

The two Houses of the Covington Congress are at loggerheads over the appropriation bill. They split on the item of $500 allowed Judge Menzies, Judge of the Chancery Court, for making Covington the place of his residence. It is a Republican row over a Democrat official's salary.

In this issue will be found the announcement of Hon. N. S. Walton as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Representative. Mr. Walton's acquaintance is general throughout the county, and, therefore, he needs no introduction to the Democrats on the part of the Recorder.

It has been apparent for some time that there are quite a number of members in the Constitutional Convention who have their hearts set on being members of the next General Assembly, but it is also equally apparent that they will be left. People can recognize but become when they see it without it being labeled.

There is no surplus in the Treasury at the close of business last Wednesday, was less than $90,000. It was reduced during the preceding week by $90,000,000, being the pension requirement for the next quarter. The drain on the Treasury from that source will now cease for three months, and the surplus is expected to gradually look up once more.

Judge COLMAN FITCH, who recently died in Meade county, in his 90th year, was the oldest Mason in the State. His wife was a daughter of Enoch Boone, a nephew of Daniel Boone. Judge Fitch was initiated into the mysteries of the Masonic order in Lawrenceburg, Indiana, in the year 1820, and sat in lodge with General Lafayette when he visited this country.

That letter of Cleveland's on the free coinage of silver it seems has not taken him entirely out of the contest for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Some of the prominent Democrats of the country, although not in accord with Cleveland on the silver question, are of the opinion that he is the man to lead the party, and that the nomination for the

Under the Australian ballot system, Burlington, Vt., has elected the first Democratic mayor in 20 years.

In the Fifty-first Congress 14,063 bills were introduced in the House and 5,129 in the Senate. Of these 2,186 became laws.

Ninety-three bills for the erection of public buildings were passed by the last session of Congress, carrying appropriations of $12,675,639.

The State Board of Equalization met in Frankfort yesterday, to equalize the valuations as between the 119 counties, which the county assessors has placed upon the property in the State for this year.

The Convention says the Public Printer has not proper facilities in his office for printing the Convention Record. The people say that the Convention is not possessed of proper facilities for making a constitution.—Commonwealth.

Nearly every distillery in the State is running in full operation and there is an over-production of whisky. Last year there was purchased 30,000,000 gallons but the annual consumption of Kentucky

The opinion of the country is fast setting against it, and less calmer reflection shall bring the people to a halt and then enable them to despatchly institute a comparison between the present and the proposed system, the new constitution, we predict, will be defeated by 100,000 votes.—Interior Journal.

Ed Jackson, who was arrested in Greenup county, a few days ago, on suspicion of robbing railroad cars, has confessed to killing a man in Logan county, stealing several horses and having four wives—one in Adams county, Ky., one in Portsmouth, O., and one in fronton. He also confessed having deserted from the regular army, and to serving a term in the Ohio Penitentiary.

When our public prosecutor is to be chosen by Davies county alone, the gamblers and other law violators of Owensboro will never fail to elect their man. Without the "conservative" votes of the back counties as a check upon them, they will carry the day every time. This is what the County Attorney system proposed by the Constitutional Convention will do for this community.—Messenger.

Senator Hearst is dead, but he fulfilled his promise to keep life in his body so long as any remained in the corps of the force bill. Six Republican millionaires are now bidders for his Democratic reindeer. Heretofore Senatorial seats are said to have brought $330,000 in the California market. According to the great law of supply and demand, we may look for a sharp advance in the market.—Louisville Times.

Our county is rapidly gaining a very unenviable reputation by its numerous murders recently. We have now three prisoners in jail charged with murder, and one other at large who has not been arrested. One peculiarity about this is that in the cases of the three who are in jail, there are no witnesses to the killing and the defense in each case is that it was done in self-defense.—Harradburg News.

George B. Warren, of Staunton, was here the other day, looking up some deeds dating back to 1801, for some town parties. The deeds, it is claimed, are for the present site of Middleborough, and search was made for them here because this place, at that time, the county seat of the vast wilderness east of the Virginia line. The town parties have brought suit against the Middleborough Town Company.—Harradburg Democrat.

Judge Boyd, whose court district lies in southeastern Kentucky, is down on the professional jury. "A man without any business," said he, recently, "is not fit for a juryman." There are some people who think they can refuse to serve on a jury simply because they have business. Business men are the kind of juryman we want, and when aman gives as an excuse for not answering a summons that he has business on hand, it is worse than no excuse at all.

The cost to the government of Senator Beck's funeral was $5,000. The Washington undertaker presented a bill of $735.95 for carriages in Washington, 8131; railroad fare to and from Lexington, $1,833.25; hotel bill in Lexington for entertaining the party one day, $499.75; undertaker's bill in Lexington for taking the remains from the depot to the grave, $145; meals, lunches, champagne taken by the party while on the train, $729.05. Other incidental items foot up the $5,000.

The Frankfort Argus says: There should be something done to limit the liquor trade. So long as a person is able to drink, he can secure liquor; and it does not change matters if the person is a known inebriate. There should be a responsibility placed on some one and protection given to the unfortunate lover of intoxicants. There is a large number of this class in this city that can get liquor at all times, whether under its influence or not. Something should be done to prevent this.

Mr. J. Len Ballard, of White Station, this county, has a horse belt that belonged to Squire Boone, brother of the famous old pioneer, Daniel Boone. It has his name and the date upon it. Squire Boone erected a large stone and put upon it his name and the date. This is yet to be seen near White Station, and is illustrated in Collins' History of Kentucky. Mr. Ballard will apply to the next Court of Claims for an appropriation to remove the rock and set it up in the Court House yard, with a strong iron fence around it, the bell to surround the rock. Chancellor Blanton wants the rock for the museum of Central University. The relics should be preserved.—Richmond Clinax.

It is thought that Senator Canine, of Kentucky, has Presidential aspirations, and will seek the Democratic nomination in 1892. It will be remembered that though a lifelong Democrat he was not a "Confederate"—Bentonville (Ark.) Democrat.

But in the matter of Presidents some consider a person an alien if he live south of Mason and Dixon's line.

SOME of the delegates in the Constitutional Convention wanted to appoint a revisory committee to go over work done and call from it parts as should go into the Constitution, and report them to the Convention. The proposition was rejected. Probably a very large number of delegates were afraid to submit their pet clauses to a pruning committee.

On examining the marriage license record in the County Clerk's office, we were satisfied that Billy Crider and Herbert Walton, two heart "smashers," of Petersburg, were not in town, last Friday night on a "want to get married" mission—something else.

PETERSBURG.

A correspondent from this place a few weeks ago writing over the signature of "XXXX" asked me in regard to what I said to the Walton correspondent. Guess this person wanted the people of Boone county to know that he is a prohibitionist, and as might be expected, was against Capt. Terrill. Well, as is to be expected, he is a Democrat, and he need not bother himself any more about the legislative race. And as to our "shoot wide of the mark," we don't claim to be a George Washington, and if he never told us he will be in a dime museum in less than a month, as one of the queerest freaks of human nature on record.

Our nearest and best neighbor, N. S. Walton, is a case which has puzzled the town. There is no use for any excitement in this precinct, as some think there will be. Go to the polls and vote for your choice and all will be well.

It is said that the widow of Louis Caldwell, who was killed in the battle of a few months ago, has used the Distilling Company for damages.

Col. Tom Acra, the blind postmaster of Aurora, Ill., has traded for the Buellville & Dry Creek turnpike.

Mr. William Akis, aged 22 years, is in very poor health.

(From another correspondent.)

There is loss of sickness and the doctor have plenty to do.

The snow last Friday morning was a surprise to everybody.

Most of those layed up with the gripe last week, are out again.

Dr. C. L. Grant, of Louisville, spent last Wednesday in town. He said that the weather was quite cold with typhoid fever, but in some better at this writing.

Mr. Ground Hog struck luck this time for sure. The last six weeks have furnished a fine winter as all the rest put together.

Discussions on the election of Representative, school trustees and the whiskey question, are to be heard at all places and places. The only trouble is one can never tell which side another is on.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone county, Ky., held at Burlington on Monday, March 26, 1891, it is ordered:

1. That a primary election to nominate a candidate for the office of Representative, be held in the various precincts in Boone county on Saturday, April 11th, 1891.

2. That two judges and a clerk for each precinct shall constitute the officers of the election, said officers to be selected and published hereafter and that the polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock in the morning, and shall close at 6 o'clock in the evening. Should any officer fail to serve in any of the precincts, the committee-man of the precinct in which such failure occurs shall select some other Democrat to fill the vacancy.

3. That only Democrats who have identified themselves with the party by voting for the Democratic nominee at the last general election, shall be allowed to vote, but in case the polls failed to vote at said general election, if they are known by the officers of the election, to be Democrats, they shall be entitled to vote. Any one who shall be charged with the vote at the election, 1891 and has never before been charged, shall be allowed to vote without question.

4. That after the polls are closed the vote shall be counted and regularly canvassed by the officers of the election, and the result delivered to the committee-man of the respective precincts, and on the following Monday, April 13th, the Dem. Ex. Com. shall convene at the Court-house in Burlington, Ky., at 10 o'clock p. m., and count the vote for the candidates, and the candidate receiving the largest number of votes shall be declared the nominee. In case any of the committee-men cannot take charge of the poll books and deliver them in person to the said committee, they shall appoint some reliable Democrat to act in their place and perform the duties herein prescribed.

5. That at the Annual election, 1891, the Dem. Ex. Com. shall convene at the Court-house in Boone county, said county to be held of the election of the various precincts with poll-books properly prepared, and request the said clerks to take the vote at every legal vote of whatever political party, upon the question of the repeal of the Local Liquor Law enacted for Boone county, approved April 14th, 1880. The clerks shall be requested to take the vote of the voters of the county for or against repealing the liquor law as applied to Boone County? and shall faithfully record the vote as desired by the voter. The result of this election shall be transmitted by the clerk to the Dem. Ex. Com., and communicated to the Representative elect, who shall be requested to act in his official capacity in accordance with the majority of the votes as cast upon this question.

Done by order of the Committee.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

As the time is drawing nigh for the people of Boone county to name a general assembly for the next General Assembly of Kentucky, I think it would be proper, right and just, for the man who is not yet elected to stand by the people in their common interests, and try to devise some way that we might have better and more efficient roads on which to travel and carry our produce to market, instead of being compelled to let it rot or be destroyed on account of poor facilities of transportation.

"We, the people" of the U. S. declare ourselves to be living in one of the most backward and undeveloped of the world, and we are not yet able to stand by the people in their common interests, and try to devise some way that we might have better and more efficient roads on which to travel and carry our produce to market, instead of being compelled to let it rot or be destroyed on account of poor facilities of transportation.

THE PRESENT ADMINISTRATION.
Damage Done the Country by Two Years of Mismanagement.
President Harrison has completed

one-half of his administration. It would be difficult, if not impossible, to match it in the history of our country in turbulence and corruption. Its record is such as to make it a disgrace to the American name.

such as no American, with a feeling of respect and love for his country, can contemplate with indifference. It is a record of evil administration, of foul deeds, of betrayal of the people.

The sacred trust which Grover Cleveland surrendered into the hands of Benjamin Harrison, two years ago, unstilled and unstained, has been dragged in the mire of corruption, and is now the scoff and scorn of the world. Every department of the government, which was then a model of honest, economical administration, has since become an unclean thing, permeated with the poison of the spoils system, rank partisanship and private aggrandisement.

The ordinary expenses of government have vastly increased, 'till each department has become a reservoir of corruption, extravagance, favoritism and abuse of power. The treasury has been

The pension office is rotten to the core. One wretched, discredited commissioner has been kicked out, and a worse one put in his place. The Indian bureau has been conducted in such a manner that an expensive war has been precipitated on the country, and religious bigotry has been permitted to injure the conduct of the Indian schools. The land grabbers have again swooped down on the country, and the people are down upon the public domain, and the census has evoked the heartiest condemnation of the entire country. There is not one redeeming feature about the entire administration of the war.

The navy department has gone into the expensive and wholly unauthorized business of aping the extravagance of European nations by the building of battle ships which this country does not need. The war department has exbilitated a proneness toward the demoralization of discipline in the army, as the recent Indian outbreak sufficiently showed.

The Sunday-school Chadband, who was taken from his bargain counter in Philadelphia and made postmaster general as a reward for his contribution to the war effort, is the man who would have taken advantage of the necessities of war.

The treasury department has been managed with a view toward covering up the frightful drains made upon it, falsifying the real situation and concealing from the country the true state of things. In every sense of the word the Harrison administration has proved a disgrace to the country, a shame to our race, and a blot upon the annals of our history. The elements are too scant to conceal the too marks that disgrace him.—Chicago Times.

Don't forget that Hon. John Young Brown will make a speech in Burlington next Monday.
The Chicago Democratic convention split and the result is clear. The Chicago party has a candidate for Mayor of the city.
The Capital removal question is proving quite annoying, and it is one that the delegates are sorry they had to encounter.
The candidates for the Democratic nomination for Representative have but a few more days to huddle in this county.
The Kansas Alliance leaders have issued a manifesto laying the blame for the failure of legislation upon the Republican Senate.
Americans are purchasing large herds of Canadian cattle to send to England in an endeavor to finally introduce American cattle.
The Convention will soon begin to round up its work, and attempt to digest all that has been done. Then is when the real fun will begin.
The Mississippi River Commission has been notified by the War Department that the allotment of $250,000 for levee emergencies between Memphis and New Orleans is now available.
In 1841, President Harrison appointed a postmaster at Shrub Oak, Westchester county, New York. That appointee held the office continuously until week before last, when he died. The salary was $175 per year.
Storm weather as we have had during the most of this month caused great delay of farmers' work, and they grow quite restless under such circumstances. But they must bear in mind that patience is a virtue.
Poor Chicago! Her condition is certainly deplorable. Her atmosphere swarms with la grippe microbes, while her citizens are dying by the thousands every week from the grippe, and to make things yet still worse there are five tickets for the city office in the field.
The Washington Critic gives the following as what it believes will be the standing of the candidates for the first ballot for the next Speakership: Mills, 75; Crisp, 45; McKim, 27; Bynum, 18. Mills' nomination, it says, will be made on the third ballot in the caucus.
The Governor of a Southern State is in correspondence with the Governors of all the other hanging States, for the purpose of making an arrangement by which no one shall be hung on Friday. This is done to remove the odium which attaches to Friday as "hang-man's day."
The Owensboro Messenger is so enthusiastically in favor of John Young Brown that its political organs may be slightly deranged. But, be that as it may, it says this on the subject of the race for Governor: "It looks very much like Mr. Brown is getting the gubernatorial race in a slig. Private admissions from close friends of the other candidates are that their favorites are discouraged, and it is conceded that the Henderson man's nomination is more than probable."
VINCENT, who, in 1883, was Treasurer of Alabama, and accompanied with $200,000 of the State's money, but was afterward captured and sent to the penitentiary, has given notice that he intends to apply for a pardon at the hands of the Governor at an early day. He says that if the people of Alabama demand his life of him he will cheerfully yield it up, but that unless he secure Executive clemency he will have to die in prison, as he is now an old man and broken in health.
A NOVEL, but pleasant and proper ceremony recently at Chicago, was the dedication of the new residence of a family, by the pastor and members of the church to which the family belonged. The exercises opened with the singing of "Sweet Home," and was followed by a brief responsive service, arranged for the occasion and ending with sentiments suitable to the occasion. The home fire was lighted by the wife and mother, the evening lamp by the husband and father, and the baby fingers of the little one were pressed into service in lighting up the lights around the table. Original songs composed by the family, a brief prayer, and the ceremony completed the exercises. The same Republican organ never admitted the possibility of his making a mistake. The Republican brethren are like Russian wolves; when one of the pack comes to grief, the others fall upon and tear him to pieces.
The Government of Santo Domingo has appointed Manuel Jesus Galvan as Minister to the United States, and it is understood that he is especially instructed to negotiate a reciprocity treaty with this country. Mr. Galvan negotiated the treaty of 1884 with the United States, which was never ratified by the Senate.
The Capital removal question waxeth warm at Frankfort.
No war with our Italians yet. They have done considerable loud talking and much resolving in regard to those lynched at New Orleans.
Born the Democrats and the Republicans have their team of candidates up for city offices to be filled at the spring election in Cincinnati, and the buns are now in clover.
The month of March is gone but it left a great quantity of mud and water behind. March was a very bad month for the farmer, and but little in his line has been accomplished since February.
The Constitutional Convention will be the proper thing if it creates the office of State Bank and Inspector. Banks are becoming quite numerous in this State, and there is some means by which the responsibility of these institutions can be looked into occasionally.
The National Association of Democratic Clubs has received a circular letter addressed to Democratic clubs throughout the United States inviting them to appropriately celebrate the anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, which occurs on the second day of April.
How many young women can be found that have the grit of the following described by an exchange: "A merchant in Syracuse ordered a young woman twenty yards of silk if she would save half a cord of wood in front of his store. She borrowed a saw, split on her hands, and went through the wood pile in just three hours, and the admiring crowd bought her a $12 bonnet to go with the dress."
The committee appointed to investigate the charges of bribery in connection with finding of scraps of paper in the State Library, during the recent Senatorial contest in California, reported to the Senate last week that the money for bribery had come from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, but who handled the money, the committee failed to ascertain. It appears that California is to sustain her reputation for seasoning her Senatorial contests with brood.
The Post is waging a lively war against the Covington pool rooms. The proprietors of the rooms have been arrested several times and placed under bonds for their appearance at Circuit Court, but last week they changed Justice for the trial of one day's arrest, and he dismissed the prosecution on the grounds that the selling of pools is a continuous offense, and that each day's sales does not constitute a separate offense. The ruling of the court created great dissatisfaction among those urging the prosecution.
A Lively war is brewing in Alliance circles in this State, between those who adhere to ex-President Erwin and those who oppose him. Since he was retired as the official head of the Alliance in the State, he has been very energetic in presenting his side of the trouble to the county Unions, and has succeeded in working up quite a strong following that proposes to back him, and a number of Unions have adopted resolutions endorsing his course in regard to the Tobacco Growers' Association and express confidence in his sincerity in that matter. Interesting times are looked for, and Erwin may come out on top yet.
The following is the announcement of Green B. Adams for Clerk of the Court of Appeals:
To the people of Kentucky—heretofore announces myself a candidate for the clerkship of the Court of Appeals, which office has been made vacant by the death of Mr. W. V. Longmire. In seeking this position, I am actuated neither by a desire for its emoluments, nor by any aspiration for preferment. If elected, I shall ask and receive only the compensation I now receive as deputy in the office, and I shall faithfully report and pay over to Mr. Longmire's widow (my sister), every dollar which Mr. Longmire would have earned from the office had he lived. It is to protect her interest and from no other consideration that I ask your suffrage. It is her claim, not mine, I present. Your generous support will enable me to perform this act of justice. I shall conscientiously and to the best of my ability discharge the duties imposed upon me.
GREEN B. ADAMS, State Minister.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
To the Editors of the Recorder:
McKinley is understood to be making a very bold strike to put himself in line of succession to President Harrison, while the latter is disposed to succeed himself. There is a very interesting game between them for honors. The Ohio statesman is said to have laid out a campaign for himself which, unless he is less sanguine than his close friends are, he expects to lead to the White House. He wants to be elected Governor on the tariff issue and upon his authority of that law he bases his claim upon his party for higher honors. He is said to believe that he is strong enough and great enough and that the cause is good enough to overcome all the prejudice the Democrats have excited against the measure, and he is going to set himself about it. He is complacent and sanguine. His speech in Boston is but the first of a number he expects to make wherever occasion offers. He is a good speaker on the tariff question, and may make some impression, but it is very probable that the Democrats will send a good speaker, well informed on the tariff question, along with him in his State canvass or follow close behind him. If McKinley is not very careful he may be defeated in Ohio for governor as he was for Congress. If the Democrats can cure the trouble they are in over the Board of Public Works business in Cincinnati, they can beat him on the tariff issue in his race for governor if he gets the nomination. The Democrats are glad that there is a purpose to make the McKinley tariff idea the platform of the Republican party, and they are particularly pleased that both of the principal candidates for the Republican nomination are willing to stand on that platform to make the fight. President Harrison is said to be disposed to let McKinley take all the credit for the tariff legislation of the Fifty-first Congress or for the rest of its work, but would give the world to understand that the Administration took a very active part in making that legislation possible. He is said to be determined to have his share of the credit for the last Congress, even at the risk of having some of its heavy responsibilities fall upon him.
The women of this country, who desire the rights of the ballot box in addition to those they now have in the band box, saw in the resolutions of the Republican State league of Massachusetts yesterday, a ray of hope as brilliant and as pleasing in prospect as the rainbow. These resolutions were to the effect that whereas in the late terrific cyclone, which swept the Republican party out of Congress and on to the desolate shores of public disapproval, only in those sections where women had some degree of suffrage, had the party been able to preserve a semblance of itself, therefore it was the duty of the party "to extend full municipal suffrage to qualified women voters and inviting their aid," &c., &c. This looks somewhat as if the Republicans of Massachusetts had given up the hope of recovering except by the gentle nursing of the women, and that it will soon be in order to run a frill and a tuck around the grand old flag as emblem of the new order of things.
Major Stoddard, formerly District Attorney of San Francisco is stopping at Walker's. He left the Pacific coast two weeks ago, stopped in New York and had a long chat with Mr. Cleveland, and he is convinced that the ex-President is not out of the race. Major Stoddard is an ardent Democrat, and he says nothing would please him better than to see Harrison renominated for the Presidency. "Why," he said, "Cleveland would have a walkover. He would carry California, and I believe, Nevada against Harrison. Outside of the office holders Harrison has no following in California. Cleveland has not hurt himself by his anti-free silver letter."
Treasurer Lousion left Washington yesterday for a short visit to his home in Connersville, Indiana. He said that the sole purpose of his visit is to see his wife and daughter who are ill. He said that the President had not yet acted on his resignation, and has given no intimation of his intention in that direction.
The recently organized bureau in statistics of the Mexican Government has just published tables showing the commerce of Mexico during the fiscal year 1899. The total value of imports for 1899 was $40,044,894, and the duties collected thereon were $22,467,982, or 56 per cent. The United States had the list of countries whence goods were imported with $22,089,420 in value of imports and $9,168,787 in duties. England ranks next, value, $6,337,980; duties, $5,383,870.
Now the Republican organs are talking about the mistakes of Mr. Tappan. Before the farmers took him by the nape of the neck and dropped him outside the Senate walls, the same Republican organ never admitted the possibility of his making a mistake. The Republican brethren are like Russian wolves; when one of the pack comes to grief, the others fall upon and tear him to pieces.

"Terrill completely. You ought to have been there."

We walked on, and propounded the same question to the next man, and this was the reply:

"Oh, I tell you, Terrill acquitted himself. He will carry this product by a large majority."

So we were no wiser than before we asked each other the matter. So I went through his own speech, and I went on mentally getting the old couplet:

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree,
And learned casuists differ, like you and me?"

Seven years spent swiftly by, and Frank's sister lay upon her deathbed. Deceased were not upon the track of her brother. All the detective agencies in the country were furnished his description, and directed to look for him.

Three more years passed away. A favorite cousin, the wife of an army officer, was in command of the post at that place. Today they were dining, as usual, at the Valley Hotel. A detective looking young man sat at a table near them and observed the lady attentively.

Having finished eating he passed out through the door and asked the clerk if the lady was Mrs. Wheeler. Being answered in the affirmative, he added, "she is my own cousin."

"Do you see that handsome young man just going out?"

"Yes."

"She married quickly, observed him more closely, a flood of recognition came over her, and she called sharply, "Frank!"

The man went on as though he didn't hear, but she ran after him and caught him. A pathos scene followed, in which both actors were moved to tears. The lady wept, and the man to his parents, who are now old and feeble, but he remained obdurate firm in his intentions never to return.

KANSAS CITY JAIL.

Attacked by a Mob, Being to a New Guard, Murderer McCoy Killed.

A crowd of 600 negroes attacked the county jail at Kansas City Wednesday night with the intention of lynching W. McCoy, who brutally murdered his mistress, Nellie McFadden, last Sunday by beating her head to a jelly with a brick.

McCoy was made last Monday at the time of his preliminary trial, but the prison was so well guarded that the attempt was abandoned. The sheriff concluded that the excitement among the negroes had subsided sufficiently to warrant the withdrawal of the extra guards, and when the attack Wednesday night was made it was wholly unexpected.

The colored people gathered quietly about the building, and at 12:45 twenty of their number, masked and otherwise disguised, broke into the rear door and immediately proceeded to that part of the building which is partitioned off for a jail. This is a small room, and the door was opened by a stout iron door. Only the guard was on duty. He drew his revolver and tried to shoot at the mob, but they approached the door. The committee of twenty, after some preliminary withdrawal and joined their comrades at the rear door. The door was opened by a stout iron door. Only the guard was on duty. BLOODY RIOT.

The Fight Occurs at a Fire, Through Obstructing Firemen.

Firemen, Police, Beasts and Merchants in Melee, and Who is Credited with the New Injury.

A serious riot occurred at Kingston, just across the river from Wilkesbarre, Pa., Thursday afternoon, while the fire brigade was engaged in extinguishing a fire. Mitchell Duffy, from Edwardsville, forced his way into the fire, and the firemen turned the hose on him. A number of Edwardsville men who were watching the fire became angry at this, and jumping over the ropes attacked the firemen severely. The latter stoutly defended themselves, and in the melee Duffy was killed. Duffy was a well-known man in the community, and his death was a great loss. The riot was a result of a dispute over a fire, and it was a very bloody one. Many people were injured, and property was damaged. The firemen and police were unable to control the riot, and it was only after a long and hard fight that the riot was brought to a end. The cause of the riot was a dispute over a fire, and it was a very bloody one. Many people were injured, and property was damaged. The firemen and police were unable to control the riot, and it was only after a long and hard fight that the riot was brought to a end.

Congressman Holman has talked quite freely about the last session of Congress, and his interview is being widely printed. "I was bad in its methods," said he, "and in all its surroundings, and worst of all it has made a precedent which will likely have a bad influence upon the country for all time." It has raised the standard by which extravagance will be judged in the future and render greater extrava-a bad influence dominated. Some very warm admirers of Mr. Reed dropped around him, but with the possible exception of Mr. Keifer, I think there has never been a Speaker or before, who has made as many enemies among the members of his own party as has Mr. Reed. Some of the way in which members were dwarfed by the particular methods which were in practice. These methods, the utter disregard of methods and the unprecident extravagance of the Congress will furnish an evil precedent for the future, and the trouble is that the very worst precedents are often followed, especially when it comes to the expenditure of public money. The people will probably expect the next Congress to cut down the appropriations of this Congress

by $1,000,000. But this will be very difficult to do. It is difficult to curtail an extravagance already precedents of the late Congress un-

The old woman who plays the hand-streets has a history, according to the Philadelphia correspondent of the Columbia Times. "I was born," she said, "on the 4th day of August, 1817, in Werland, Sweden, and am now, you see, seventy-two years of age. My mother is Anna Svenson. That is not my full name, but is enough and will do. Our family name was well known in Sweden, and also in Russia; in fact, our family is Russian.

"The time of Catherine our family states were of the largest held by the nobility. My mother was a direct descendant of the Vasa dynasty. I never know, as she lived when I was born.

You see that on my mother's side I am of royal lineage, and on my father's side

I descended from the president of the ancient aristocracy. My father was a proud man, morose and stern in the extreme.

The soldiers in their summer camp at Viary where he commanded would often be flogged by his orders for some trifling offense.

"I remember little of Wermland, for as a child my time was passed in the school at Stockholm, and as a young man, but as poor as a rat when I was born. When I was twenty years old I wrote at our Stockholm home, and of the friends at the palace, or at Drottningholm. I was the special favorite of Princess Eugenie. I was constantly her companion. She loved me and spoke to me as if I were her own child. I had met at court balls and receptions.

I had during that summer met very many of the nobles and talked and loved them until I found that I

TERROR IN ROME.

Moments of Dimmy Throughout the Entire City.

Called by the Explosion of Tons of Powder in the Powder Mill, a Large Number Wounded.

About 7 o'clock Thursday morning a tremendous explosion shook Rome to its foundations, spreading terror and dismay on all sides. The people rushed from their homes into the streets, houses rocked, pictures fell from the walls, thousands of panes of glass were shattered everywhere, crockery was shattered, furniture was overturned, chimneys crashed down upon the roofs, and, in some instances, toppled over the public vias the debris is being cleared away and the work of temporary repair inaugurated. Much of the destruction wrought by the explosion is irreparable, as the valuable works of art which have been destroyed can not be replaced. Many of the windows are shattered, and in some cases the windows can not be replaced, and the real cause of the explosion became known. It was discovered that the explosion was caused by a small quantity of powder which had been placed in the room by a young man named the deputed sheriff. The deputed sheriff was killed by the explosion, and the young man was killed by the explosion.

BOMBS SHAKED.

Shook Irreparable Damage the Result of the Explosion in the Powder Mill, a Large Number Wounded.

The explosion of 355 tons of gunpowder Thursday in the powder mill at Pozzo Panico, near Rome, which caused serious damage and loss of life, created great alarm at the Vatican. All the windows of the Pope's library were broken and a number of precious relics were destroyed. In addition many valuable panes of colored glass in the principal windows of St. Peter's Basilica were smashed to pieces. The handsome stained-glass window over the chair of St. Peter was also broken. At St. Paul's Church all the stained-glass windows were damaged. In fact the damage done at this church was so great that the building has been closed for the public view the debris is being cleared away and the work of temporary repair inaugurated. Much of the destruction wrought by the explosion is irreparable, as the valuable works of art which have been destroyed can not be replaced. Many of the windows are shattered, and in some cases the windows can not be replaced, and the real cause of the explosion became known. It was discovered that the explosion was caused by a small quantity of powder which had been placed in the room by a young man named the deputed sheriff. PEDAGOGUE HARRISON'S PUPILS Trouble breeding in the Republican schoolhouse.

We have all a troublesome of the young who married a troublesome old President. Harrison is reported as having received the cabinet because he thought he could manage him better there than anywhere else. He wedded him to the administration in order to get rid of him. But it is always harder to manage a man after marriage than before.

Harrison is flouting Blaine a much more serious problem to handle than he has had before. He has been left cornered.

A silver on a board is much more difficult to handle than a silver on a table. The silver in the air is much more difficult to handle than in a man's eye.

Harrison has voluntarily struck this silver in his own flesh so that he may keep it. He has given up his own free will to be struck away by his sinner's own sin.

In order that he may keep it in the air. He is welcome to the comforting of his sin. He is welcome to the comforting of his sin. He is welcome to the comforting of his sin.

Divided the Billion.

"Where did all that money go?" is a common question regarding the appropriations of the billion-dollar congress.

A good deal of it went in appropriations to promote the reelection of republican leaders of congress.

New York World dragged a few million grabs to light. Mr. Cannon took $100,000 for a post office in his own little town of Danville. Mr. Cullum got $50,000 for a building in his village of Beaver Falls. Senator Ingalls carried $100,000 of the plundered $1,000,000.

Washington. The California members of the appropriation committees of the $1,000,000 for their state. Wisconsin share was $350,000. Mr. McKim took $100,000 for his own little Wisconsin share. These little sums will add up to a billion dollars by a good deal, if they are enough to show that the appropriation was rampant and that the republican statesmen were in a hurry to buy their way out of it all they could get. Luckily it is not so many years before they have an opportunity to loot the treasury—The Globe.

Time has been when money was used in Kenton county to haul out loads of purchasable voters to attend county conventions. Judge Independence, taking away the control of the party from Democrats and electing county nominees. But until Mr. Clay's canvass for the governorship, no gentleman was known to the art of the ward politician as he is called in the lingo of money and omnibuses to procure an endorsement of the Democracy of Kenton—nor any other county in Kentucky.

It is time, therefore, for the Democracy of Kenton county to denounce in unmeasured terms the coming of a candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people of Kentucky with check book in hand to pay the voters of the county.

Let every Democrat and especially every farmer Democrat of the county, be at Independence on Saturday, May 10, prepared to show his vote as a Democrat, and to show his vote as a Democrat, and to show his vote as a Democrat.

Of course the Common wealth knows what it speaks when it makes the above charges, and expects the voters of Mr. Clay. It is such conduct on the part of candidates as that above mentioned that is bringing the institutions of our government into disrepute and the Democracy into contempt.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
L. W. Lassing, Phil.
The Commissioners of Boone County.
This is an application for a writ of mandamus requiring the defendants to order the Boone Co. Deposit Bank, as receiver of the tax on the Sheep Farm, to pay certain claims of the plaintiff which appear to have been allowed in accordance with the law by the Boone county court.

For the purpose of this case it would be sufficient to merely grant the writ without giving reasons for doing so, but counsel on both sides have insisted that the court should on all the questions that might arise in this and similar cases, and have stated to the court that much confusion and litigation may be avoided by this court declaring an opinion of wider scope than this case requires.

Under sec. 13 of the act of 28th July, 1887, (act 83, vol. 1, p. 77), any claimant for allowances out of the fund may on or before the 10th day of Jan. next succeeding the injury or killing of the sheep, and not later than the 10th day of Jan. next succeeding the injury or killing of the sheep, and not later than the 10th day of Jan. next succeeding the injury or killing of the sheep.

There are other steps provided for in that section, but it is clearly the law that no claim can be considered that was not filed within the time so fixed.
Under the 14th sec. of that act the County Court, not the County Judge in his mere official character, is to sit as a court of law and to hear and determine all claims for damages to sheep or other property.

JOSEPH C. HENDRICK.

preceding 10th of Jan. The county court was to pass upon claims and, when allowed, claims were to be paid by the receiver on the order of the county court. It is provided in the 13th sec. that parties who desire to contest any claim shall give notice of the time when they will appear before the county court for that purpose. That time must be between the 10th of Jan. and the 1st Monday in Feb. There has not been much business in this regard in the foregoing provision, except that relating to the order for payment.

From the passage of the act of Jan. 28, '84, to the 9th March, '88, sessions of the fund were under the law, appointed by the county court and claims were to be paid by him upon the order of the county court. On the 9th March, '88, (act '87-88 vol. 2, p. 31), the provision for receiver was repealed and the Boone Co. Deposit Bank substituted for or made receiver, and by that same amendment it was provided that the Bank should hold the fund subject to the order of the "Boone County Court of Claims."

The county court, still had all the jurisdiction and power granted by the act of '84, except that the power to order the payment of claims allowed by it had been transferred to the court of claims. It is not to be seen why this was done. No decision was given to the court of claims. It could not revise the action of the county court in allowing or rejecting claims. It could only order the Bank to pay such as had been allowed by the other court and it might not refuse to make the order.

It was still necessary to file claims with the clerk within the year provided by the act of '84, and in which the injury or killing of the sheep was done. It was still necessary for the county court to adjudge upon and reject or allow claims at a court held on or before the first Monday in February next succeeding that 10th of Jan. It is still necessary for the claimant to file his claim with the clerk within the year provided by the act of '84, and in which the injury or killing of the sheep was done.

Before the court of claims, said court being the defendants, could order the payment the claimant must first file a certified copy of the order of the county court allowing the claim. Before the receiver, now the Bank, could pay, it must have a copy of the order of the county court allowing the claim, and the order of the court of claims directing the payment presented to it and demand made. This continued to be the law until 12th Feb. '90.

By the act of that date (act '89-90, p. 237), the power to order the payment of claims was taken from the court of claims and restored to the county court, but the claims arising and allowed before the 12th March, '88 and the 11th Feb. '90, must be paid on the order of the court of claims. Since 12th Feb. '90 and before the 12th March, '88, the court of claims have no function to perform on those dates they have a merely ministerial duty about the performance of which they have no discretion.

By the act of 9th of March, 1888, and from that date to 12th Feb. '90, the fund was insufficient to pay the total amount of claims arising in and upon the fund, and the portion thereof after paying the proportionate part of claims as provided by sec. 14 of the act of '84, was to be charged to the fund paid out of the fund collected in the preceding year. With this provision the court of claims is not concerned. If such a claim should arise it would be for the county court to make the allowance and for the court of claims only to order payment as allowed.

This provision was repealed by the act of Feb. 12th, '90, by which it was further provided that the county court should have the power to increase the tax not to exceed $1 on dogs and $2 on bitches, and after all claims old and new are paid to decrease the tax to prevent too much surplus accumulating.

It seems a fair construction of this amendment that it was intended to provide for the payment in full of all claims which have heretofore been "presented and passed on and allowed" in strict conformity with the law.

Those who have suffered a loss which is to be paid out of a tax imposed on others ought not to be forced to complain, if by their own negligence they have failed to provide for the payment in full of all claims which have heretofore been "presented and passed on and allowed" in strict conformity with the law.

THE GREAT EXPOSITION.

Some Late Information Regarding the World's Fair

What the Government Will Do to Make It a Grand Success—Two Unique Structures Described by the Designer.

The government's exhibit at the world's fair in 1893 promises to be one of the most interesting features of the exposition. The naval exhibit will certainly be so. James H. Windrum, supervising architect of the treasury, presented an alternate plan for a government building last February.

This was offered at the invitation of some of the authorities, who believed that the plans already regarded as the best for the exposition were not the best.

The new plans were made to show a structure of greater central elevation of polygonal form, reducing the original outer lines, covering the space of 430 by 380 feet allotted to the uses of the government. The first plans were designed to provide a building within the cost of $400,000 authorized by the congress. As the later, or "alternate," plan contemplated an expenditure of $800,000, and the congress was opposed to extending the appropriation, the first plan was retained, and will be followed in the construction of the building.

There are as yet no plans of the details of the interior, either to show the location of exhibits or style.

GREAT FOREST FIRES.

Working Tremendous Destruction in New Jersey.

The Country Lighted Up for Miles Around, and One Village Has Been Destroyed.

The forest and most disastrous fire on record in Atlantic county, N. J., for thirty years was raging Thursday in the vicinity of Conventown and Port Republic, and the heavens were illuminated like noonday. Thursday morning the flames in the neighborhood of the places mentioned took fire from a spark from an engine.

The heavy westerly wind which was blowing at the time fanned the flames and the flames soon spread to the large pines and in a short time the whole forest of pines was like a raging furnace. The air was filled with smoke and the roaring of the rushing flames could be heard the thunder of the forest fires and oaks.

The path of the fire steadily widened, and the flames spread in several directions, completely enveloping the whole forest and changing the wind the town of Absecon was saved from destruction, but the fire of the woods on the ridge path, a mile and a half from the town, was not so fortunate.

One of the globes was loaded, which would take ten to fifteen minutes to be set in motion to the reverse position, starting very slowly and accelerating to a rapid motion to the position of the globe.

The most popular feature of the exhibition will be the exhibit of the navy department. Capt. R. W. Meade, U. S. N., suggested some time ago that as the navy would have a large and very interesting contribution to make to the exposition it would be desirable to present it as an object lesson in a structure resembling as closely as possible one of the latest designs of the constructors of the navy.

The structure met with prompt approval, both for its novelty and practicality. Instead of arranging the exhibit in a hall, as was the case with the other exhibits, it will be put in a structure resembling in every detail a ten-story naval vessel.

WASHINGTON LETTER
To the Editors of the Recorder:
There is a vast accumulation of matters requiring attention from the State Department just now and the Secretary will probably have a very busy day during the summer. The events in the Chilian situation have added to the complexity of affairs, and there is now a long list of unsolved diplomatic problems as follows: The Italian, the Behring Sea complication, the Canadian reciprocity scheme, the Newfoundland fishery business, the Chilian middle, the Spanish agreement, the Venezuelan treaty, the Haytian grant of a coaling station, the refusal of China to take our minister, the trouble over the failure of a counsel at Victoria to take the queen, and quite a number of minor matters, including the claim of the Barrundia family. The grand jury reached the same conclusion concerning the New Orleans affair that has been already expressed by fair minded men throughout the civilized world. Society will protect itself when the ordinary machinery for its protection fails. Under such circumstances it is unexampled to indict an entire population, for the affair had the countenance and support of society. The report of the jury may be considered as a final answer to the demands of Italy. It is difficult to see what the United States Government has now to do with the matter but to accept the results of the inquiry of the grand jury under the laws of Louisiana, and with that result it is probable that the government of Italy will have to be content. Only one of the victims is known to have been a subject of Italy, and he was an escaped convict. If Italy demands an indemnity for the life of this convict it will be for congress to decide whether it shall be paid.

A Rollo of Old Slavery Days.
A leading business man gives the particulars of the romantic life of a woman of color who died in the Chalmers Hospital, New Orleans, La., Thursday. The woman was Phoebe Moore, an aged colored woman of such high complexion that she was generally thought to be white. She was born a slave, being the daughter of a white farmer in Boone county, Ky., and an octroon woman. At the age of 12 years she and her mother were sold to Thos. H. Benton, the great Senator from Missouri, and taken to Washington. When she was 11 years of age Henry Clay, the famous Whig leader, met her, became fascinated with her, and at length purchased the beautiful young slave girl. Up to that time she became, so she stated, Henry Clay's mistress, she having no objection to her being so, and finally gave her freedom. She had two children who have since died. Those freedom papers and the deed of sale from Benton to Clay, Mrs. Moore always kept sacredly, together with a number of letters that Clay wrote to her. After obtaining her freedom, Mrs. Moore went to Memphis and never saw Clay again, though he sometimes wrote to her. She married Tom Moore, an Irishman, in Memphis. He knew nothing of her antecedents. She came with him to New Orleans. He enlisted in Drew's Battalion, and was killed afterwards in Virginia. Since the war she lived quietly in this city, making her living by sewing. Respected and much esteemed, some months ago she was taken ill and was at first cared for by those who had been her employers in earlier times. Then she grew worse and was taken to the hospital at her own request. She was placed in a white ward and tenderly cared for, but died as already related.

Plaineville Democrat.—We are now a free, prosperous people, and owe our existence to organized government under a Constitution liberal in its provisions, and which reserves to the people, or their representatives, certain powers which, to sustain them, we regard as a dangerous innovation upon their rights. Now is the time to apply the caution in laying aside the old, tried instrument and taking up the new one. We must pass upon it, reflect it, or adopt it at the August election, '91. We must take all of it or none of it. If our counsel is heeded, the people will vote it down by an astonishing majority.

Earlington Bee.—Have the delegates chosen to represent the people of the Commonwealth framed a Constitution their constituents can conscientiously endorse? Their work, as embodied in the new Constitution, speaks for and for and clearly illustrates itself. For the satisfaction of personal ambition, a great deal was thrust into that document which might have and should have been rejected. Much of it is misleading, both in character and purpose, and far from what the masses at first supposed would be given them. Never before has just such another been framed. There is in it, of course, the good, the bad and the indifferent, but in such a conglomeration that the good is unrecognizable.

Western Argus.—The Constitutional Convention adopted a resolution providing that the printing of the new Constitution should be let to the lowest bidder. This was a violation of the law; but when the bids were all in, the contract was made with one of the highest bidders, the bids ranging $3,200 up to $5,000. The $3,200 bid included the paper, press-work, folding and stitching. This bid was from one of the best publishing houses in Kentucky. The contract was given to the Courier-Journal Job Printing Co., at $5,000, and the State purchased the paper in addition—at a cost of $1,728. The paper is the cheapest quality of news manufacturing, which is catalogued at 34 cents per pound, and was sold to the State at 5 cents per pound. The difference between the contract price and the lowest bid is only $3,228 lost to the State.

Louisville Post.—As the people begin to understand the full benefit to be derived from the adoption of the new constitution, they grow more heartily in its favor. There is every reason why the new instrument should be ratified and no good reason why it should be defeated. The very fact that it is being fought by trusts and monopolies and corporations, it prevents special privileges to a favored class. It puts the rich down on a plane with the poor. The Paducah News briefly summarizes its advantages as follows: "Every trust, every monopoly and every railroad company is arrayed against the adop-

The Democratic winners are named, and the size of their majority is the only question to figure on now. It ought to be 100,000.

And still the Italians are coming to this country in large numbers. They do not consider us United States people so desperate after all.

Brown is his name, and a brilliant man. Now, let the Republicans put up their man for him to do up by anywhere from 50,000 to 75,000.

Boone was not represented on either of the committees appointed by the convention. Her candidate for position on a committee was knocked out in every instance.

To teach the Democratic leaders in Covington a lesson by which they may profit, the Democratic party in the State will have to withdraw from them the right hand of fellowship for a while.

The criticisms of the proposed new constitution commence with the Preamble of the Bill of Rights and continue through the entire document, there being an occasional section that is acceptable.

The Farmers' Alliance will find in Mr. Brown an advocate of true Democracy, which embraces the cardinal principles of their organization. His speeches during the campaign were free from personalities, but were doctrinal to the core.

The Republican State convention meets in Lexington to-day to determine of whom the party will make political sacrifices at the August election. Messrs. Comingle and Tomlin will be there, and there may be a repetition of the Blackburn-McKenzie episode.

This instruction to vote as a unit on all matters before the convention, did not prevail with the Boone delegation, and here eleven votes were divided equally among the candidates for Governor, from start to finish. This was done in the interest of Mr. Norman, whose chances the delegation did not desire to prejudice.

This committee on credentials in the Louisville convention decided that the delegations to which Hon. A. S. Berry and T. F. Hallam belonged were not entitled to seats in the convention, but the committee's report was not made until after each of these gentlemen had indulged in a ringing nomination speech, Berry nominating Hallam, and Hallam nominating Berry.

When the Republicans name their candidate for Governor, let him and Mr. Brown take the stump and discuss State affairs. The Republicans claim that is what they want done, and with such a leader as John Young Brown the Democrats ought to be anxious to send him out to meet the enemy. No telling how large Brown's majority will be in case a joint discussion of State affairs should be conducted throughout the State.

It is strange that two men who stand as high in the councils of their party as Senator Blackburn and Hon. James A. McKenzie should allow their judgment to be so completely swayed as to become deluged to such an extent as to indulge in personal attacks upon one another. Blackburn and McKenzie are now enemies, and they will carry their animosities into the conventions of the future, unless they conclude, as they should, that party conventions are not the place for obtaining redress for personal grievances.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

The Secretary of the Interior has under consideration the advisability of surveying the southern and eastern boundary lines of the Yellowstone National Park, and also the boundary lines of the timber reservation which was authorized by the act of March 3, 1891, and loaded by executive proclamation of March 30, 1891. While no specific appropriations for these surveys have been made by Congress, it is believed that the expense of the same may be made and charged to the appropriation made for the survey of public lands.

The Department of State has been officially informed of the acceptance of the government of China of the invitation to participate in the World's Columbian Exposition. Mr. Denby, the United States minister at Peking, writes, under date of April 1, to the Secretary of State, saying that the prince and ministers have requested that the Secretary of State shall see that the space is reserved at Chicago for the exhibit of the Chinese government.

It is said at the State Department that there has been suggestion of arbitration of the difficulties between Italy and the United States, growing out of the New Orleans tragedy as reported in a special dispatch from Rome. Arbitration is the last resort after diplomacy has failed, and as Secretary Blaine has promised to consider the claims for indemnity, it can not be held that the diplomatic stage has been passed. The rather indignant utterances of the Italian consul at New Orleans relative to the conspiracy to kill the Mayor and other prominent persons, causes some amusement at the Department, but as they have not taken an official shape no notice will be taken of them by our Government.

The power of the press was never more clearly shown than recently in the news rumors published concerning the Itala and Charleston, two ships a hundred or more miles from land and absolutely without means to immediately communicate with reporters. Notwithstanding this obstacle very interesting accounts of their daily proceedings are published, and the people are fully apprized of current events. Surely the power of the press is unlimited.

The Treasury commission on the selection of a distinctive paper for Treasury notes, bonds, etc., submitted its report to Secretary Foster yesterday. The report will, doubtless, be approved by the Secretary within a few days. The new two dollar notes will be printed on this paper. The work on it is so jammed, and the vignette of Mr. Winchom will show in the center of the certificate instead of being on the end. The ugly brown seal will not show on the new issue, but a bright carmine seal has been recommended to supplant it. About $400,000 of the old two dollar certificates are reported outstanding. As fast as these are received in the treasury they will be marked for destruction.

One more newspaper has been relegated to misanthropic limbo. The Evening Critic Newspaper Co. of this city, was yesterday placed in the hands of a receiver by order of the court. When this became known there was much comment among the newspaper men of the city, as well as by business men.

The Democratic State Club of Connecticut has resolved to prosecute a warfare against the system of "rotten boroughs" by which a minority of the people continue to control a majority of the legislative representation. The direct object of the move is, of course, partisan, as the Republicans prevail in the minor towns, hold the law-making power. But that it is time to make a change, in accordance with the spirit of political progress and with equal justice, is beyond question. There is also excellent reason for this. The alteration of the constitution so that State officers may be elected by a plurality vote. The "land of steady habit" has been altogether too steady in adherence to absolute methods in the distribution of political power.

There appears to be considerable disturbance among the Maine Blaine Republicans on account of Governor Burleigh's appointment of A. S. Bangs as chairman of the Augusta board of registration. It is regarded as a direct slap at the Secretary, for Bangs is an anti-Blaine Republican, and in 1884, voted for Cleveland, served as Chief of staff in the celebration over the election of Cleveland, and has openly declared that if Blaine was a candidate again for President he would vote against him again.

The fact Col. Cockerill has quit the World has the effect of drawing out a perfect avalanche of "he is still on earth" observations.

Jo and Jim are at odds. At the convention last week Jo intimated that Jim had absorbed something that affected his balance-wheel, and that Jim took offense and retaliated in remarks which were more sympathetic than eloquent.

This platform adopted by the Democratic convention last week is a clear expression on the subjects with which it deals. It congratulates the country on the election of the past year; insists that tariff reform is the paramount issue before the American people; denounces the McKinley bill as the most outrageous measure of taxation ever proposed in the American Congress, as it increases the burdens already too great on the necessities of life and reduces taxes on the luxuries which should bear the burden, and robs the many to enrich the few and "does not open a market for a single bushel of wheat or a single barrel of pork." It proclaims the United States the greatest silver producing country in the world, and that gold and silver were equal in the money of the Constitution. The malcontents and discontents who have herefore not been awarded the distinction their great talents and high ability will there, and in a great profession, and will, probably, receive with like profusion the prog and libations the liberal Cincinnati friends are now bestowing. The more fools the more fun.

Mr. CARLISLE did not attend the Louisville convention. He is one of the committee that is investigating the workings of the tariff, and had not the time to go to Louisville. Besides he knew the Democrats of Kentucky could and would do the correct thing in the way of a platform. It is said that Mr. Carlisle has some aspirations to be the next Democratic nominee for the Presidency, which had something to do with his absence from the convention. There is one thing very certain, and that is the Democratic party must not better make President and his living south of Mason and Dixon's line should no longer be made an objection to him by his own party. He is one of the great statesmen of the age, and a tower of strength in his party. He is no novice in the governmental affairs of the country, and his broad and patriotic views are recognized throughout this entire land.

THE Democratic ticket for the August election appears in this issue. It is entitled to the vote of every Democrat in the State.

We are informed that quite an interesting occasion is being arranged for in Verona in the near future. It is to be in the nature of the celebration of past events, or in other words, a marble tournament. Many years ago Verona was noted for its marble expert marble players, but from down on Big Bone occasionally came to town one, who invariably captured the entire rolling stock of the marble yard. On the program for the tournament is a repetition of all the thrilling events of the Verona marble yard when the Big Bone champion was on hand. The distinguished and much envied Big Bone is our present County Judge, who has signified his willingness to attend, and the committee of arrangements intend that he will be met at the depot by a large procession headed by a brass band, and upon his arrival the procession will march over the principal streets, the band playing. IN MEMORY OF Captain Henry C. Snyder, who died at his home near Florence on the 8th day of May, 1891, aged eighty-six years and four months and 14 days.

He was born in Madison county, Va., on June 24, 1804; he was married to Sarah (Hickman) of Virginia, in 1825; this union 13 children were born. He moved to Kentucky in 1847 and settled near Florence in which vicinity he continued to reside until the day of his death. He was a member of the Baptist Church of Virginia, and was married the second time to Nannie J. Durham, of Hillsboro, Ind., who survives him; of his numerous family of children only three are now living—son W. C. Snyder, of Florence, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Z. Taylor, of Florence and Mrs. Eliza Howell, of Rappahannock county, Va.; he leaves numerous grand-children and great-grandchildren.

His funeral was preached by Brother Johnson, of Walton, in the Baptist Church in Florence, of which he had been a consistent and zealous member since his early manhood; he was buried in the family burying place at Hillsboro, in the presence of a large concourse of old friends and neighbors.

The writer was so fortunate as to have enjoyed an intimate personal acquaintance and the true friendship of Captain Snyder for nearly 40 years; he expresses his heartfelt and conscientious sentiments when he says one of "Nature's Noblemen" has gone home to God. He was an exemplary man, a good citizen, a sincere Christian, a devoted husband and parent, tenderly affectionate, kind and considerate; fondly devoted to his friends, fraternal to his fellowmen—his ear was ever open to the cry of the needy and distressed, his hands were ever ready to relieve their wants. It is a pleasant memory, and one that thrills and melts the heart with grateful emotions to feel that such a noble man was in all that the world surmounts, a true friend.

Resignation of J. G. Tomlin.

The following communications between Collector Cominsore and Deputy Collector J. G. Tomlin were received too late for last week's issue. May 2, 1891.

Mr. J. G. TOMLIN, Lawrenceburg, Ky.
My Dear Sir—Last March I promised Mr. Metcalf to give him a position, and it is difficult to find one just suited to him.

Although I have said nothing to Mr. Metcalf about the matter, it has today occurred to me that as he and you were engaged in business together, and that you being in business did not care much for the position at Petersburg, I might give that place to young Metcalf. No doubt you can make more money than the salary by giving your attention to your business, and it appears to be all in the family as it were. I take it for granted that you will have no serious objection.

I have written to Mr. Metcalf to-day, and the letter will reach him on the same mail with this one to you.

Very Truly Yours,
D. N. COMINSORE, Collector.

PETERSBURG, Ky., May 7, 1891.

D. N. COMINSORE, Covington, Ky.
Dear Sir—In reply to your letter of May 2, I have to say, that it is unkind of me and I do not hesitate to say so. Unkind for you to ask me to do that which I cannot do.

Mr. Metcalf nor myself, unmanly because it comes after assurances by you to mutual friends that my appointment was permanent, on the strength of which several investments have been made by me including large stock in the Petersburg Milling Co.

It is quite true that I am associated with Mr. Metcalf in business but I fail to understand what you mean by making a family affair of a Federal office. Such an intimation is certainly beneath the dignity of a Collector of Internal Revenue in the Sixth Kentucky District.

Through the intimacy and friendship existing between Mr. Metcalf and myself, I feel sure that he will not countenance your step nor the manner of taking it. I object to the style of your letter to such an extent that it would be impossible for you to make amends by any means whatever. You may therefore consider this my resignation to take effect at the earliest possible date, and let my financial affairs be what they may.

Another strange feature of your remarkable letter is that it was written and posted so as to reach me at the Convention held at Burlington on May 1st, thus making my cooperation with that body in serving your political interests which I certainly helped to do.

You are free to send any Covington chump you wish to fill a Boone county office, but you will find that the Republican of Boone county prize their rights, and many of them prize the office of Federal deputy especially.

I am fully posted as to what position Mr. Metcalf has taken, and the efforts put forth to save the worthy young gentleman who holds it. I know also that this matter did not occur to you on May 2, nor in the dream-like manner in which it is now presented to your letter, imputing and designing to a degree only possible of attainment by a small man of small means and small notions.

As for your opinion of my business capacity, I do not think you are in position to express opinions on that subject, but I will not be found pleading any dependent act whatsoever. To be explicit I desire to be relieved at once, and I shall request your goodness to withdraw.

Lastly there has never been a day ever since I shaped my business on your assurances, that I would not have made any sacrifices for my friend Metcalf, but I have asked instead of a degree only possible of attainment by a small man of small means and small notions.

SHUTTING THE DOOR.

The Immigration Laws to be More Strictly Enforced.

An Important Circular Issued by Assistant Secretary Nettleton Regarding the Practice of Immigration-Seeking at the Root of the Evil-Immigration-Seeking.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The plan prepared by Assistant Secretary Nettleton for restricting pauper immigration into the United States has been submitted to the president and approved and is being embodied in a circular letter and sent to all the consular officials.

The circular, after reciting the laws designed to regulate immigration, says: "The evidence discloses a most serious and dangerous condition of affairs, and it is the duty of the government to enforce these laws in their letter and spirit at every point of the United States."

"While it is the policy of the government to enforce these laws in their letter and spirit at every point of the United States, it is also the policy of the government to enforce these laws in their letter and spirit at every point of the United States."

"The circular, after reciting the laws designed to regulate immigration, says: 'The evidence discloses a most serious and dangerous condition of affairs, and it is the duty of the government to enforce these laws in their letter and spirit at every point of the United States.'"

GRANT'S CENTOPH.

Unveiling of the Monument at Galena, Ill.

Galena, Ill., the town which sent to the front the greatest Union general of the late war, will not be the greatest in modern times, was in gala attire Wednesday in honor of her illustrious citizen, through the liberality of the town's former citizens, and at the suggestions of another, both now residents of Chicago.

A bronze statue of U. S. Grant was unveiled, and a new park bearing his name, in the center of the city, was inaugurated. The statue, which is the gift of H. H. Kohlsaat, and the park, a tract of six acres, from which the buildings which formerly occupied it have been removed, is the outgrowth of a suggestion by James W. Scott.

The statue is eight feet in height, and stands upon a granite base. It is the gift of H. H. Kohlsaat, and the park, a tract of six acres, from which the buildings which formerly occupied it have been removed, is the outgrowth of a suggestion by James W. Scott.

It is stated that Senator Mat Quay is for Mr. Blaine for President.

There will be an increase in the value of fair held in this State this fall.

The storm last Wednesday covered a large area of country and did a great deal of damage to property.

After a long and hard fight in the Florida legislature Mr. Call secured his reelection to the United States Senate.

The Republican leaders in national politics are keeping an eye on Mr. Cleveland. This is significant, to say the least.

To-day some of the opponents to the proposed New Constitution meet in Lexington to arrange for a campaign against that document.

Dr. the colored "hugger," of Paris, was captured the other day, and to prevent his being lynched he was taken to the Lexington jail.

The People's Party of Iowa, has nominated candidates for State offices. The party expects to come under the string in the lead at the election.

Several lynchings having taken place at Columbia, Tennessee, a public meeting was called for the purpose of condemning mob law, but the friends of Judge Lynch were in the majority at the meeting, which practically expressed itself as being in favor of Lynch law under certain circumstances.

In now looks very much like the principal contest at the August election will be over the proposed new constitution. The Republican party is committed to it, and with the assistance of nearly all the delegates it ought to make a pretty strong fight for adoption. But its small stock of merit is a handicap of the first magnitude.

It is said that a syndicate composed of Nashville and Florida parties have purchased the Grand Avenue cave in Edmondson county, and will use it for storage purposes. The syndicate is largely interested in fruit growing in the South, and in order to keep the fruit it will be stored in the cave until such time as it is ready for sale.

The Court of Appeals of this State has rendered a decision by which about $50,000 of the estate of the late James Taylor, of Newport, will go to the slaves which he emancipated many years ago, and by his will gave them each twenty five acres of land. None of these slaves made any effort to recover their property until 1887.

Between twenty thousand and thirty thousand people witnessed the unveiling of the monument to Mississippi's Confederate dead at Jackson, last Wednesday. The same day a bronze statue of Gen. Grant, presented by H. H. Kohsat, of Chicago, to the city of Galena, was unveiled there with appropriate ceremonies in the presence of a very large crowd.

The Fifty-first Congress at its first session created 1,225 new offices, net, and at its second session it created 472 more, above the number discontinued. After deducting all places of public employment discontinued, that Congress added 1,435 to the number of offices and places of employment under the Government. The actual net increase in the amount of salaries annually resulting from the creation of the pay rolls amounted to a handsome sum of $5,195,148.

The net surplus in the treasury at the first session of the 51st Congress was $5,000,000, a smaller surplus than has been in the treasury within the memory of the oldest officials.

A crop is never safe until it is harvested, but the indications now are American wheat has survived frosts, droughts and the Hessian fly, and will harvest about the average. In other words the wheat prospect at this time is good. The reports from the wheat growing countries of Europe indicate a short crop, so that whatever surplus we have in this country is likely to find a market at a good price. This probability is reflected in the present price, June wheat yesterday selling up to $1.09. The political farmers who farm the farmers for offices are already discussing the probable effects of good prices for wheat on the coming elections. Ex-President Hayes used to say that the Republicans usually won when wheat commanded a dollar a bushel, and if he were a Republican prophet in good standing with his party, the leaders would bank on the present situation with some sort of confidence. But things have changed in politics since Hayes was in it, and the Republican leaders are not at all confident that a good price for wheat will convince the wheat-growers that they owe the advance to the McKinley bill.

The President yesterday appointed Hon. William D. Owen, of Indiana, to be Superintendent of Immigration, an office created at the last session of Congress, with a salary of $4,000 per annum. Mr. Owen has always taken a deep interest in the subject of immigration, and was mainly instrumental in the preparation of the stringent law adopted at the last session. His appointment was strongly urged by nearly all the labor organizations in the country because of his interest in their cause and his thorough knowledge of the subject. The new Superintendent is a minister of the Christian church. He was elected to the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses as a Republican.

The Third Party was not sidetracked in Iowa by the Republicans as it was in Ohio, and in consequence it is in the field with a full State ticket from Governor to Supreme Judge. The candidate for Governor, A. J. Westfall, ran for Congress as a Third Party candidate last fall, polling 5,000 votes, but failing of an election. He is an old-time Republican who believes in prohibition, woman suffrage and flat money. He won't be elected, but he may draw enough votes from the Republicans to elect a Democrat which is what the Republican leaders fear. They adopted Ohio tactics but did their work so clumsily as to expose their plans to the Third Party people, who nominated a ticket to save themselves from the charge of being side-tracked by the Republicans. The nomination of the Third Party ticket will make the Iowa canvass a very hot one, and give it national importance as affording an opportunity to test the strength of the Farmers' Alliance movement in the Northwest.

The surrender of the Iata to the United States warship, Iquique, together with 5,000 rifles she took on board at San Diego, loses to the Chilean revolutionary party, a supply of arms that is no doubt much needed, but solves a somewhat unpleasant complication in a satisfactory way to all concerned, except it may be the immediate parties to the rifle speculation. However, by this surrender, some provocation will be afforded to the English critics who have been sneering at the Charleston chase, and asserting that the whole pursuit was a piece of jingoism ill consonant with the real sympathy entertained in this country for the insurgents. The truth is that even here so little is known about the civil war in Chili, that there has been no opportunity to form opinion or extend sympathy of any kind. But as the revolt is interfering with the British commerce, the natural English deduction is that Americans have nothing better to do than to gloat in the premises.

A Wild Westerner, who is probably opposed to the new tariff law has named a suspicious cigar, "The McKinley."

The Secretary of the treasury has called upon a number of national bank depositors to transfer to the sub-treasury a portion of the amt. of public moneys held by them and not needed for the transaction of public business. Those banks that are mostly known as "surplus" banks, had been notified by the late Secretary Windom, and had previously transferred the amount of two calls made by him. The amt. to be transferred on or before June 30, 1891, under this call is about $3,000,000. It is probable that other calls will be made from time to time on these and other national bank depositors until their holdings shall have been reduced to the amount needed to be kept there-with for the proper transaction of current public business.

The editor of the Milton Free Press was electioneering for county Democratic nomination for county representative when he should have been killing weeds in his garden, but he attributes the condition of his garden to an other and higher cause. He says:

If the moon is going to do anything it is time she was at it. We are becoming a little skeptical about the moon. Although we planted our potatoes five weeks ago in the dark of the moon, some of them are still just peeping through the ground, and the weeds are just as rank, and the clove just as hard as if we had planted without reference to the moon. But may be she will smile on us after a while. What time in the moon ought a person to whitewash his kitchen?

The Kansas Alliance is considering a proposition to start local grain banks in many of the counties in that State. The capital stock of the banks is to be furnished by private individuals, and in connection with the bank a store house and elevator is to be built, where a farmer may dump his grain or cotton, receiving a check for eighty per cent. of the value of the produce deposited by paying a small per cent. for storage and insurance. The amount of produce deposited is not to exceed the amount of stock subscribed for the bank, and the checks issued are to be payable in gold or silver at any of the banks run on the same plan. This is a scheme which the farmers should consider well before they take hold of it or rather let it take hold of them.

Prof. J. J. Glenn, editor of the Madisonville Courier, was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction. He was one of the several that did not get there, and of his race he says: "In making the race for Superintendent of Public Instruction, we were away from home canvassing only twenty-five days. We spent less than $100 in that time; neither treated, nor was treated; made no pledges to anyone; spoke kindly of our opponents at all times and under all circumstances; ran upon our own merits and not on the demerits of others; went to the Louisville convention with 91 instructed votes; got 152 on the first ballot; met with defeat; was smiling within ten minutes thereafter; am now at home and look kindly toward the whole world."

The Third Party idea is making heads very slowly in Kentucky, and the vote polled by it at the August election will be very small. The leaders of the Farmers' Alliance are showing no disposition to rally to its support, and in several of the counties where the third party question has been considered by Alliance lodges, they have discouraged the proposition, and the more the matter is discussed the less favor it meets among the element from which it was expected to acquire great strength. The fact is the matter is the adherents of the two old parties in this State are too earnest in the advocacy of the principle to which they have clung for so long, to change their politics at the request of a few men who are aspiring to leadership. In Kentucky there are but two parties, and it will be a long time before a new party can obtain a foothold on her soil.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

If the foreign manufacturers should be obliged to pay the heavy duties on goods imported to this country, as tariff mongers foolishly assert, they would soon be driven out of business, since they could not compensate themselves elsewhere for such a loss. American consumers alone can afford such a luxury of paying the high duties which the McKinley tariff imposes on them.

The Secretary of the treasury has called upon a number of national bank depositors to transfer to the sub-treasury a portion of the amt. of public moneys held by them and not needed for the transaction of public business. A crop is never safe until it is harvested, but the indications now are American wheat has survived frosts, droughts and the Hessian fly, and will harvest about the average. In other words the wheat prospect at this time is good. The reports from the wheat growing countries of Europe indicate a short crop, so that whatever surplus we have in this country is likely to find a market at a good price. This probability is reflected in the present price, June wheat yesterday selling up to $1.09. The political farmers who farm the farmers for offices are already discussing the probable effects of good prices for wheat on the coming elections. Ex-President Hayes used to say that the Republicans usually won when wheat commanded a dollar a bushel, and if he were a Republican prophet in good standing with his party, the leaders would bank on the present situation with some sort of confidence. But things have changed in politics since Hayes was in it, and the Republican leaders are not at all confident that a good price for wheat will convince the wheat-growers that they owe the advance to the McKinley bill.

The President yesterday appointed Hon. William D. Owen, of Indiana, to be Superintendent of Immigration, an office created at the last session of Congress, with a salary of $4,000 per annum. Mr. Owen has always taken a deep interest in the subject of immigration, and was mainly instrumental in the preparation of the stringent law adopted at the last session. His appointment was strongly urged by nearly all the labor organizations in the country because of his interest in their cause and his thorough knowledge of the subject. The new Superintendent is a minister of the Christian church. He was elected to the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses as a Republican.

The Third Party was not sidetracked in Iowa by the Republicans as it was in Ohio, and in consequence it is in the field with a full State ticket from Governor to Supreme Judge. The candidate for Governor, A. J. Westfall, ran for Congress as a Third Party candidate last fall, polling 5,000 votes, but failing of an election. Section 38 of the proposed New Constitution reads thus:

The first General Assembly, the members of which shall be elected under this Constitution, shall meet on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and thereafter on the same day every second year, and its sessions shall be held at the seat of government, except in case of war, insurrection or pestilence, when it may, by proclamation of the Governor, assemble, for the time being, elsewhere.

According to the above section the first General Assembly elected under the proposed New Constitution shall meet on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, 1893, and on the same day every second year thereafter. If that does not make the first General Assembly under the New Constitution perpetual, there is no language that can. To avoid this section it will be necessary to fall back on one with which it conflicts, and say the drafterman of section thirty-eight did not know the meaning of the language he employed. The people do not desire to have a body of law-makers of which they can not find themselves.

The following circular has been sent to all the Members of the Fourth Ky. Cavalry:

The Executive Committee of the Fourth Kentucky Confederate Cavalry has decided to hold a re-union of the regiment at Eminence, Ky., Wednesday, July 23d, 1891, and it is earnestly hoped that they will be present to participate in the pleasures of the occasion. It is desired that there shall be a larger attendance of the members than was at Sanders in 1885. The re-union will be thoroughly advertised in the local papers, but it has been deemed best to send this circular to many who do not reside within the circulation of those papers—in order that all may know it and come. The indications at present are that the whole regiment will answer at re-union on that day.

The re-union will be held on the Eminence Fair Grounds on the first day of the fair. The members of the regiment and their families will be furnished with badges by the Fair Company on their arrival, which will admit them to the fair free.

Joe May be One of Them. At Carrollton, Ky., in the year 1852, David Wilson died. He had been married five times, was the father of 47 children, 35 of whom were living at the time of his death. By his first wife he had 18 children. He enjoyed the best of health, and robust physical constitution. At the age of 105 years he could move as quick as a rabbit. The whole region of his breast was shielded by a plate of solid bone, and he could receive severe and powerful blows upon it without being hurt. He frequently, for the gratification of others, would permit to strike him violently in the breast without being made to feel, in the least, uncomfortable. During our border wars he was taken prisoner by the Indians, and they attempted to kill him in the breast, but found the solid bone impenetrable. He was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived in America. At the age of 105 years, when he died, none of his friends, relatives or body were materially impaired. It would be interesting to know the number of his descendants living today. Warsaw Independent.

We don't know whether he is a descendant of David Wilson or not, but there is a Wilson in this county, the whole region of whose breast is shielded by a plate of solid bone. He has been exposed to all kinds of weather, and his age is not known. Another reason we do not know about the Wilsons is, he has at one single meal one dozen green roasted ears and then looked hungry enough to breed a famine. He has been married three times and is about as spry as he was thirty years ago—for which time we have known him.

The Hardest Since May 21, 1860. A very severe wind storm blew last Wednesday night and Wednesday afternoon, doing damage to fencing and timber, a great deal of which being leveled. Here in town shade trees were badly torn to pieces and the streets were covered with the debris of the trees blown down or unroofed, but limbs and trees were blown on several houses, causing some slight damages thereto. A large limb was blown on George Hughes' law office, demolishing a portion of it. The debris from the crash from which, scared George, he came near jumping out at a widow. A large shade tree was blown against John Kirkpatrick's residence, injuring the roof considerably. His wife was up stairs letting down a window when the crash came, and she was badly frightened.

The wheat was the only growing crop that suffered from the storm, much of it being leveled like heavy logs. Much grain was blown from the trees, but plenty remains for a fair crop.

The storm was pronounced by many to be the hardest since May 21, 1860.

NOTE: A large new barn of Charles Hume, at Muldick creek was totally wrecked. At Bellevue the heavy wind came from the north. The debris from the crash from which, scared George, he came near jumping out at a widow. A large shade tree was blown against John Kirkpatrick's residence, injuring the roof considerably. His wife was up stairs letting down a window when the crash came, and she was badly frightened.

Uncle Mike Clure, of Bellevue, received quite a painful injury from a door blowing shut and catching the fingers of his fingers, which were mashed into jelly.

The house in which Robt. Sullivan lives in the neighborhood of Big Bone, was moved several times by the wind. Mr. Sullivan said when the well-knowned wayward and the plastering falling off the ceiling he thought it time for him and his family to leave the building, but they could not open the door to get out.

Mr. Blythe and wife were at Landon last Wednesday afternoon during the storm. He says he never saw such a panic among people. He and his wife never moved from their seats, although he thought the grand wind was going to subvert the world. The umbrella Mr. Blythe had was blown into shreds and the handle snapped into three pieces.

To the Editors of the Recorder.

A number of articles appeared in your paper, and the public press generally, in the last two weeks. In praise of the action of the late Democratic Convention in Louisville, in adopting the report of the committee on resolutions. These articles all tend to give the impression, that the report was adopted, and I am surprised that no one has undertaken to contradict the statement. I give below the facts as I know them to exist:

The report was read to the Convention by Senator Blackburn, the chairman of the committee, and who doubtless, is responsible for the entire clause in the resolutions. As soon as the report was read, the Convention broke into a tremendous uproar, in which Mr. Tarvin, of Covington, whose clear and strong voice reached the ear of Chairman Long and secured his recognition, moved to amend the resolution by striking out the alleged resolution. His motion was seconded all over the hall, and the enthusiasm with which it was received, showed it to be immensely popular. Mr. Tarvin said that, the question was national one, and he was to be dealt with by a National Convention, and as that body would not assemble for more than a year, the action of a Kentucky Convention, in adopting such a resolution, was premature and presumptuous. He insisted that the reasons, real, or imaginary, which seemed to exist today, in favor of such action, might all be dead a year hence. This argument was received with great favor by the convention, and the enthusiasm with which it was received, showed it to be immensely popular. SLAUGHTERED.

Massacred by Hippo-lyte's Soldiers.

Because They Protested Against His Marriage to a Slave.

The Atlas line passenger steamer Alvo, which arrived at New York from Haytian ports Wednesday morning, brought news of continued outbreaks of a somewhat milder character at the Haytian capital, and of the wholesale slaughter of political prisoners in all parts of the island.

The Alvo also brought news of the murder of President Hippolyte. Among the ports at which the Alvo touched on her voyage, she was in a high fever of excitement over what they termed an outrageous murder, which occurred in that city the day before at Hippolyte's order.

The news of the troubles at Port-au-Prince travels somewhat slowly into the interior of the island, and it is not known at Jacmel until several days later, though Jacmel and Port-au-Prince are only about fifty miles apart. When the news did finally come, the people of Jacmel became frantic with excitement, and loudly denounced Hippolyte's government.

There is a small garrison at Jacmel, and six of the leaders of the movement of the people, who were in their denunciations of their rule, were arrested and thrown into prison. The arrest was immediately carried out by Hippolyte, and as the sun was rising on the morning of June 5 half a dozen soldiers, sent by the president, came and came into town on horse-back, reporting at the garrison. Many of the men of the town were killed, and, seeing the approach of the soldiers, the men of the town were killed, and, seeing the approach of the soldiers, the men of the town were killed.

CLAUDE DUVAL.

Outdone by the King of a Band of Brigands in Turkey.

A dispatch from Constantinople gives an alarming account of the increased brigandage in various parts of the Turkish empire. In the Turkish provinces known as old Serbia a brigand chief named Mirhan has established himself in the mountains with about eighty followers, and lives in complete discipline. Each household pays Mirhan a sum in proportion to his possessions. Christians being obliged to pay about double the amount exacted from Turks. Mirhan is said to be a renegade Italian, and he holds his followers in complete discipline. One of them having been shown to have plundered a peasant who had punctually paid black-mail, Mirhan had the effect exacted and hands sent off, and sent them in a bag to the injured peasant. Mirhan exacts from every one the honors due to the rank of pasha. The Turkish authorities made a demonstration of attacking the brigand chief, but without success, having done nothing of consequence. Mirhan remained in seclusion for a few days, and then he collected all the peasants that the peasantry has agreed to pay.

Three Children Drowned in the Illinois Valley.

The Illinois river valley Wednesday night, doing great damage to crops, gardens and fences. OUR FLAG INSULTED.

While Minister Fred Douglass Stands Idly By.

The Gray President of Hayti sent killing Orsini's flag.

According to a letter received at New York from Port-au-Prince, President Hippolyte attempted on May 29 to take four political prisoners from the Mexican consulate in the Haytian capital. When the entire diplomatic corps called on the president May 30, to protest against violation of international law, Hippolyte attempted to play a high-handed game of bluff, and he might have succeeded had not the German consul threatened to report the matter to his government. Minister Fred Douglass, it is said in the letter, stood tremulous before the writer, and a ruler under the flag of every civilized port, including his own, and he did not dare offer a protest.

Port-au-Prince. Hippolyte continues to call his supposed enemies, but they accumulate faster than he can count. The writer says that the leaders of the movement against him have escaped his vengeance. Some of them have fled to the United States. The writer thinks it is undoubtedly true. It is stated that when the consul called on him he became angry, and he threatened to report the matter to his government.

The Treasury Department is in a tangle with the Knights of Labor and, unless their demands are acceded to, they propose to see to it that McKinley is snowed under in Ohio this fall.

In accepting the Republican nomination for County Representative from Boone, Hon. T. B. Mathews ridiculed the proposed new Constitution, and among other things said "it is the offspring of a lot of mischief makers," but since Mr. Mathews made his "few remarks," the moguls of his party in this State have met in convention, and reversed him, but up to date he has not filed his petition for a rehearing.

It is truly funny—we have reference to the Republican platform adopted by the State convention at Lexington. The front end of it condemns the reckless administration of State Affairs by the Democratic party, and at the rear end it lauds to the skies the proposed new Constitution which is the work of a body composed nearly entirely of Democrats. It does appear that consistency cuts no figure in that so-called declaration of principles.

At Riverside the prevailing opinion is that the drawing of the free people at that place last Thursday was the result of gross negligence on the part of the boat that ran the skiff down. While the barge crew claim that she and the boat's men were carrying all the signal lights required by law, those on the shore and persons in a skiff set far from the Zinne skiff at the time declared "there was no light on the barge. It is very probable that the matter will be thoroughly investigated in the courts.

When in the Constitutional Convention, Hon. Leslie T. Applegate, the delegate from Pendleton county had the following very serious objections to some parts of the work which he is now urging the people to adopt:

"The gentleman from Marshall, on yesterday, almost with tears in his eyes, touched this subject with holy reverence. He said it seemed to him that a supernatural hand had prepared this wonderful work; and I said amen, it would require a supernatural mind to comprehend it. It seems to me that to attempt to insert in the Constitution a clause undertaking to define what places shall be exempted from taxation would be the worst of supererogation on the part of this Convention. The committee, like a roaring lion seeking whom they might devour, has devoured everything in land on the subject of taxation.

According to my mind this report starts originally upon fallacious principles. I do not propose to give my support to that prevailing sentiment that the Legislature of the land are utterly incompetent to legislate for the State. I do not know that they (his constituents) said this to me; they said: 'We fear you are doing too much; we want but little,' and yet I hear day after day, that we are doing more, and still we are doing more, and here we propose to lay down caution barriers, so that they shall never depart from what we say. It is a word of warning that I make to you that you should be very careful how you have the Legislature in, so that they can not do justice though they desire to do it. And I am of the opinion that those of us who are anxious to see ourselves a separate body of other bodies of men that will ever meet in this State, will go away from this body justified, rather than those who propose to make laws as unalterable as the external decrees themselves. Taxation is a question of expedience, and what is expedient this year may not be next year. "It was propounded yesterday in the Courier-Journal, a challenge to the convention, that when we completed our work we should submit along with the old Constitution, with an open clause in it, and stricken therefrom the slavery clause, and see which of the two would be accepted. There is no doubt in my mind that the people would accept the old. They know what it is. They know that with an open clause nothing could be put in it unless they passed upon it.

Thus it is with various laws here proposed. Public sentiment is not ready for them. The fact is that we will be under a constitution that we cannot change easily, and this of itself will make the people suspicious about accepting it. Then I ask you yet in all these untied experiments. These inequalities of assessment and taxation will grow just as well under this report of the committee if adopted, as they do under the statute. The theory that there will be a sanctity and a potency about this constitution that does not exist about a statute on the same line is a serious mistake that we are making when we assume that. I have expressed these views more as a warning to the convention against making further departure from, and further inroads upon, the old constitution if we hope our work to be approved.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The large and enthusiastic convention at Ottumwa, and the hearty renomination accorded Gov. Boies by the Iowa Democrats, indicate quite plainly that the party in that State is in excellent fighting shape and that it is the intention to give the Republicans of that long-time staunch Republican stronghold another vigorous fight, and a good trimming, if possible. Unlike their party brethren in Ohio, the Iowa Democrats are thoroughly of one mind in their gubernatorial preferences, and there was no dissension or difference of opinion as to the important plank of their platform. The foremost issue in the State of Iowa relates to the liquor question, and on this the convention adopted the same plank upon which Gov. Boies won an election two years ago.

On the tariff question there is no uncertainty in the position of the Iowa Democrats. They are as firmly committed to the policy of a low tariff as are the Ohio Republicans to the principles of the McKinley law. On this issue there will be common fighting ground between the two parties in that State.

Gov. Boies and his party associates are in touch with the Democratic Democracy on the question of free coinage, opposition to trusts and combines, and are favorable to economy in public office—in every respect the declaration of principles adopted by the convention constitutes a typical Democratic platform. The present Democratic administration in Iowa has been conservative, and Gov. Boies merits the confidence and endorsement of his party. There is every reason to believe that the campaign there this year will be interesting and that every inch of ground will be vigorously contested.

The promoters of the Alliance Sub-Treasury scheme, who were made anxious by recent developments in Mississippi, are Western panic-stricken over the threatened meeting at Dallas, Texas, of the anti-Sub-Treasury League. Opposition to the Sub-Treasury project has not only existed throughout the Alliance, but it appears that it has been systematically worked up by one of the leading Alliance men, Mr. Hall, of Missouri. If he persists, despite the threats of President Polk, in holding the convention at Dallas, a large crevasse in the Southern Alliance is a certain fact. The withdrawal, on account of opposition to this measure, of one of the leading editorial writers in an important State, the published manifesto of the Western Alliance, and the signs of division make it appear that the Farmers' movement will not cohere. The feeling in favor of the Sub-Treasury scheme is as strong as the opposition to it, and there are no signs of compromise in any quarter. The Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky must be suffering with mental aberration, or a little cerebration or something of that sort. He is making public announcements to the effect that not one of the Democratic candidates in that State will be elected. The administration proposes to go slow in the matter of public expenditures after July 1. The late Republican Congress, under the application of party platforms, voted away money lavishly; but President Harrison intends to economize none the less. He assumes a virtue that his party did not possess. Thus it appears that the Billings Congress, among its other achievements, has made a jiboss of the President.

The Protectionist Government of Canada proposes to repeal the sugar duties; and for the same reason that inspired the authors of the McKinley tariff. These sugar duties yield a large fiscal revenue to the government, with little burden to the consumers. But their repeal would afford a pretext for retaining oppressive duties that yield little public revenue, while putting large profits into the pockets of monopoly. The tariff spoilers on both sides of the St. Lawrence are birds of the same feather, and so long as they shall rule the roost there will be small prospects of any genuine measure of trade reciprocity.

The Treasury Department has directed the shipment of $367,622 in uncurrent silver coin to the mint at New Orleans for free coinage. This amount is distributed among the sub-treasuries as follows: Boston, $52,880; Chicago, $142,000; Cincinnati, $14,427; Washington, $12,248; New Orleans, $8,224. If in twenty years of Republican rule, two-thirds of the wealth of the farmers and producers has passed into the hands of the money kings, how many years more of the same rule will it require for the remaining third to find its way to the same place?

FROM EXCHANGES.

Of the one hundred delegates to the Convention not twenty are on the stump advocating the adoption of the new Constitution. Some of them could not advocate any thing if they tried, nor even the most highly gifted are silent. Count them and see if we are not correct.

CAPITAL.

Three-fourths of the members of the late Constitution Convention are candidates for the Legislature. If elected, and the people should refuse to ratify the work of the Convention, what then? If the past is a sample of the work of these gentlemen, we are content to let them remain out of public life at least half a century.—Pulton Fultonian.

We haven't seen a great many, it is true, but of those with whom we have conversed in this section, only one has expressed himself for the new Constitution, and he helped make it. Unless there is a mighty change, Lincoln county will add a large quota to the majority that will know the concern under in August.—Interior-Journal.

While the Constitutional Convention was still in session Col. Bennett H. Young boasted that he had condemned during his business career not less than 1500 pieces of land. He made these condemnations in the interest of the corporations with which he was associated. Col. Young, it should be remembered, is one of the strongest supporters of the new Constitution.—Paducah Standard.

It is a little singular that with so many able lawyers and newspaper men in the Constitutional Convention the new Constitution is a badly written document. The "Committee on Style" were evidently men of little practical experience in writing. If the Constitution should be adopted, the first duty of the delegates would be to get the Frankfort in September will be to get some competent persons to edit the Constitution—who will be able to make that instrument any exactly what it means.—Somerset Republican.

This instrument is foisting adherents every day. The more that it is looked into and discussed the more its utter un wisdom and absurdities and tyrannies are apparent. It has one great advantage, and that is its tedious length; few will read it, and many will accept it simply because they want a change from the old organic law, and they think that any change is better than no change. It is powerfully attacked by an able body of gainsayers who give no rest to the sales of their feet for waging war on the abomination. Life is too short to read or discuss this endless code, but by testing it down the Convention which assembled in September will take as instructions to make a brief and less objectionable document. Success to those who are engaged in this patriotic work.—Lexington Gazette.

their respective routes. Now, we would like to know if this organization in existence that would risk a large expenditure of money to build a road through a wild and undeveloped section of country if it was deprived of the privilege to own a portion of the land through which railroad would run. Without a railroad these vast mineral domains would remain undisturbed by the march of civilization until the end of time. That is what the new instrument means—a stumbling block to the advancement of civilization and development in the mountain counties of Southeastern Kentucky. We leave the intelligent voter to give these important facts a thorough consideration, and then vote the way his conscience dictates. We would be pleased to see the new Constitution defeated by at least fifty thousand majority in the State.—Mountain Democrat.

Charles Jenkins, a farmer living near Bridgeport, in this county, had been annoyed by thefts of his chickens. On Wednesday night he set a trap-gun for the benefit of the thief. During the night he imagined that some one was endeavoring to enter his henery, and believing that the gun had failed to act, he opened the door when the gun was discharged, the contents taking effect near his heart, killing him instantly. The trap-gun is always loaded, and generally goes off at the wrong time.—Frankfort Capital.

At the request of the Democratic State Central Committee, the Hon. M. D. Gray, of Williamstown, will speak in the Court-house at Burlington next Monday.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

GRANT COUNTY.
(Williamstown Courier.)
Wheat harvesters are busy and the farmers are staying close to their fields. No part of the county is receiving as much rain as Williamstown and vicinity.

OWEN COUNTY.

(Owens News.)
Much of the tobacco set has been moved out to the hillsides and covered up in the bottoms by the recent heavy rains.

We understand that an organization has been perfected to prosecute all violations of the laws of the State, before the magistrates at the time the offense is committed.

The farmers complain that their tobacco and corn fields look like meadows, so full of grass and weeds are they. The rains have been so constant that it is impossible to run the plow.

DEARBORN CO., IND.

(Lawrenceburg Register.)
San R. Smith, our reliable correspondent, thus portrays the effects of the storm just beyond the Manchester hill, a few miles from this city, on Saturday evening:

On last Saturday evening, between five and six o'clock, a terrific wind and rain storm passed from the southwest to the northeast, devastating itself everywhere when it reached this community. The track of devastation through the forest was about 200 yards wide in which scarcely a tree is left standing. Clumps of the forest that have remained the same for centuries were torn from their trunks and hurled in every direction. The large frame barn of Henry Meyer fell a victim to the monster's fury and is now in ruins. Large loads of feed scattered over the fields, some of which is a mile from the site of the building. A large portion of the building has been blown down. At the time the storm struck the building there were three men and four horses in it, and all escaped unhurt.

Mr. Meyer received a scratch except Charley Uiker, and he a slight contusion of the foot. It was a miracle that all were not instantly killed. From the time the storm struck the barn until it was blown down it did not exceed a minute. There is a peculiarity connected with this storm which might be interesting to know. As the storm followed its track a long distance can verify. On the vast level plains of the west, where the storm frequently occurs, they move undeviatingly in the same direction. But here in this hilly land of ours, it is noted to the right or left as it would strike a ravine. When it finished its work of destruction it was moving in a direct line for the residence of Helinda and Sarah A. Danforth, and it was in the ravine that it was reached it struck a ravine in the mountain to the left, and heavily landed the residence.

The Lawrenceburg granite and marble works are turning out some very fine work at the most reasonable prices. Boone county people who desire to purchase tombstones or monuments will find it to their advantage to call there. John Beall, of Hebron, is the agent.

Our local insurance agent, J. M. Lassing, will insure your buildings against both lightning and tornadoes. Rates reasonable.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

Adopted by the Louisville Convention, May 13th.
"The Democratic party of Kentucky expresses its profound sympathy for distressed labor in fields and in the mines and factories. It reaffirms its doctrine of liberty, equality and fraternity. It offers relief to all classes distressed under the burdens of government and misgovernment; and it calls upon all good citizens to unite in the support of policies and principles, which, restricting the government to its undisturbed province, would leave to the citizens the widest liberty of action. "We congratulate the country upon the awakening of the people to the importance of the subject of taxation, and on the fact that the long struggle of the Democratic party for a tariff for revenue only has at last brought its exceeding great reward in an expression of the purpose of the people. "We insist that tariff reform is the paramount question before the American people and denounce the McKinley bill as the most outrageous measure of taxation ever passed in the American Congress. It has increased the burdens, already too great, upon the necessities of life, and reduced taxes on luxuries that are most able to bear them. It has made a tax on the farmer and wage earner in the land, in order that the profits of the monopolies and trusts may be increased. It robs the many to enrich the few, and does not open a market for a single bushel of wheat or a single barrel of pork." In contrast with the policy of Grover Cleveland and John C. Calhoun would discourage unnecessary expenditure, provide all needed revenue, cheapen what we buy and open the markets of the world to the products of our farms and factories. "Recognizing the fact that the United States is the greatest silver producing country in the world, and that gold and silver were equally the money of the constitution from the beginning of the Republic until the hostile and fraudulent legislation of the Republican party against free silver, which unduly contracted the circulating medium of the country, and feeling that the great interests of the people demand more money for use in the exchange of trade and commerce, we tender our gratitude to the Democrats in the last Congress for their almost unanimous vote in both houses in favor of the free coinage of silver and demand its restoration to the position of equality before the law given to it by our fathers. "We press, for the consideration of the people of the land, the course as a Republican Congress which, by its reckless, profligate and ruinous expenditure of public money, has in two years squandered the surplus of more than a hundred million dollars in the Federal Treasury by a Democratic administration. It has increased the burden of an extraordinary and unprecedented manner taxation that will add to the distress of the people, and at the same time, be inadequate to meet the demands of those who are using the Government to serve their selfish purposes. "We return thanks to the patriotic members of the last Senate of the United States who defeated the unjust, iniquitous and partisan measure known as the Force bill, which would have been a fearful blow to home-rule and local self-government and was intended to place in the hands of the Republican party the machinery, whereby it might, by force, fraud and intimidation, have perpetuated its rule and destroyed the freedom and integrity of the ballot. "We commend to the people of the State the manly, patriotic and upright course of the Chief Magistrate whom the Democratic party gave to the Commonwealth four years ago, and endorse his administration as consistent with the principles which he was nominated and elected.

Then in a few moments that horrid distress would come on and I would have to eat and sleep." The barbecue season is at hand, and the burgoo cook is in demand.

The fun has commenced at Cleveland, Ohio. The atmosphere there is laden with Democratic music, and it looks like Campbell will have it all his own way.

The Covington architects say that they are unusually busy preparing plans and specifications for new buildings, and that the city is entering a building boom.

The Farmers' Alliance has nominated candidates for the Legislature in several counties in this State.
They are proposing to take a hand as a party, in the framing of the laws of the State.

The destruction of Brinkhard's store in Cincinnati, last Wednesday was the biggest fire, in the matter of loss, that the city has had for a long time. The loss is estimated at over a million of dollars.

All the delegates to the constitutional convention were to discuss the instrument as Hon. Leslie T.
Applegate does, it would receive many less votes than are claimed for it. He discusses the bad points along with the good.

The failure of the Falls City bank, of Louisville, last Friday, created a considerable flurry in the financial circles at Louisville. The liabilities largely exceed the assets, but it is claimed that the depositors will be paid in full.

There are fine crop prospects throughout the State, and the Kentucky farmer is a happy man.
Taking one year with another, our State is as abundant in her response to the industrious tiller of the soil as any of her sisters. Muscle and industry form a combination that is sure to succeed in Kentucky.

The Indiana statesman, ex-Gov.
Gray, does not propose to play second fiddle on the Democratic Presidential ticket in 1892. His aspirations are for the position at the head of the ticket. The Hill-Gray combination does not receive his approbation. Reverse the names and Gov. Hill will accept with thanks.

The Ohio Democratic State convention meets in Cleveland to-morrow to nominate candidates for State offices to be elected this fall.
A strong effort has been made to defeat Campbell's nomination for re-election as Governor, but he will win it unless there is some unforeseen and miraculous development
after the delegates arrive on the ground.

In this issue appears the advertisement of Garrard College, located at Lancaster. That institution is doing good work, and ranks well with the other institutions of learning in this State. Prof. J. C. Gordon, of this county, is one of the faculty, and for that reason our people ought to patronize it, especially when it presents as good facilities as other Kentucky colleges.

Week before last we took occasion to refer to some of the fallacies with which the Mountain Monitor is furnishing its readers—which, by the way, are only an appeal to their passions against corporations—for the purpose of increasing the circulation. When the Monitor flowed into a frenzy, just as a spoiled child does when denied a cake, it displayed

"It is now the people's Constitution," say some of the friends of the proposed new Constitution.
We don't comprehend how it is possible for the people to have two Constitutions at once. The people have not declared that they accept the new document, and until they do so declare, it is not theirs.

The Hon. John Griffin Carlisle's name has not been talked of a great deal lately in connection with the nomination, but in ability and character there are few Democratic statesmen to equal him. Kentucky belonged historically to the South, but essentially to the West. In any case, the West is fortunate in having so many admirable candidates, and many new ones will turn up before the time of the convention.
Among the most important effects of the recent change in the Democratic situation and prospects must be reckoned the fact that it has revealed how rich the Democracy is in statesmen fit to be President—
New York Sun.

The United States Senators of this State do not agree as to the adoption of the proposed new Constitution. Senator Blackburn favors its adoption, and those who side with Senator Carlisle are, consequently themselves with the assertion that Senator Carlisle has been mistaken in his advocacy of public measures occasionally in the past, and that he is wrong in the present instance.
It has been but a few years since Mr. Blackburn proclaimed about few thousand people at a barbecue in this part of the State, that Hon.
John G. Carlisle was the greatest and safest leader in this country, and with this declaration of Senator Blackburn an overwhelming majority of Kentuckians concurred.
If Senator Carlisle has done anything to lower him in the estimation of the people as a great and safe leader, we are not aware of it.
Is it not possible for Senator Blackburn to be mistaken as to the benefits to be derived from the adoption of the proposed Constitution?
If it can be clearly proven that he or any other advocate of the proposed new Constitution is infallible,
we will assist in its adoption.

The following from the Farmers Home Journal is excellent advice to the farmers: "Money could be saved on every farm by cutting off some unprofitable branches of work.
There is some stock, perhaps, that is not paying its way. Make up an inventory of every animal on the place, and ask yourself if it is paying to keep this one or that one;
does each give some valuable product or make some gain in value that repays the cost of its support and leaves a margin of profit? If not, sell it. Look over the fields and see if there is any one or any portion of one that does not repay the cost of cultivation. If there is, arrange now to lay that down to grass or pasture, so that next season you will not be wasting time upon it that could be employed to better advantage. It is as certain that it will pay to concentrate your labor upon the best portions of the field, working thoroughly such land as may be expected to give good returns, as it is that it pays only to put feed into good stock. Much of the loss in farming comes from cultivating poor land and feeding poor cattle. It will be found, usually, that the farmer who follows these practices does so because he is tempted to handle too much of each.
Cut down the cultivated area and reduce the stock one-half; give better care, better cultivation and better feeding, and better results will follow."

SECTION 38 of the proposed new Constitution reads as follows:
"The first General Assembly, the members of which shall be elected under this Constitution, shall meet on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and thereafter on the same day every second year." &c.

The claim that the above section makes the members of the first General Assembly if the proposed Constitution is adopted, representatives without a limit to their term of office, is met with the assertion that section 38 of the proposed new Constitution is copied from the old Constitution. If any attempt was made to copy section 18 of the present Constitution, the copyist was either drunk or had a badly deranged vision. Section 18 of the present Constitution is brief and clear on the subject, and is as follows:

"The General Assembly shall convene on the first Monday in November after the adoption of this Constitution, and again on the first Monday in November, 1891, and on the same day every second year thereafter, unless a different day be appointed by law," &c.
There is no misunderstanding of those sections which were copied literally from the present Constitution, but every time the convention attempted to improve on a section of the present Constitution, it made a failure. Section 18 of the present and section 38 of the proposed Constitution employ different language to express the same idea, and the result is the old has largely the advantage of the new.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

To the Editors of the Recorder.

If Secretary Blaine be really broken down in health the responsibility therefor must largely rest upon the door of blind partisanship in his own party. The fisheries dispute, the Spanish reciprocity treaty, and many other matters that have weighed heavily upon his mind and helped to break down his physical system, might have been disposed of in President Cleveland's term. But it would not have been good politics to let a Democratic administration have the glory of settling such important questions, and they were kept open and held over by a dissident Congress. This policy was aimed at Cleveland and Bayard; but Blaine has been the chief victim.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has commenced the work of preparing new bonds bearing 2 per cent. interest, which, are to be issued in continuance of the 4 1/2 per cent. loan, and it is intended that the first installment of them shall be ready for delivery on Thursday, the 3d, inst. In the meantime several applications already received are being recorded, and the first lot of 4 1/2 per cent. bonds for continuance will be passed through the Secretary's office to-morrow, the 11 inst. From the manner in which the national banks are responding it is expected that there is plenty of work ahead in the loan division.

Just now the advocates of Mc-Kinley are absurdly cackling over his eccentric operation upon the trade in linseed oil. Under the old tariff of 25 cents a gallon on linseed oil the price of the article rose as high as 65 cents a gallon. The McKinley tariff increased the duty to 32 cents, and the price of linseed oil has fallen to 45 cents a gallon.
This result is, with amazing accuracy, heralded as one of the triumphs of protection, just as if the duty on linseed oil had been increased for the purpose of reducing its price. In such cases the price of linseed oil would be under small obligations to the authors of the McKinley bill. This is one of the instances in which tariff protection has failed, at least, in its object. The aim is to increase the price of linseed oil by increasing the duty. But with the increase of tax consumption was arrested by the use of rival commodities in some cases, and the price fell in the market. It is little to the credit of protection that it often fails to accomplish its plundering design.

It is still less creditable to the intelligence of its advocates that they set up a boast over its failure.
The discharged census clerks who are clamoring for another pull at the public test furnish in their demonstrations a curious illustration of the demoralizing effect which office-holding, even for a little while, may have on human nature. Accustomed as these men have been to dealing with billions for some months past, they seem to have imbibed the Foster idea that this is a billion dollar country, and, therefore, well able to provide work and pay for them ad infinitum. They are scarcely to be blamed for this impression. The desire for public place is imbibed with the atmosphere of Washington, and few who dwell here in official relation can entirely escape the infection. But the end comes sooner or later in a rude awakening to the harsh reality, and in this case it has come sooner, as one of the results of the surplus looking policy.

Assistant Secretary Spaulding has instructed the collector of customs at Port Huron, Michigan, in the case of a Chinaman arrested there for illegal entry, to send him to San Francisco for deportation to China. United States Commissioner at Detroit, Michigan, and Suspension Bridge, New York, recently ordered the return of Chinese to Canada despite the protestation of Assistant Secretary Spaulding that they should have been sent to San Francisco for deportation to China.
The question has been referred to the Attorney General.

The White House, which was thoroughly renovated last fall, is closed again for repairs. It will be closed again for the Washington household when this country's rockery shall cease to be prolific of jobbing; but the day will come when the principle applied to naval vessels—that those whose repair would cost more than 20 per cent of their value shall be dismantled—will have to be applied to the Executive mansion.

The director of the Mint had a conference with the Secretary of the Treasury yesterday in regard to the proposed mint building at Philadelphia, and it is probable that a commission to select a suitable site for the same will be appointed today, the 10th.

The farmer who wants his present exemptions taxed to supply the deficiency in the State treasury which would be caused by taxing banks as individuals are taxed, is in favor of adopting the proposed Constitution.

This weather is warm enough for the average inhabitant.

Early Wednesday morning a train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad was nearing Glenoe, the engineer discovered an obstruction on the track, and on stopping the train found a lot of plums and apples piled upon the track, placed there evidently for the purpose of wrecking the train. Mr.
Wilson, who resides just below Glenoe, where the obstruction was found, informed the engineer that a negro and a white man had placed the fruit on the track and that they were hiding close by. The train men started after them and succeeded in catching the negro. He was taken to LaGrange, where the Company's detective, Left Hitt, resides, and then released, and back to Glenoe. Telegrams were sent along the line for the apprehension of the white men, but without avail.
Two men were arrested at Milldale and brought to Glenoe, but they were not the ones wanted.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

Adopted by the Louisville Convention, May 18th.

"The Democratic party of Kentucky expresses its profound sympathy for distressed labor in fields and in the mines and factories. It reaffirms its doctrine of liberty, equality and fraternity. It offers relief to all classes distressed under the burdens of government and mismanagement and it calls upon the people to unite in the support of policies and principles, which, restricting the government to its indispensable functions, would leave to the citizen the widest liberty of action."

"We congratulate the country upon the awakening of the people to the importance of the subject of taxation, and on the fact that the long struggle of the Democratic party for a tariff for revenue only has at last brought its exceeding great reward in expression of the purpose of the people."

"We insist that tariff reform is the paramount question before the American people and denounce the Mc-Kinley bill as the most outrageous measure of taxation ever passed in the American Congress. It has increased the burdens, already too great, upon the necessities of life, and reduced taxes on luxuries that are most able to bear them. It has made existence harder for every farmer and wage earner in the land, and it has increased the price of the necessaries of life. It has increased the price of the necessities of life,
and it has increased the price of the necessaries of life."

"We recognize the fact that the United States is the greatest silver producing country in the world, and that both gold and silver were equally the money of the constitution from the beginning of the Republic until the hostile and fraudulent legislation of the Republican party against free silver, which unduly contracted the circulating medium of the country, and feeling that the great interests of the people demand more money for use in the channels of trade and commerce, we tender our gratitude to the Democrats in the last Congress for their almost unanimous votes in both houses in favor of the free coinage of silver and demand its restoration to the position of equality before the law given to it by our fathers."

"We present, for the consideration of the people of the land, the course as a Republican Congress wished, by its reckless, profligate and ruinous expenditure of public money, has, in two years squandered the surplus of more than a hundred million dollars left in the Federal Treasury by a Democratic administration, which has increased in the most extraordinary and unprecedented manner taxation that will add to the distress of the people, and at the same time, be inadequate to meet the demands of those who are using the Government to serve their selfish purposes."

"We return thanks to the patriotic members of the last Senate of the United States who defeated the unjust, iniquitous and partisan measures known as the Force bill, which would have been a fearful blow at home-rule and local self-government, and was intended to place in the hands of the republican party the machinery, whereby it might, by force, fraud and intimidation, have perpetuated the infamous rule and destroyed the freedom and integrity of the ballot."

"We commend to the people of the State the manly, patriotic and upright course of the Chief Executive whom the Democratic party gave to the Commonwealth four years ago, and endorse his administration as consistent with the principles on which he was nominated and elected."

Some very fine fish are being caught out of Woolper creek down about what is known as the Minor place. The back-water supplies that part of the creek with fine fish.

The Burlington and Bellevue baseball teams played here last Saturday afternoon. For about six innings it was a very nice game, but after that there was considerable loose playing done, and the score allowed to increase beyond reason. Some very creditable plays were made by each club during the first innings. At the conclusion the score stood 15 to 9 in favor of Burlington. Next Saturday afternoon a picked team from the Burlington and Bellevue teams will play the Covington Stars at this place.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

Miss Katie, daughter of Mr. Martin Farrell who resides on the place between Linsburg and Florence, died last Saturday night after several months' illness with consumption. The funeral took place Tuesday after which the remains were buried at St. Mary's cemetery on the Lexington pike. The deceased was in her 34th year.

Last Friday, as Charles B. Mason, wife and step-daughter and mother-in-law, who live near Big Bone Church, started to visit a friend, and when going down a hill near James H. Ayler's, a broad strap on the harness of one team broke, and the horses ran off, throwing the parties out of the wagon, and injuring the mother-in-law pretty badly.

The rain last Tuesday evening interfered with the anticipations of a fall party that went into camp down on Gunderwood. The party was composed of J. F. Blythe, M. T. Garrett and Jack Noble. They had just cast their lines and settled down to business when the rain came, and rained the creek not only destroying the fishing but detained the boys all night.

Dr. Lanning's residence surrounded as it is by massive forest trees and pretty flowers makes a picture pleasing to the eye, since he has had it repainted pure white with green blinds.

Mrs. F. Dickey met with a serious accident a few days since by losing her balance as she was going up some steps, and falling against the house striking her head and otherwise injuring herself.

If there is a Mrs. Mattie Dickerson, I do not know her, and if there is a lady by that name who has a son William, I do not know her. But I do know that Miss Mattie Dickerson and Miss Lou Williams are visiting in Cincinnati. Fourth of July only comes once a year, and I am willing to forgive you.

A young man makes a display of his intellectual tendencies when he drives a buggy at furious speed through town just at dusk, and when children and ladies are going to church; he also drives the automobile and runs over a Moccasin Indian only—Fourth of July comes but once a year, but my brother next time you see this young man, perhaps he'll be driving a horse and buggy. Till forgive you.—[J. J.]

I have heard of people who had curious ways of telling the time for going to bed, but Uncle John McAttee has the most curious one of all. He sets in the door of his home at sunset and counts the number of stars that fly past his door, and then after counting 500 lightning bugs, he goes to bed. This aged man has lived an active life for 80 years and indeed has been about as much on the country as any man in Boone County, but all he has to do now is draw his pension, eat his meals and sleep, making a lonely life indeed. How many persons in this community are willing to bring a ray of sunshine and pleasure into this life by a short visit—carrying a newspaper, a book or a kind word.

Whereas, in the opinion of this club the best interests of its individual members, their greatest happiness and prosperity could be best secured in wedded life; and whereas, our honorable brother, R. B. Stelling has met with success in this matter across the Ohio, therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of four be appointed to visit Indiana and other neighboring States for the purpose of finding suitable matches for the remaining members of the club.

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote and O. N. Alloway, Dickey Parker, T. M. Jones and George Olds were appointed as such committees.

It is understood that they will set to work immediately, and every one here will await the result with interest.

Monday evening two full moons with patches on their backs passed through town. As they came into town they stopped at the residence of G. G. Hughes. No man being about the house, and not liking the appearance of the stars, they slipped off their backs and came up to town. The dogs went on to the Bellevue pike. About 9 o'clock Tuesday morning they appeared at the residence of Lucius Ryle. Mrs. Ryle was alone, and the two brutes attempted to assault her, but she escaped the clutches and fled to where her husband was picking blackberries and gave the alarm. Mr. Ryle and one or two others started in pursuit of the two moon-bats. They were soon captured, although they attempted to flee when they saw the pursuing party approaching them. The dogs were loaded into a wagon and brought home Judge Baker who committed them to jail.

GALLATIN COUNTY.

D. C. Webster, of the Sparta neighborhood, has in his possession a porcupine horn made from the horn of a buffalo cow that was brought to this State 90 years ago by his grand-father Jacob Webster, a native of Culpepper county, Virginia. The buffalo was killed in Virginia and the horn appropriated for the purpose named. Mr. W. has an iron wedge that was brought here by his grand-father the same time—two relics that bear the mark of a century of time.

Authentic information has been received of the early building of the L. & N. railroad on the Indiana side of the Ohio river between Cincinnati and Louisville, and work is expected to begin in September. The company that has the franchise has sold it to the Vanderbilt system, and the road will be used as an adjunct to the "Big Four" railroad, giving it a direct connection with Louisville and the South. All the arrangements about terminal facilities have been made. The new bridge at Louisville, across the Ohio river to the Falls City, and the Big Four track into the Queen City. Good authority states it to be a sure thing, but the public has been dreadfully misled on this point.

The prospects for a tobacco crop in this section is far from flattering, and it looks as if a short crop, of poor quality, will be the general result of most of the farmer's effort. There are some good crops. It is not the case in a few counties in the White Barley district report good crops. It looks as if there is a fair chance for holders of old tobacco to yet realize good prices for what is left on hand. The growing crop is yellow and unlikeli to mature, and is very late, and it looks as if with inevitable weather it would not make a prime article, even on the best of ground.

ARMED MINERS

Four thousand at them, said the waiting at Newcastle and Coal Creek for the troops.

Four thousand well armed miners at Newcastle and Coal Creek are waiting for the militia. A bloody battle will certainly occur. If troops go down from various points in Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky to take the rioters on, on short notice, take a force of 10,000 efficient men.

Monday night rioters formed on Walden's ridge and prepared to roll down huge boulders on the soldiers should they approach. The telegraph wires are still intact, but it is hard to get a message sent from Coal Creek unless it is taken by a messenger.

Votes for Brown and the other Democratic boys.

The majority against the new Constitution in this county will be about 1,372 votes.

If all the Democratic voters who are expected to vote at Walton next Saturday the boys in the trenches will have a royal day.

The larger the Democratic vote in this county next Monday, the larger will be the county's representation in the district and State conventions for the next few years.

This county has never swayed in her Democratic faith, and, although some counties in the State may be disposed to allow the Alliance to lead them off temporarily, the vote next Monday will show that Boone is still in line with no indications of a leaning toward any new party.

Is Senator Sherman not very careful ex-Governor Forsaker will retire him from the United States Senate. The fight is now on, and the contest in Hamilton county has already assumed a feverish hue, notwithstanding the Senator and his friends have declared all the time that no trouble was threatening his political serenity.

The friends of Mr. McKinley realize that he has no walk-over in his contest with Governor Campbell, and they are arranging for a hard struggle, while the Democrats are equally industrious in formulating their plans for the State campaign. If Campbell should defeat McKinley for Governor of Ohio this fall, much will have been done by the Democrats toward winning the national campaign in 1892.

A NEGRO tramp named Craig called at the residence of Nathan C. Conway, near Paris, last Sunday, and asked for a drink of water, which was given him, when, without any provocation whatever, the negro began a savage assault on the family with an old scythe blade, killing both the aged people Mr. and Mrs. Conway, and seriously wounding two of their sons. The negro was pursued and killed.

When you vote for the adoption of the new Constitution next Monday, remember that you vote to create a deficit of $104,000 in the State Treasury by changing the rate of taxation on banks, and that this deficit will have to be made up by additional tax on the farmers. Remember, also, that the new Constitution discriminates in favor of the railroads now in operation, and that they will not allow competing lines to be built.

No State government is more economically administered than is that of Kentucky. She pays more towards the support of her public schools and less to run the State government than any State in the Union, except probably one, and yet the Republican party in Kentucky condemns the Democratic party of the State for an extravagant and reckless use of the State's funds, and calls upon the people to vote against the Democratic ticket because thereof, and this in the face of the fact that its party has exhausted the national treasury.

The escape of Anderson, the notorious burglar, from the Cincinnati jail, one night last week, has created considerable unfavorable comment on the management of the affairs about the jail, and it is generally believed that Anderson's liberty was purchased, the price being estimated all the way from $150 to $4,000. It is hard to tell whom a thorough investigation will incriminate, and for that reason the matter of investigating the escape may be quietly dropped. It seems that a prominent young Republican politician has been connected with the case, and a locksmith who was employed to make him a key, but who was refused by Republicans, and who will be developed by the investigation now under way.

When Hon. T. B. Matthews, of Petersburg, was nominated by the Republicans of this county as their candidate for County Representative in the next General Assembly, he made a speech in which he dubbed the delegates "mistaken statesmen" and the result of their work, a "cray quilt," and every Republican in the house applauded the speaker, and was greatly pleased because the speaker had so aptly expressed each one's opinion of the convention and its work. But there has been some changes since Mr. Matthews sounded the keynote in Boone. A higher authority has since spoken at Lexington—the party lash has rung out keen and clear, and some of those Republicans who applauded Mr. Matthews so liberally are feasting on constitution crowd, while some of their Republican brethren enjoy many a hearty laugh over their miraculous conversion.

This State campaign is about closed. Both the old parties made an active canvass of the State, and with what result will soon be seen. The Third Party has had its orators in the field, and they have covered considerable territory, and these speakers are claiming that their party will poll one hundred thousand votes in this State next Monday. They may do this but it will be half that number if it does not than we anticipate. But in this as in other States, the dominant party is the one the new party will hurt the most, consequently to counterbalance its effects Democrats ought to be out in force next Monday, and every one should see to it that this Democratic neighbor visits the polls on that day. Kentucky has the first gun in the election, known as the fall election, and the Democratic party of the country expects a good report from her, and it is to be hoped she has not in store any disappointment, but when the smoke of battle has cleared away on the Tuesday morning following the election, there will stand Kentucky with fifty thousand majority for John Young Brown and the rest of the ticket.

Section 157 of the new constitution, if adopted, will permit negroes to vote for white school trustees. Examine for yourself, and see if it does, vote against it and get all you can to vote the same way.

Can any one tell if the new constitution is adopted, how a vacancy in office is to be filled? Examine it on that subject, and if you can, inform us. The masses of the people don't know and they want to vote intelligently. It ought to be rejected.

Under the present constitution a Governor is to be elected on the first Monday in August, 1891. Under the new constitution he is to be elected at the same time Senators and Representatives are, and every four years thereafter, and Senators and Representatives are to be elected on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1892. This will cause an election for Governor in 1895 and again in 1896, or a vacancy in the office or result in settling a political question in the highest courts of the State. Are the people going to adopt such an anomalous instrument as that? The easiest way to avoid trouble is to vote against it, and rebuke those presenting it to an unsatisfied people for adoption.

Have you read section 176 of the proposed new constitution? If you have, you know it taxes the clothes you wear. That wonderful instrument that decreases the tax on bank stock and increases it on the necessities of the laboring man. Vote against it and see that your neighbors do the same.

If the court house, poorhouse or other public buildings should be destroyed by fire or storm, how can they be rebuilt under section 164 of the proposed new constitution? Under that instrument the county is known and designated as a "taxing district," and no taxing district shall be authorized in any manner or for any purpose to an amount exceeding in any year, the income and revenue provided for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the voters voting at an election to be held for that purpose, and the new constitution does not provide how such election can be held, to raise it by a vote. The result will be that if the new instrument is adopted by the people local self government is destroyed. Better read it carefully and see if the facts are correctly stated, and if they are, don't hesitate to cast your vote against it.

If the new constitution is adopted it will cost the State $100,000 to have her laws codified.

The Auditor's statement shows that if the new constitution is adopted it will take out of the State Treasury $104,000 of the revenue now derived by tax on banks. This deficit will have to be supplied, and it will be done by taxing the farmers.

It requires every law passed by the General Assembly to be printed and placed before the representatives. This will compel the State to pay thousands of dollars for useless and unnecessary printing.

Under the new constitution county lines are entirely obliterated in so far as local legislation is concerned. Every county must have exactly the same road law, the same stock law, the same whiskey law.

The constitution makes the white and colored schools separate, but allows the negroes to vote at the election of white school trustees.

It provides that no property shall be exempt from taxation, and then contradicts itself and allows towns and cities to exempt manufacturing establishments.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 24, 1891.

There is a general disposition among the Democrats of Ohio to simply drop the free silver platform and to make the campaign on the paramount issue of tariff reform. The McKinley tariff has been made the issue by political forces and conditions that are more potent than the work of the most cunning joiners of platforms.

In Ohio the real issue of the contest—tariff reform—has been ably presented in the speech by Governor Campbell accepting his nomination, and upon this question the contest will be made. As for free silver coinage, its chief danger comes from the Republican representatives of the Rocky Mountain mining camps in the United States Senate. But for the pressure upon the Republican party of a political force holding not less than eighteen Republican seats in the Senate this question would cause no serious concern. In Ohio free silver coinage is a mere side issue which the Ohio Democrats are rapidly repudiating, and before the November election it will have become completely overshadowed by the one imperative issue of tariff reform.

Acting Secretary Grant has approved a change made by the Mississippi River Commission in the allotments for improvements. The most important of these changes is the deduction of $75,000 in one sum and $50,000 in another from the original allotment for Lake Providence Reach and the application of these amounts to general levee construction and to the improvement of Plum Point Reach.

Reports from Mississippi show that the negroes in the State have apparently lost all interest in their right of suffrage. Only about one-fourth of them have complied with the new Constitution, which requires voters to register 4 months in advance of the election. There is little hope that the Republicans will ever be able to carry Mississippi, if the "strength, beauty and flavor" of the party take so little interest in its success as to fail to register.

The Bureau of American Republics is informed that a new cable to the West Indies is among the probabilities of the near future. Mr. F. N. Gibson, the electrician, of San Francisco, recommended the construction of a new cable, and a London syndicate is now interested in the project. The line recommended will be an extension of the cable between Halifax and Bermuda, and will terminate at Demarara, touching on its route Fort Island and the Island of Jamaica, and passing through the Caios passage.

Another breach has been made in the disordered ranks of the Republican party of Iowa by the prohibition question. The Republican candidate for Governor has been nominated against a prohibition platform, and one of the most influential Republicans of the State, T. W. Faulke, of Cedar Rapids, in a communication to the Chicago Inter Ocean, predicts his inevitable defeat. Mr. Faulke, through the same source, gave warning of the danger of prohibition before the Republican convention met, but his earnest cry was unheeded. He now declares that prohibition is ruinous to the future of the Republican party in Iowa, as well as to the progress of the State, and the voters of the State who adhered to the party until the failure of its prohibition policy had become apparent.

In order to stem the tide of popular discontent in Iowa, ex-Congressman Gear and other politicians who have been hostile to prohibition, have been sent through the State to bring back the Republican voters to their party allegiance. A curious phase of the situation is the attitude of the colored voters, who are determined in their hostility to prohibition, and who, it is feared, will vote as a body for Gov. Boies, the Democratic candidate.

The colored voters will hold a convention at Cedar Rapids on the 15 and 16 of August, when they will take definite action on the question. In the meantime the opposition of the farmers of Iowa to the party of prohibition is growing in force and volume.

The Illinois law intended to enforce weekly payments of wages to employes, will be contested in the courts by the corporations which it affects. The grounds of objection urged are that the law is unequal and unfair in exempting farmers and and steam railroad companies from its operations, and that it subjects corporations to unnecessary expense when large numbers of men are employed, in making out weekly pay rolls and making payments. There would seem to be some force in the first objection. Laws of this kind should be general in their application.

Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, thinks the Vice-Presidency "not a position that any man would hanker for." If there really be one position in the entire fabric of the Federal Government that does not entitle hankering in the political breast the extraordinary fact will merit publicity in this season of general news dullness.

If adopted the new constitution will interrupt the progress of the State.

Under the proposed new constitution less than 40 members of the House and 16 members of the Senate can not pass a law.

At an extra session of the Legislature the Governor can dictate exactly what business will be considered.

If Congress should change the time of electing its members to odd years, under the new constitution no State officers could be elected. The people will never have an opportunity to say what property shall be exempt from taxation, no matter what are the necessities of the case.

Under it no laws can be made to regulate corporations and railroads.

To get an amendment before the people it will require the votes of 60 of the members of the House and 23 of the Senate.

The open clause is a failure, and it will be as difficult to call a convention under the new constitution as it was under the old.

The constitution is contradictory and under its provisions there will be no end to litigation.

Our neighbors.

Tobacco looks very uneven, notwithstanding the fact that it is growing rapidly.

There is a larger acreage of corn in Owen county this year than for some time, and it is growing rapidly.

R. Davis sold his wheat last week to Madison parties at 85 cents delivered at the wharf in Madison. Mr. Davis had 20 acres which yielded 700 bushels.

Judge Lee's summer term of Quarter court has been held on Monday, and the docket, which is the largest for many years, will not likely be cleared before the latter part of the week. His docket shows 130 appearances, 45 continued and 16 criminal cases.

J. J. Lillard has commenced work on his new residence, which, when completed, will be quite an improvement in that neighborhood.

The Union Sunday School Convention will be in session here two days next month. It will be followed by the Teachers' Institute, with a five days session.

A Justice of the Peace and a Constable are to be elected in this district next Monday, and it seems to be an instance in which the office are seeking the men.

The Recorder will give a $40 gold piece as a premium for the best copy of Wallace's "The Harvest Home" on Saturday, September 5, 1891. The competition will be limited to residents of this county.

A very large, brown horse, six years old, escaped from W. E. Vest's stable last Sunday night, about which time it has not been heard of. The horse belongs to Jim Perchell. If you have any information in regard to the horse, inform W. E. Vest at this place.

Notice.—In the Boone Co., Harvest Home premium list much corn was left off by mistake, on an which there is a premium of $10 for Best Milch Cow, $5 for second best milch cow; also the best Jersey Bull under 2 years.

Several of the farmers in the north end of the county found their lambs short from 5 to 12 when they went to deliver them, and an occasional lamb has been found lying out in the woods where the butchers had been performing. Our Union correspondent notes the same trouble in his part of the county. Some people have evidently been out of meat and did not care how they secured a supply.

Tuesday at noon Tim Westaby took a bucket of water into the prisoners in the cells, when the negro gave him a push and darted out of the jail like a flash. As soon as Tim recovered his feet he commenced pursuit joined by others, and after an exciting chase of about a mile, Morgan Deemon captured the negro, who is again belated in the jail. He is the negro that was sent here from Walton a few weeks ago.

The instructions under which the County Superintendent and his board of examiners are now compelled to hold examinations, make it more difficult for teachers to secure certificates. For instance, to secure a first-class certificate the applicant must have an average percentage of 85, and in C. Branch falling below 60. For a second-class certificate he must have a general average of 75 and not below 55 in any one study. For a third-class a general percentage of 65 and not below 50 in any one study.

W. W. Helm, Atty., of Louisville, was in town last Sunday and Monday. He was examining the will of John Craig, made in 1811. Craig was a resident of this county and owned six land grants in Pike county. He was somewhat in debt, and made a deed of trust to a friend, authorizing the sale of enough of said land to pay his debts. Five of the parcels of land were sold, leaving the sixth, which contains 30,000 acres. This land has never looked after until recently, and it is now sold up and worth considerable money. W. B. Grubbs and some of the Craig's of this county are heirs of the above named John Craig, and will join in the effort to recover the Pike county land.

It seems that there is bound to be a racket by and between the friends of Harrison and Elaine as to which shall be the Republican nominee for the Presidency next year.

These indications are that the proposed new Constitution is losing votes in some quarters.

Turn out and vote next Monday.

No Third Party flanking movement is going to catch the Kentucky Democracy unawares. The Third Party has no hope of electing its ticket and less still of ever putting its theories into practice. The most it can do and the most its Republican backers and supporters of its expensive campaign, expect to do, is to draw away Democratic votes.

This is the game, Democrats. It is as easy to see as the bottom of the National Treasury when the Republican party got through with it. Never mind the side issues or the cries of "wolf." The devil has many a disguise and knows many a trick, and he works best in confusion. But, after all, and with all this, it is the same old fight between Republicanism and Democracy, and Kentucky Democrats always know just what to do with a fight of that kind.

Tobacco looks very uneven, notwithstanding the fact that it is growing rapidly.

There is a larger acreage of corn in Owen county this year than for some time, and it is growing rapidly.

R. Davis sold his wheat last week to Madison parties at 85 cents delivered at the wharf in Madison. Mr. Davis had 20 acres which yielded 700 bushels.

Judge Lee's summer term of Quarter court has been held on Monday, and the docket, which is the largest for many years, will not likely be cleared before the latter part of the week. His docket shows 130 appearances, 45 continued and 16 criminal cases.

If your race suffers, or you are all worn out, really poor for nothing, it is a general deficiency, it will cure you, restore your life, and give you a new lease of life.

J. J. Lillard has commenced work on his new residence, which, when completed, will be quite an improvement in that neighborhood.

The Union Sunday School Convention will be in session here two days next month. It will be followed by the Teachers' Institute, with a five days session.

A Justice of the Peace and a Constable are to be elected in this district next Monday, and it seems to be an instance in which the office are seeking the men.

The Recorder will give a $40 gold piece as a premium for the best copy of Wallace's "The Harvest Home" on Saturday, September 5, 1891. The competition will be limited to residents of this county.

A very large, brown horse, six years old, escaped from W. E. Vest's stable last Sunday night, about which time it has not been heard of. The horse belongs to Jim Perchell. If you have any information in regard to the horse, inform W. E. Vest at this place.

Notice.—In the Boone Co., Harvest Home premium list much corn was left off by mistake, on an which there is a premium of $10 for Best Milch Cow, $5 for second best milch cow; also the best Jersey Bull under 2 years.

Several of the farmers in the north end of the county found their lambs short from 5 to 12 when they went to deliver them, and an occasional lamb has been found lying out in the woods where the butchers had been performing. Our Union correspondent notes the same trouble in his part of the county. Some people have evidently been out of meat and did not care how they secured a supply.

Tuesday at noon Tim Westaby took a bucket of water into the prisoners in the cells, when the negro gave him a push and darted out of the jail like a flash. As soon as Tim recovered his feet he commenced pursuit joined by others, and after an exciting chase of about a mile, Morgan Deemon captured the negro, who is again belated in the jail. He is the negro that was sent here from Walton a few weeks ago.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

Adopted by the Louisville Convention, May 13th.

"The Democratic party of Kentucky expresses its profound sympathy for distressed labor in fields and in the mines and factories. It reaffirms its doctrine of liberty, equality and fraternality. It offers relief to all classes distressed under the burdens of government and misgovernment, and it calls upon all good citizens to unite in the support of policies and principles, which, restricting the government to its undisputed province, would leave to the citizen the widest liberty of action.

"We congratulate the country upon the awakening of the people to the importance of the subject of taxation, and on the fact that the long struggle of the Democratic party for a tariff reform is now at last brought to its exceeding great reward in an expression of the purpose of the people.

"We insist that tariff reform is the paramount question before the American people, and denounce the McKinley tariff as the most outrageous measure of taxation ever passed in the American Congress. It has increased the burdens, already too great, upon the necessities of life, and reduced taxes on luxuries which are most able to bear them. It has made existence harder for every farmer and wage earner in the land, and it has taken the profits of the monopolies and trusts may be increased. It robs the many to enrich the few, and does not open a market for a single bushel of wheat or a single barrel of coal. It contrasts with the policy of Grover Cleveland and John G. Carlisle would discourage unnecessary expenditure, provide all needed revenue, cheapen what we buy and open the markets of the world to the products of our farms and factories.

"Recognizing the fact that the United States is the greatest silver producing country in the world, and that both gold and silver were equally the money of the constitution from the beginning of the Republic until the hostile and fraudulent legislation of the Republican party against free silver, which unduly restricted the circulating medium of the country, and feeling that the great interests of the people demand more money for use in the channels of trade and commerce, we tender our gratitude to the Democrats in the last Congress for their almost unanimous vote in both houses in favor of the free coinage of silver and demand its restoration to the position of equality before the law given to it by our fathers.

"We present, for the consideration of the people of the land, the course as a Republican Congress which, by its reckless, profligate and ruinous expenditure of public money, has in two years squandered the surplus of more than a hundred million dollars left in the Federal Treasury by a Democratic administration, whilst it has increased in the most extraordinary and unprecedented manner taxation that will add to the distress of the people, and, at the same time, be inadequate to meet the demands of those who are using the Government to serve their selfish purposes.

"We return thanks to the patriotic members of the last Senate of the United States who defeated the unjust, iniquitous and villainous measures known as the Force bill, which would have been a fearful blow at home-rule and local self-government, and was intended to place in the hands of the republican party the machinery, whereby it might, by force, fraud and intimidation, have perpetrated iniquitous rule and destroyed the freedom and integrity of the ballot.

"We commend to the people of the State the manly, patriotic and upright course of the Chief Executive whom the Democratic party gave to the Commonwealth four years ago, and endorse his administration as consistent with the principles on which he was nominated and elected."

A RIDICULOUS STATE
The Political Enterprise of Peace and Prosperity

Gen. Ramo pretends to state the number of union soldiers who died during and since the war, and the number of those still living.

He puts the dead veterans at 655 and the survivors at 1,936, in total a 2,315,365 individuals bore arms in the northern some time during the four years 1861 and 1865.

We have shown why it is that this estimate, and even the estimate of survival is grossly exaggerated. If 2,315,365 legion, then, on the basis of the figures of 1960, it follows that about one-half of the total population of the north of the country were the wine and cactus people, anybody with common sense perceives at the first glance.

The truth is that no official statistics on the number of military personnel, the navy department, the pension bureau, no human being knows, the number of people who fought at one time or another in the war.

The number of enlistments in the army is approximately 100,000 in round numbers the enlistment totals were 2,960,000. One can see that signifying the different individuals in the army, it reckons as two sold individuals who enlisted.

But no veteran is entitled, by the pension act, to one pension a

Two railroad bands from Walton were lodged in jail Sunday night. They were on a drunk, and became so outrageous in their conduct that a term in jail is the result.

Whose spoon is this? W. T. German found among his dishes after the basket dinner at the church the other day and left at the most reasonable little "U. A. R." on the handle.

The Robertson Co., Tribune-Democrat of June 24th, are calling into our office last Saturday evening. The reading of its articles on the proposed new constitution was very interesting.

L. H. Vossell, of Lebanon, was at LeGrand Grange's last week purchasing and what Mr. V. is laying the wheat in the crop does in good time.

There has been considerable flux in that part of the county along the Ohio river from the mouth of Woolper to the mouth of Big Bone, and about three miles back from the river. Several deaths have resulted.

The Lawrenceburg granite and marble works are turning out some very fine work at the most reasonable prices. Boone county people who desire to purchase tombstones or monuments will find it to their advantage to call there. John Ball, of Hebron, is the agent.

John Stoker, of Russell's Mills, came in to his work last week with a small bucket containing two pounds of rice, sweet butter. He says it had been in the well ten or twelve years. A well is a good place to keep things, and we are keeping a best stock in ours.

The twelfth annual exhibition of the Lawrenceburg Fair is in progress this week, and doubtless will be a great success. Preparations have been made for a big show, and many new exhibitors are known to have arranged to take part. The livestock and agricultural exhibitions are the regular attractions. Many exhibitors will be on hand from this county.

Mr. Oscar Gaines entertained quite a number of his relatives and friends one day last week. Croquet was the leading amusement and despite the excessive heat the balls were kept rolling all day, except a short interval when the guests were taken to discuss a splendid dinner, such as Mrs. Gaines and her daughter delight in preparing for their guests. Mr. Charles Graves, of Missouri, was one of the company. He had with him his regulation croquet mallet, and was profuse in his comments on the games, as they progressed, but it seemed to be an odd day with him.

A dispatch from Cairo, Illinois, gives the following account of a thrilling experience of our old friend and acquaintance who, until four or five years ago was a citizen of Petersburg:

"Capt. B. B. Bradley, Calo agent of the Huntington and St. Louis Towboat Company, enjoys the distinction of having bumped and rolled down the bottom of a steamboat, taking in the huge and rapidly revolving wheel enroute, coming up fifty feet in the rear, and yet he is alive to detail his experience."

"Sunday, at 5 p. m., the towboat H. F. Friable was rounding into the Ohio River, from the Tennessee, at Paducah, through the chute immediately above the island, with a skiff alongside in which was Capt. Bradley, who desired to go ashore without calling the captain to land him. At the moment of rounding into the Ohio the skiff was out loose, shooting like an arrow toward the shore."

"It was not quick enough, however, to escape the steamboat's stern, which was flanking at railway speed. Catching the frail craft near the engine room it spilled the boat. Instantly both men and passengers were hurled beneath the hull of the steamboat."

A few moments later the skiff came to the surface, fifty yards from the bridge, the unfortunate man, who at the moment of sinking believed the skiff was attached to the stern of the skiff and clung to it. It was doubtless the cause of his salvation. Some obstruction while under the hull caught him exactly between the shoulders, leaving his arms to the shore and leaving him in a position to be pulled out, which today presented a fearful appearance. His watch was found in his outside pocket, with a distinct time drawn across the case."

"It was still raining, while a huge gold chain was broken in several places and part was missing. A bruise across the left side, with a sore feeling throughout the entire body, the only inconvenience was that the Capt. Bradley was somewhat dizzy. The skiff was miraculously, and the Captain was heartily congratulated upon reaching here this evening."

FIRE FIRE!

Cropper Brothers' Stock of Dry Goods Destroyed.

The Herold Efforts of the Bucket Brigade Save The Building.

STOCK AND BUILDING INSURED.

It was about one o'clock last Sunday night when Mrs. P. G. Cropper awoke and found her room filled with smoke. She immediately aroused her husband and they started down stairs, but when the door leading to the stairway was opened they found the hall filled with a dense volume of smoke in which a person could survive but a few moments. Not knowing from whence came the smoke, whether from the room beneath them or the one at the rear of their sleeping apartment, they closed the door and ran to the window opening on Jefferson street and commenced shouting, "fire, bring a ladder!" Assistance soon came and a ladder was run up to the window and Mr. Cropper and his wife descended safely from the room which the smoke was rapidly filling to suffocation.

Up to this time the fire had not been located and but two or three persons had arrived at the building. The smoke was coming out at nearly every window in the large house which is a two story brick, a portion of which was occupied by Mr. Cropper as a residence and store, one room by the Boone Co. Insurance Company and one room by J. H. Ball's barber shop, and other rooms being vacant.

It was finally discovered that the fire was in Cropper Bros', store, by which time the town was pretty well aroused, and the bucket brigade was on hand in full force, and commenced putting in its best work, with water from the public cisterns.

The fire was burning rapidly behind the counter at the rear end of the store room, and the heat was so intense as to cause the ceiling to fall in. It was impossible to get the water on the flames, and to add to the danger it was known that a large lot of cartridges and a can of several pounds of powder were in the room proximate to the fire. But despite all these disadvantages the fight was stubbornly continued, and although for a long time it looked as though the building was doomed, the flames were finally subdued, but not before a large portion of the dry goods were burned, while the remainder of the stock of goods was virtually destroyed by the heat and water, and what a few hours before was a handsome country store was left a ruin.

How the fire originated is unknown, and there are many theories advanced as to its cause. Mr. Perry Cropper was in the store about 8 o'clock Sunday evening, and everything was in order, but a negro woman who passed along the street about midnight saw a bright light in the store, but she did not suspect that there was anything wrong in the room.

The stock of goods was kept in two rooms at the rear of the main store room and the fire did not reach them, but many of the articles there were ruined by the smoke.

Every room about the large building was filled with smoke, although several of them were quite a distance from the fire, and the furniture in the residence was badly smoked and present an unattractive appearance.

The building belongs to F. P. Walton and wife, of Uttinger, and we understand that they have insured it with the Boone Co. Insurance Company for $2,000. The damage to the building is about $500. The stock of goods they had insured with the Boone Co. Insurance Company for $2,000. They have not yet received the insurance money, as the company's adjusters were when they were in the store, and of course, what proposition he will make is to be learned.

NOTES:

The pump at the public cistern was run to its full capacity.

Morgan Beamon could stand more smoke than any other man present.

Everybody worked with a determination to conquer—conquer they did.

The store room is the worst looking wreck seen in Burlington for a long time.

F. Riddell got lost in his house and had considerable trouble to find his way out.

Dudley Reese attacked the flames with his hand grenade, but it would not explode.

Edson Riddell got his wrist badly cut in breaking open a window to the store room.

Will Cropper was out in the country and knew nothing of the fire in his store until Monday morning.

Joe Riddell suggested throwing salt on the fire, and in a few minutes after it was begun the flames were under control.

The bucket brigade has been very successful fighting the fire in Burlington, but some day it will tackle one with out success we fear.

Several persons in town knew nothing about the fire until Monday morning, while some a mile out in the country heard the noise and came in.

Harry Blythe heard the cry, "fire," in his sleep, when he crawled out of his room and saw the smoke coming from a distance in an opposite direction from the fire before he awoke.

Heat, smoke and labor formed a combination that was too much for Elmer Beall, and shortly after the "out tap" was sounded, he was under the care of a doctor. Rimmer is a worker.

GEO. Blythe, who lives nearly a mile from town, heard the noise and concluded that an attempt was being made to rob the bank, and as he came to the bank and saw the smoke, he was stopped at Prof. Newton's and borrowed a revolver.

The Sunday School Convention.

The Sunday-School Union that met here last Thursday was not largely attended the first day. By noon the convention was in good running order and the Sunday-school workers in attendance manifested considerable interest in the proceedings.

At 12 o'clock dinner was spread in the yard, and after all had partaken of an excellent feast and indulged in an hour's social chat, the convention re-assembled and work was resumed. Several good speeches were made and lively discussions indulged in.

The principal feature of the day was Mr. D. B. Robinson's address on "The Method of Teaching." Mr. Robinson was followed by Rev. Tyler, on the "Methods of Teaching."

The introduction of each of the above subjects brought out an interesting discussion in which the speakers and the ministers had no advantage over the laymen when it came to discussion.

At the conclusion of the day's program it was announced that Rev. Tyler, Freshwater, would preach at night. Mr. Tyler is a young man, and a very interesting talker. His sermon was listened to by quite a good sized congregation, which was greatly pleased by his preaching.

On Thursday the crowd was considerably increased, and the program was more extensive. The first subject, "Primary Teachers, their special difficulties, and how to overcome them," was introduced by Prof. James H. Craven, of Walton, by a lengthy and well-written essay, in which the subject was ably treated. The ground was so well covered that no one had anything to add when Mr. Craven yielded the floor.

Rev. Mann gave his ideas of how to make a Sunday-school room attractive. His speech seemed to take well with the audience, and he made several very pertinent criticisms of the Sunday-school of yesteryear.

Horatio Wood had Sunday-school Finance for his subject. After Mr. W. had made his speech, Rev. Mann and Penn joined issue on the question of how finances should be raised, and quite a lively discussion was the result. Rev. Mann objected to spicers, and Rev. Penn endorsing support for the purpose of relieving funds when necessary.

In the afternoon there were several very interesting talks previous to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and a delegate to attend the State Sunday School Union which meets at Middleboro.

The election resulted in James H. Craven being elected President, A. S. Rachal, Secretary and Rev. W. A. Penn delegate to the State Union at Middleboro.

The Convention was a success in every particular, and was enjoyed by all who attended. The success of the County Sunday School Union is due to the untiring efforts of Rev. H. M. Lentz, who has been a zealous worker in its behalf.

Just before adjournment, Rev. J. W. Tyler and W. A. Penn, introduced a resolution of appreciation which was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That Sunday School Workers of the Boone County Union in connection with the State Sunday School Union, extend to the members of this union, and especially to the members and the pastor of the Baptist Church, their warmest regards and best wishes for their prosperity and Christian charity.

NOTES:

Benj. Floyd led the music, and he is a good singer and a good leader.

The Goodwin and Hebron people make excellent church music.

Ohio Boone, with his cornet, added much to the music the second day.

Several of the Sunday-school Superintendents of the county were not in attendance.

The church was crowded on Friday, and the exercises were given the best of attention.

Petersburg was selected as the place at which the next meeting of the Union will be held.

The large maple about the church yard furnished ample shade in which to spread dinner.

Rev. H. M. Lentz was an excellent presiding officer and kept business moving all the time.

Reva Lentz, Uly. Tyler, R. E. Kirtley, Prosser, Mann and Penn, were the ministers present during the meeting.

A beautiful dinner was furnished each day, and the local cooks excelled themselves in the preparation of their dishes.

Mrs. A. G. Flak, of Florence, and Miss Katie Huey, presided at the organ the first day, and Miss Fannie Rice the second day.

Farmers' Alliance Robbed.

J. A. Wynn, the State Business Agent, of the Farmers' Alliance of Georgia, was announced to be a defaulter to the amount of $20,000. All day news deficits have been discovered, until now it looks as if the shortage will go past $60,000.

A year ago the farmers of the State decided that they could do their own merchandising, and Wynn was selected as their business agent. He was put under a bond of $50,000. When the bond was discovered by the officers Saturday evening, it amounted to $15,000. The bondsmen were anxious to settle then and there, and keep the whole story secret. The raise of $50,000 in one morning, made it impossible to get rich before an account could be called for, when he would balance up his books and appear all right. The fidelity Casualty Company, of New York, is in for $19,000 of the loss. This failure explains the attacks which have been made upon the State Alliance recently because of a contemplated transfer of its business to a New York trust company. The transfer would have called for a showing up of the books, and that was what Wynn did not want.

The Latonia races will be in progress next week.

Mr. Mills, of Texas, is quite sanguine of Democratic success in Iowa this fall. He says that many voters heretofore Republicans are disgusted with the prohibitory tariff law of their party, and will vote for Gov. Boone.

The counties in the Congressional District will be represented by delegates as follows in the next convention: Kenton, 22; Campbell, 15; Carroll, 6; Boone, 8; Pendleton, 7; Grant, 7; Trimble, 5—total, 70. The last Congressional Convention had 97 delegate votes.

Law governing the State elections should be made to apply to all primary elections, for bribery and other corrupt influences practiced at primary elections are as demoralizing to a community as much to be avoided as if they occurred at a general election. Let corruption at elections be attacked all along the line.

A cross of United States Marshals are having an interesting time down in Lyon county trying to collect a railroad tax with the citizens refuse to pay. The money was used in constructing a railroad through that county, but the property owners are of the opinion that they did not get value received for the money invested, hence the trouble.

It seems that President Harrison and Secretary Blaine are running neck and neck for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. These distinguished gentlemen need not be annoying themselves and their friends about the Republican nomination, for the next occupant of the White House will be sent there by the Democratic party.

It is charged that Charles Pillsbury, a Minneapolis wheat speculator, was the author of the "yellow wheat circular," purporting to have been issued by the Farmers' Alliance. The syndicate to which Pillsbury belonged had on hand about six hundred thousand bushels of old wheat which it desired to unload before new wheat commenced coming in to reduce prices.

The Georgia Legislature is considering a bill that proposes to tax all old bachelors in that State. The bill provides that a bachelor of age of thirty years shall be taxed $25, and on a rising scale of $25 per five years, making if cost a man 60 years old $200 per annum for the pleasure of doing without a wife. Should the bill become a law there will be a bachelor exodus from the State of Georgia.

One of the counties below here that voted very strongly in favor of the new Constitution, has prepared an elaborate road law to present to the next General Assembly for passage. The proposed law says it is to apply only to the county presenting it. As the new Constitution will prohibit exactly that class of legislation, all the work preparing the proposed law is lost, and no doubt the practical workings of the new Constitution will change the opinion of some of its supporters at the polls, because they want that road law, and they want it badly.

Money and public speakers are to be sent to Ohio from the South to defeat McKinley and Sherman. There is an organized effort in this direction.

Speakers and money will be sent into Ohio from the East by the millionaire manufacturers to elect McKinley. As for Sherman, men and money to work for his defeat will be forthcoming from the Republican party in Ohio. "There is an organized effort in this direction," and no less a person than one ex-Gov. J. B. Foraker is working that "organized effort" for all there is in it.

The new Constitution stops the free pass system on railroads, steamships and other common carriers, by providing a heavy penalty on any State, city, town, county or other accepting such free passes. Any transportation at reduced rates not common to the public.

Now the question arises, how will the delegates who held the last session of the Constitutional Convention will be treated when they are sent to the Convention and from the Convention back to the State? It is a question that should be given by the State at the address of residence of the delegates, or by depositing a check for the same, if he has one.

The teachers of the public schools in this county are again assembled in their annual institute. The institute has for its purpose the improvement of the teachers, but it is utterly impossible for it to accomplish anything in that line without a hearty cooperation on the part of the teachers. It all the teachers in attendance determine to make the best of the situation this week, they will find at the close of the institute that they have been benefited in some respect by being brought together in a capacity to exchange views in regard to their profession. Teachers, as well as persons of other professions, never progress so far in their calling that they can not learn something from some one who is engaged in the same business.

W. W. DUDLEY, of Indiana, and Treasurer of the Republican campaign committee, said recently in an interview: "If I were Mr. Blaine I would get out of the Cabinet, giving full health to the plea, and go abroad. I would not give President Harrison, if I were Mr. Blaine, a chance to put me in a hole. In a very short time, I think, President Harrison will discover that Blaine can have the nomination, when he becomes so impressed he can say to him: 'Mr. Blaine, you are a member, the head of my Cabinet; you know that I am desirous of a renomination, and would especially covet it. However, I am willing to step aside and stand ready to support you.' You see under such conditions Mr. Harrison's friends might speak of Mr. Blaine's ingratitude. So I would not give him a chance." Dudley says that as against Blaine Harrison can not secure his own State delegation, and says that he is free to say that Indiana is for Blaine.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21, 1903.
To the Editors of the Recorder:

From what has been learned of the preparations for a vigorous Democratic fight, the members of the party will certainly have no reasons to blame the National Committee if they do not this year win in every State where there is a fighting chance for the party. Senator Gorman, with headquarters at Washington, has taken charge of the National Committee during Senator Dyer's absence in Europe, and he proposes to work largely in conjunction with and through the National Association of Democratic Clubs, at the headquarters of which Hon. Chauncey F. Black, President, and Lawrence Gardner, Secretary, will be permanently located. Notwithstanding its being an off year, Senator Gorman proposes to make the fight aggressive from the start.

The Democrats of the country should have a club in each precinct. It should be offered by the most active workers in the party, and every thing should be done to bring in the uninformed and to instruct them upon the issues of the campaign. There is no doubt of the result of a campaign in this country in which the people understand the issues. "All the money that can be raised by the 'fat fryers' can not make the country anything else than Democratic."

Chief Post-Office Inspector, Wheeler, prepared a statement showing that 116 persons were arrested by Postoffice inspectors during the month of July. Of these eight were postmasters, three were assistant postmasters, three were clerks in post offices, six were violators of the lottery law, two were military postal clerks, twenty-six were burglars of postoffices, and the remaining six were arrested for various offenses. This is a particularly large number of arrests for one month, and is a much greater number than has been made in any one month for a long time.

When a Vermont Republican like Col. Veasey advises that it would be better for all concerned if colored soldiers at the South had separate organizations as members of the Grand Army, the Chancellors, the Hoars and the Lodges may well abandon the attempt to put the bottom rail on top in the civil government of that section.

To avoid the delay occasioned by the non-delivery of special delivery letters owing to the temporary absence of persons from their offices or homes, the Postoffice Department has issued to postmasters a circular which provides "that in every case arising in the future, at a letter carrier postoffice, where an attempt by messenger to make immediate delivery of special delivery matter fails because of their being no person at the place of address authorized to receive it, and the matter is therefore brought back to the postoffice, the postmaster shall cause a form of notice to be got to the address, if such a notice be at all likely to facilitate delivery, informing him that special efforts have been made, with his hands, and that, consequently, it can be specially held only upon application to the postmaster for it, such notice to be given by leaving the form at the address's residence in place of business, or by depositing it in his box, if he has one."

Little Albert is perhaps the most consistent performer of the new system, to the 230 list, as he has won five out of seven races, beating 230 six times, and never failed to get part of the money.

Some of the farmers of Boyle county are complaining of broom rape in their hemp. It is a parasitic plant which adheres to the roots of the plants and kills or greatly retards their growth.

It is reported from Lincoln county that a rural Jay Gould has so cured options of all the melons in the county, and proposes to form a corner. This may be followed by a revolt among the colored gentry.

Lady Suffolk was the pioneer of the 230 list in 1830. In the 42 years that have intervened, 230 has been beaten 4,613 times by trotters and 1,251 paces. The old gray mare is without descendants.

Allerton's record of 2:12 is now the record for five year old stallions, although not made on a regulation, but a kite shaped track. The question of kite track records is one destined to provoke controversy in the near future.

Who really knows whether salting stock does them any good for dairy purposes? Some farmers rarely, or never salt their stock, and these seem to do quite as well as the best. The experiment stations ought to determine as to this.

Trade has not opened for sheep, but the prospect is good for good prices. Sheep raising is a profitable business. An ewe that cost $4 will produce a lamb worth $4.25 and share $1.25 worth of wool. The farmer makes his ewe clear $1.50 in cash.

The American trotters, Spoford and Goy Hill, both with records better than 2:20 are now in Italy. A couple of years ago they were sent from this county to the Argentine Republic, but as trotting did not grow very well there they were shipped to a place where there is always plenty of interest in the sport.

Alcyon was indeed a wonderful sire, and his breeder steadily took the position that he was Alcantara's superior. When he died in 1837, he was only ten years old. Were he alive now he would be fourteen years old, and yet with the disadvantage of no colts from him for the last three years, he is represented by eighteen trotters and two pacers in the 230 list.

A gentleman desiring to test the endurance of a horse drove one 1,000 miles to a dog cart, the cart, passenger and baggage weighing over 800 pounds. The journey was done in nineteen consecutive days, an average of over fifty-eight miles a day. The longest distance, sixty-eight miles, was covered on the last day. The horse returned home, according to the report of the veterinarian, no worse for the journey.

It is estimated that farm profits will this year be $1,000,000,000 more in the United States than during the recent year of depression. In its annual review of the harvest, the American Agriculturist advances the belief that this year, unless unexpected influences change wholly the current of events, the value of corn on the farm will average in December fully 50 cents a bushel, wheat, $1 a bushel and oats, 40 cents.

The mighty Kingston was beaten at Chicago, Saturday, in the $10,000 Garfield stakes by the fast mare, Marion C., owned by J. M. Young, of Lexington, and Felix Murphy, of Louisville. It was a magnificent race, and 30,000 people cheered the Kentucky thoroughbred as she phased under the wire one length ahead of the pride of the East, who had been brought from New York with Hamilton as his mount to throw dirt in the face of everything in the West.

The Bowling Green Times reports the striking of a flowing well of tar on the farm of Nat Klink, in Warren county. The stream was struck at a depth of sixty feet, has a strong flow, and it is thought it will furnish 400 barrels per day. About five gallons of the fluid boiled down, produced half a gallon of tar, which is claimed to equal the North Carolina product. If the flow continues the owner will erect tanks and make preparations for manufacturing it into tar.

The dwellers in the Ohio valley do not appreciate this wonderful region. It is emphatically "God's country," the best all round place to live in on the globe. Run over the fruits, cereals, vegetables and other products Providence showers on us here, and then think of the States without a peach, apple, plum, cherry, pear and without a single berry! Our trees, shrubbery and flowers surpass that of any other part of the Mississippi valley, affording the finest varieties of all grown.

Midway between the tropics and the North, Nature here is most profuse in all her forms.—Madison Courier.

Sales of fat cattle are being made in the Bluegrass counties at 5 cents and upward for fall delivery. Such prices are encouraging and should cause a boom in short horns, as it will by the introduction of this blood into herds that the top sellers are mostly secured. It is predicted that best cattle are to be scarce and high next year again, and the farmer who has a good herd of the right kind of short horns is sure to see a better day than this. Now is the time to buy and the day to sell will come later. There is certainly a profit to any good handler of cattle who lays in select short horns at current prices.—Farmer's Home Journal.

The crop prospects were never better in this section, and everything except tobacco is out of farm's way through unfavorable season. The corn and potato crops are simply wonderful in their abundance, while all other crops occupy about the same relation. Tobacco that appeared to be hardly worth saving is growing out considerably, but yet it will not be a good crop. It appears that if the ground will bare in the early spring time for tobacco cultivation, was turned by the hot, dry weather until all the vitality was cooked out of it, and very little tobacco, even on new ground, has a promising outcome. But the abundance of other crops will pay up for its shortage.—War-saw Independent.

The weekly crop bulletin for the week ending August 21st, issued by the Kentucky State Weather Service in connection with the United States Weather Bureau, says: "The general effect of the past week's weather conditions have been favorable to all crops, except that in some few places complaint is made of injury to tobacco by excessive rains. The temperature showed a considerable excess in most parts of the State, while the abnormal cloudiness developed a deficiency in sunshine. The rain fall came in form of local thunder showers, but owing to their great frequency and general distribution, most parts of the State were covered by them. The present outlook for corn is the best for many years, and is safe to say that the crop is now assured. Tobacco is not so promising, although in places the crop will be good. Other crops present excellent prospects, from the present outlook.

The Louisville Tobacco Exchange may put this in its pipe and smoke it: The General Assembly soon to assemble, composed of farmers for the most part, is just dead sure to regulate the faces of the warehouses, "and don't you forget it." The Exchange may as well coming to terms with the Growers' House right now; its members may save their own bacon to some extent by so doing. The Granger legislators will surely see that farmers get pay for their samples and probably for their hogheads. Warehousemen need an electric light turned upon them through an investigating committee, and they will shortly be seen into. Regulation—well, that's what Providence did not fill the legislative halls with men who wear hay-seeds in their hair, for nothing.

"New occasions teach new duties," and oftentimes new men are called to perform these duties. Just when until our agricultural brethren get the harness on, the backing straps securely buckled, and hamestraps duly tied and the tugs fastened, and the old cart of State has got to move—the Exchange to the contrary notwithstanding.—Carrollton Democrat.

For shooting city marshal Bruce of Shelbyville, Indiana, a Charles Hawkins was taken from jail by a mob last Saturday night and lynched.

Here is what an exchange has to say on the question of a man's behavior when the contribution box is passed on Sunday: "Oh, yes, when you go to church on Sunday take a dime or a nickel with you and drop it in the basket. You wouldn't be a dead cat anywhere else, why do you can't do it at church? If you can't drop a dime or a nickel in to feed the poor, once a week to help pay the running expenses of the institution, which provides you with a nice dinner, nice music, add a nice discourse, then for shame's sake don't attend. Have a little pride. How small a man must be who spends 25 cents a day for cigars, and then goes to church on Sunday and doesn't give a cent to the church Sunday when the basket is passed under his nose."

A VERY NICE WIFE.
How She Cured Her Suffering Husband of the Grip.
A certain young man, married and living on Brady street in this city, set out on a convivial game of cards with some friends at their hotel, says the Detroit Free Press, and before he knew it the hour was early in the small hours. What about his wife? He had never stayed out so late, or rather so early, since he was married, and he dreaded meeting his wife and explaining the matter to her.

"Ring up the ambulance," he said to one of his friends, "and take me home, and tell my wife I'll be home this morning." He had just recovered consciousness.

But his friend, who had been in the same fix, braced him up and said to go home and have it out like a man. So he went home whistling noisily to keep up his courage and found the door unlocked for him. So far so good. Then he went upstairs and peeped into his wife's room.

"B-r-r-r-r, b-r-r-r-r, b-r-r-r-r." His wife was fast asleep and snoring like a steam engine.

He slipped out of his coat and turned up the lamp. Then he took up the evening paper and began to read. In a few moments his wife awakened.

"Are you moving coming to bed, Charles?" she asked, in a sleepy voice.

"Anson said when this whole thing was begun, in a thankful voice. This was a wonder to me. Charles had never read so late in his life, but he was so tired that he fell asleep, and when he awoke, he found his wife fast asleep and snoring like a steam engine.

The croquet club has taken a change of venue as it were. A team and a large force of hands did considerable work out of part of Union street immediately west of the city hall last Thursday, preparing it for a park, and after it is played on a few days it will be a splendid ground. It is said that some of the members of the club are anxious to try croquet with the team that belongs in the county. Hope Dr. Gordon and some of his best players will accommodate them in the near future.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible near the right edge, suggesting it was once folded. The overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Paul Bevers, the hero of the Boston ride, was the president of Boston's first board of health. It was organized in Faneuil hall in 1799.

—Browning would never write for a magazine. He wrote: "I can not bring myself to write for periodicals. If I publish a book, and people choose to buy it, that signifies that much for me."

—Bjornson, the Norwegian novelist, writes so abominably that no one but his wife can read his untidy MS. For Bjornson helps her husband a great deal by copying all he writes, recopying after he has corrected and altered until sometimes she writes the whole

—Dove Cottage, the simple little dwelling at Grasmere, wherein Wordsworth lived so long with his sweet sister Dorothy and wrote much of his best work—and where De Quincey lived afterward and wrote the "Opium Eater"—is now the property of the British nation. It is to be restored and kept in perfect order.

—Practically the fifteen-year-old king of Serbia is a prisoner to his tutors. They bore him day in and day out until he is drooping. Young as he is this wonderful boy is one of the very best mathematicians in the whole of Serbia. He can actually add up five columns of figures at once with apparent ease. He inherits his mother's striking beauty and all the cleverness of both parents.

Turkey show that during the year 1980 only 940 books were published in Constantinople. Of this number 497 were in the Turkish language, mostly novels and theatrical pieces; 190 in the Arabic language, principally religious contents; 86 in Arabic on jurisprudence, philology and religious dogmatism, and the rest were in other languages of Europe.

—To its already large collection of manuscripts in the handwriting of famous authors, the British Museum has lately added the entire set of George Eliot's works, with the exception of "Scenes in Clerical Life." The writing of these manuscripts is unusually clear and neat. They were left by will to George Lewin, and were to revert, at his death, to the museum.

—Few Boston people know who Daniel S. Ford is, yet in reality he is one of Boston's richest men. He is the owner of the Youth's Companion, the most prosperous paper of its kind in the world, and indulges in yachts and fast horses, and gives thousands of dollars in charities. But socially he is a reclusive and is scarcely ever amongst his associates.

and is rarely seen except by a small circle of acquaintances. Mr. Ford is seventy years old and well preserved. He was a poor printer when M. P. Williams founded the journal which Mr. Ford afterward built up to greatness.

A dark, possibly black, binding edge is visible along the right side of the strip. The overall texture is rough and uneven, characteristic of old paper.

The recent reunion of the Ohio Brigade at Owensboro, was a great success.

Rosen Q. Munn, is over in Ohio making speeches in the interest of Governor Campbell.

The cotton crop for the year ending August last was the largest ever known in the United States.

Ex-Gov. Black, of Kansas, predicts that the State will cast its electoral vote for the Alliance Presidential candidate.

It is very doubtful about that proposed joint discussion between Campbell and McKinley at Ada,
Ohio, ever occurring.

The Constitutional Convention
concluded to allow Governor Brown to appoint the Railroad Commissioners, but after his term they are to be elected.

The New York Democratic State convention nominated Hon. Roswell P. Flower for Governor. He is a strong man in the State and will be elected.

The total number of acres of land in Kentucky, assessed for taxation, in 1891, was the Western Arson, is 26,066,554. The total assessed value of same is $228,133,806, and the average value per acre assessed for taxation is $9.28.

The Constitutional Convention expects to round up its work this week and adjourn. Many of the contradictory clauses in that instrument when voted upon have been removed, and some changes have been made in the substance.

The Indiana State Board of Commissioners of Tax have increased the railroad assessment in the State ninety million dollars over the 1890 assessment. The total railroad assessment in that State amounts to one hundred and sixty million dollars.

It occurs to Hon. J. P. Johnson, of Calhoun, that the delegates in the Constitutional Convention, and who were elected to the Legislature last August, are ineligible as Representatives. He quotes from the Constitution and the Statutes in support of his position.

A close observer of drunken men says their movements invariably depend upon the beverage they have imbibed, and that scientific experiments recently made in London demonstrated that intoxication of beer or wine makes a man fall on his side, while those overcome by hard drink almost invariably fall backward.

A few days ago Gov. Brown was called upon for troops to quell a riot at Harrodsburg, but he refused to comply with the request, and considered that the Sheriff of the county could summon a posse strong enough to restore peace.
The Governor does not believe in calling the military arm of the State government into service unless it is absolutely necessary.

The new State Board of Education will be composed of Superintendent Thompson, Attorney General Hendricks, Secretary of State Heedley, and Professor John T.
Mason, of Louisville. It is to be hoped that the new board will be more popular with the teachers than the old one was, and that the members have some idea of the practical workings of Kentucky's school system.

Mass. C. M. Olney, Jr., President of the Constitutional Convention, announced the delegates at his election near Paris, last Thursday. Three guests were present, ex-Gov. Buckner, President of the National Union, Gov. Brown and his wife. President Olney was accompanied with a handsome carriage and a gold headstallion, and the services as President of the Convention.

The burglar, Anderson, who was way out of the county, was captured and jailed.

When we speak of the Ohio last Thursday, he had party at the close of his speech, there were any Republicans among his hearers. The Democrats had great faith in the Governor's ability to handle the tariff and college questions, and he has not fallen short of their expectations. He dodged nothing, and although Major McKim had been dodging the tariff question very successfully up to last Thursday, Campbell took up that club and gave the Major a lambasting the like of which seldom occurs. The Governor is thoroughly conversant with theoretical records of McKim, Sherman, Foster and the rest of them, and when he charges that either of them has said or done a thing, he has the proof at hand. It was a great speech.

"Our campaign at present," says
Colonel Peck, President of the Farmers' Alliance, "is not to elect a President or secure the Government of the States. We are attacking the monopolists in the United States Senate. So far we have landed three. The first was Senator Harpless, of South Carolina;
John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, followed by Gideon C. Moody, of South Dakota. The next one to get into retirement is John Sherman, of Ohio. We have him defeated. In the legislative districts the Alliance will support candidates pledged to vote against Sherman. The voting strength of the actual organization is 40,000. Our members, however, are doing missionary work among the farmers generally, and thousands of voters are associated with the Alliance itself will be rallied against Sherman. If you would look over the correspondence from Ohio, you would be convinced that it is now an impossibility for him to succeed himself."

Or the Third Party Judge Holman, of Indiana, says: "The Third Party will injure the Republican party greatly. In my recent visit through the West I made a special study of the strength of the Third Party. I found that it is constantly increasing in numbers, and that two-thirds of its members come from the Republican party. The good crops just now will have no effect on this party. While they recognize the hour of prosperity the conditions now promise, they don't know what will happen on the morrow. The Third Party was not formed to remedy or injure the time being, but for permanency.
The farmers know that administrations like President Harrison's will ruin the Government in a few years. This is inevitable. Two more billion-dollar Congresses and there would be a bad looking treasury. We must have a frugal and honest administration. I claim that the Government can exist on $275-000,000 a year and that no one will know of the enormous decrease except politicians and others who make money from the appropriations.
The forty-third Congress appropriated $103,000,000. Next Congress the Democrats cut down the figures to $134,000,000 and no one missed the decrease except the decrease except the crowd of schemers. I believe that an income tax should be established. Surely something should be done to have a frugal and honest administration, and we will set the example in 1892.
The next Congress, which is Democratic, will cut down the appropriations over $100,000,000."

The Warren Independent tells of the visit of a couple of confidence men to Glencoe a few days since,
and of how they were glad to get away from their injured victims.
The sharps had sent circulars to a number of persons requesting them to meet them at Glencoe on a certain day, stating that they were to be given pleasant and profitable employment, and if they were not satisfied with the proposition made they would be paid, for the day lost by going to Glencoe. The day came and with it the two sharps who anticipated a rich harvest from the circulars that had preceded them. Eight men responded to the circulars. The two sharps explained their plan for making the men rich, provided each would put in their hands the sum of $600. This the rural gentlemen refused to do, and each then demanded two dollars as pay for the day lost in going to Glencoe. The sharps refused to comply with the demands of their intended victims, who at once informed them that the money had to come or they would take them to Big Eagle creek and give them a thorough ducking.
Rather than submit to such a proceeding the confidence men paid the sixteen dollars. Their next move was to jump their head bill, and the landlady informed them that they did not pay up, and they could be cowards, they immediately packed up and fled.

"We have an almost perfect com-and I want a certificate which will

Why don't the holidays stop at noon?
"And why don't all flowers bloom in your answers are incorrect, therefore, we are compelled not to grant

you a certificate. On the other hand, had you answered our questions correctly, you would have fared better, as our grand system
holds that such answers are undoubtedly proof of competency to teach."

Sometime after a stranger visited
the public school at Competed Hill, taught by First-class Certificate Crane. After sitting awhile, observing the children playing leap-frog over the benches and up and down the aisle, asked: "Is this a gymnasium?" "No sir; it is a public school, taught under our grand school system. Every one is not competent to teach under it. I and a few others have run the gamut successfully. We, and only we, can draw the public money, notwithstanding the objections of the men who pay it."

Just then Johnny came up and
asked Mr. Crane:
"Is the earth round?"
"Yes, it is round. It is known to be round, because you see a ship
out at sea, you see the sea, you see the sky. You see the top of the ship is higher than the bottom,
therefore, the earth is round. Do you understand it, Johnny?"
"Yes sir, I reckon."
A few days afterward the stranger entered the subscription school
at Incompetent Plains, taught by Miss Rejected Jones. The stranger
sat and lone some felt, because of the painful stillness.

"Miss Jones, I see you have your school under perfect control."
"Yes sir. I believe a school ungoverned is a school untaught."
Then came a little girl and asked:
"Miss Jones, is the earth round?"
"Yes, Nellie, it is round. A proof of its roundness is: If you see a ship upon the ocean, the first part of it you see is the top. We can not see the bottom or hull because
the roundness of the earth intervenes. If the earth was flat we would see the hull first, because it is the largest part of the vessel.
Bring me your slate and I will explain it so you can not fail to understand it."

usefulness of our grand system and believing it admitted book worms,
who possessed no practicability and discarded those who could have taught successfully.
If you can discover a way to grade a teacher on his government;
if you can grade him on his ability and willingness to impart
knowledge, and also on his knowing something to impart, a certificate would then be of value to teachers in choosing teachers as to competency; but, as it is, a certificate is a valueless humbug. Suppose the teachers who attend the institute
and get certificates are not numerous enough to fill all the public schools. The result would be no teachers, as is the case with two districts in the north end of the county.

Oh, yes! We had thankful that we have so grand a common school system. Suppose that the public money in some districts is not sufficient to provide certificate-teachers (they having a corner on the proposition naturally), our grand system comes into play and tells us to get them or do without.
What is the result? Officers, sal-

And how thick is the covering on the tumblebug's back?"
"We are sorry to inform you that your answers are incorrect, therefore, we are compelled not to grant
you a certificate. On the other hand, had you answered our questions correctly, you would have
fared better, as our grand system
holds that such answers are undoubtedly proof of competency to teach."

Sometime after a stranger visited
the public school at Competed
Hill, taught by First-class Certificate Crane. After sitting awhile,
observing the children playing leap-
frog over the benches and up and down the aisle, asked: "Is this a gymnasium?" "No sir; it is a public school, taught under our grand
school system. Every one is not competent to teach under it. I and
a few others have run the gamut
successfully. We, and only we, can draw the public money, notwithstanding the objections of the men
who pay it."

Just then Johnny came up and
asked Mr. Crane:
"Is the earth round?"
"Yes, it is round. It is known to be round, because you see a ship
out at sea, you see the sea, you see
the sky. You see the top of the ship is higher than the bottom,
therefore, the earth is round. Do
you understand it, Johnny?"
"Yes sir, I reckon."
A few days afterward the stranger entered the subscription school
at Incompetent Plains, taught by Miss Rejected Jones. The stranger
sat and lone some felt, because of
the painful stillness.

"Miss Jones, I see you have your school under perfect control."
"Yes sir. I believe a school ungoverned is a school untaught."
Then came a little girl and asked:
"Miss Jones, is the earth round?"
"Yes, Nellie, it is round. A proof of its roundness is: If you see a
ship upon the ocean, the first part of it you see is the top. We can not see the bottom or hull because
the roundness of the earth intervenes. If the earth was flat we
would see the hull first, because it
is the largest part of the vessel.
Bring me your slate and I will explain it so you can not fail to un-

usefulness of our grand system and
believing it admitted book worms,
who possessed no practicability and
discarded those who could have taught successfully.
If you can discover a way to
grade a teacher on his government;
if you can grade him on his ability and willingness to impart
knowledge, and also on his knowing something to impart, a certificate would then be of value to teachers in choosing teachers as to competency; but, as it is, a certificate
is a valueless humbug. Suppose the teachers who attend the institute
and get certificates are not numerous enough to fill all the public schools. The result would be no
teachers, as is the case with two districts in the north end of the county.

Oh, yes! We had thankful that
we have so grand a common school system. Suppose that the public money in some districts is not sufficient to provide certificate-teachers (they having a corner on the proposition naturally), our grand
system comes into play and tells
us to get them or do without.
What is the result? Officers, salaries and humbuggery.

The Campbell-McKinley political mill will occur at Ada, Ohio, on the eighth of next month. It will draw a tremendous crowd.

The Owen county fair is in progress this week. It has a long list of large premiums to be given away during the week, and competition will be spirited.

KENTUCKY now has a new Constitution. As all unite in the hope that it will not fall short in accomplishing the many good results that those who made it predict will result from its existence.

At the last August election Treasurer Hale was elected for the term of two years, but the Constitutional Convention has added two years and four months to his term. The Convention has assumed to say to the State who its Treasurer shall be for the next term.

In the congressional campaign last fall the Democrats played the tin cup racket on McKinley, and this fall he is trying to get it all back by means of the tin badge, which he claims is pure American tin, but Campbell says the only thing American about it is the fellow who wears it.

Tin stumps in Ohio are quarreling over the manufacture of tin plate in this country. The Republicans affirm that tin plate is being made in the United States, and the Democrats say that the article of tin plate produced in this country is counterfeit. The voters of the Buckeye State will hand in their verdict in November.

It was supposed for a long time that Kenton county and the city of Covington had three delegates in the Constitutional Convention, and that Hon. D. A. Glen was one of the trio, but from the reading of the Kentucky Post the past month, it is inferred that there were two delegates from the county of Kenton, Goebel and McCoy, and they came pretty near making the new Constitution, taking it from the stamp, but nevertheless there are some who think Mr. Glen took a hand in the proceedings of the Convention at least occasionally.

The Paducah Standard says that in the late war Kentucky furnished seven thousand more Union soldiers than Maine did; a third more than Connecticut; ten thousand more than Vermont and New Hampshire together, and ten thousand more than Kansas, Rhode Island and Minnesota together, and yet the people of all these States still speak of Kentucky as a rebel State. It is much the same as to Tennessee. Yet we are indifferent to misrepresentation or have got used to it.

The work of the adjourned session of the Constitutional Convention shows clearly that the delegates considered the opposition to the instrument that was submitted at the August election was much better informed than were its advocates, and have ripped the ratified document up much after the manner suggested by the opposition. The 218,950 who voted for the adoption of the Constitution submitted at the August election are given a very different instrument from that with which they said they were so well pleased. Will they kick?

A few days before the adjournment of the Constitutional Convention it was developed that it did not know how its printer was being paid for the work given him, but he had been getting $1 all the same, and when it was discovered that he had drawn what the Convention considered a very large sum, a stupendous kick was made, and straight way a committee was appointed to investigate the printer's accounts and give him a airing. It is very doubtful if the Convention ever had the remotest idea of the amount of work it was having that officer do, and we can not believe that he would take advantage of its ignorance and raid the State Treasury. The Convention looked at the figures, $8,000, representing the number of dollars the printer had drawn for work done, and was so much wiser that it had not asked for it. Turn on the light.

There had quite a lively time in the Constitutional Convention. The proposition to have the Constitution go into effect on the first day of next January was voted down, when Pres. McKinley said he was going to make a speech and made a speech. In his speech he declared that the delay was in the interest of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company that it might condemn more land and acquire more property in this State. This brought to his feet a delegate who reminded the President that it had not been long since he (the President) stood cheek by jole with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company. Other delegates took the President to task, and he was handled without gloves.

The Farmers' and Laborers' Union of Trigg county, recently held a called meeting for the special purpose of protesting against the political status the order is assuming in the State. The Chairman, in stating the object of the meeting, said it was for the purpose of completely radicalizing politics from the order, as it had lost prestige and influence by being drawn by political tricksters and "turn-coats" into every county race, and into all the political corruption incident thereto. The following resolutions were adopted by the meeting:

"We endorse every principle of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union as taught by its constitution and by laws as they now exist.

"We oppose the sub-treasury scheme and two per cent. loan, believing, as we do, that it would work detrimentally to the laboring classes of the people of the United States.

"We oppose any change in our present constitution by which a third party may be organized from it or any political movement of any kind may be made, from the fact that we know of no political party that has come into power by a secret organization."

The following States hold elections this fall:

Iowa elects State officers and a Legislature, November 3.
Maryland elects State officers and a Legislature, and votes on six amendments to her Constitution on November 3.

Massachusetts elects State officers and a Legislature, November 3.

Mississippi elects three Railroad Commissioners and a Legislature, November 3.

Nebraska elects Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, and two Regents of the State University, on November 3.

New Jersey elects part of her Legislature, November 3.

New York elects State officers, Legislature, ten Supreme Court Justices and Representative in the Tenth Congressional District, November 3.

Ohio elects State officers, Legislature and votes on amendment to Constitution providing for uniform taxation, November 3.

Pennsylvania elects a State Treasurer, Attorney-General and votes on a Constitutional Convention and delegates to the same, November 3.

Virginia elects half her Legislature, November 3.

The general result of the above elections will be a pretty good index to the result of the Presidential election next year.

The Farmers' Home Journal has resigned its trust as organ of the Kentucky State F. and L. Union. It says:

"The Farmers' Home Journal announces with this issue its voluntary resignation as official organ for the Kentucky State F. and L. Union. It will be remembered that this paper opened its columns to the Union last winter at the request of the State Executive Committee. The Committee then thought that harmony would exist in the Order all over the State, and that the members would willingly lend themselves to the earnest work of strengthening and building up the Order in accordance with its constitution and declaration of purposes. It was not long, however, that it was manifest that a considerable minority was in favor of and openly advocated separate political action, notwithstanding the forbidding clause in the organic law. Believing that harmony might prevail after the State election no action was taken at this office before that event. The smoke of the battle was cleared away and there still seemed to be a determination on the part of the minority to push heading into a political party and drag the Order with it. They are, in some counties, to commit the organization to the party. In others the organization is strongly opposed to it.

In this divided condition of the Order the Farmers' Home Journal does not believe that any party is the true official organ of the Union, and unless there was reasonable hope of having a united Order, a decision of the position longer. No paper can consistently represent both factions."

This Constitutional Convention adjourned sine die last Monday at noon. President Clay's valedictory was as follows:

"For the last time in the proceedings of this convention words of mine can take form or add to your deserts as faithful, able and patriotic men. The future will do you justice, and time alone will test the value of your work. I can not but believe, however, that you have framed a Constitution fully up to the requirements of the advanced civilization and liberty of the present Government which, like everything else, is under the great law of growth; from one standpoint that government is the best that most nearly represents the best and strongest opinion and most aptly fits itself to the varied wants and conditions of the State. From another standpoint we have much to improve; our Constitution certainly represents the great public opinion of the State; we have covered many abuses in the various departments of government; we have marched up fully, and bravely to the requirements of the present in the adjustment of the great question of ballot reform, taxation and corporate regulation from the other standpoint by putting prohibition on legislative power by which excessive, exorbitant and improper taxation is prohibited by preventing the granting of special privileges to some which are injurious to others, and in other ways we have very much increased the residue of rights secured to the individual, and in this way have strengthened and broadened civil and industrial liberty. One of the worst tendencies of the age is the growth of serial disposition, which is making immediate results in material prosperity. Its good is supplanting the freedom of the individual by the will of the majority. It will destroy that manliness, independence and indomitable perseverance for which the American race is preeminent. We have not yielded to this tendency, but have properly resisted its encroachment. The Constitution, though it for a few years may cause some friction on account of fundamental changes made, occasioned by the fact that for forty years it has remained unchanged, will year by year prove more satisfactory to the people, securing to them a larger liberty and a more perfect equality under the law than they have ever heretofore enjoyed. Now, in conclusion, let me say that I gratefully thank you for the uniform and universal courtesy and kindness you have shown me. I feel that the greater part of whatever measure of success I have obtained as your presiding officer, is due to your forbearance, and let me again assure you of my friendship and gratitude, and may the richest blessings of God attend you in the future."

There is a prospect that Kentucky will soon take rank among the cotton growing States. C. T. Mason, a wealthy farmer of Christian county, planted six acres of cotton this season, which will yield three-fourths of a bale to the acre. If this crop escapes the frost it is his intention to plant 100 acres next year. He is highly elated over the prospect, as samples of his cotton have been pronounced first-class, and if he succeeds many others will plant crops of it next year.

In the year 1860 Philadelphia was severely afflicted because of the numerous measuring worms, which infested the trees and shrubbery. An alleged benefactor suggested as a remedy the importation of English sparrows, claiming they were great scavengers. Accordingly the city secured 150,000 of the irrepressible little pests, and brought them over, and turned them loose. The result is too well known to need comment. They are an evil, and an evil only. The point in this paragraph is to appear yet. The man who first suggested the idea of bringing the birds to this country is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary. Thus you see the public is in a manner avenged. We have contended all over that some calamity would overtake him, and so it has—Ex.

The trotting horse is not confined to the track, but is useful on every hand. On the road he is great; on the farm he does the work of a mule, plowing, harrowing and hauling heavy loads. In cities he pulls butcher carts, milk wagons, buggies, omnibuses and express wagons, and is found indispensable in many other places where nothing but fast harness horses can be used. Horses that make trotting races are about one in every hundred, and the man who breeds a common mare to a trotting-bred horse and fails to get a 2:20 performer need not be disappointed, but has some assurance of a nice roadster that will be worth three colts from a scrub horse. What could a good roadster sell for? It could be safe to say $300, while a scrub would sell for $100, and perhaps a good deal less, and cost the same to raise.

The Brown administration at Frankfort may not be popular with the old political hacks who have already shown their disappointment because they could not dictate the appointments and shape the policy of the Governor, but it will be emphatically honest, economical and Jeffersonian. There will be no stealing or squandering of the State's money if reasonable diligence can detect it. The refusal of the Agent General to allow one half the claim against the recent military encampment is but a small evidence of the determination of the new administration to stop all extravagance and leaks from the Treasury. There will be a thorough cleaning of the Augean stables where evidence of this kind is found, but it will be done quietly and unostentatiously and only with regard to the oath the Governor and his official associates have taken to protect the interest of the people.—Owensboro Messenger.

There is a horse in New Jersey that stands 18 hands high, and in spite of his immense stature, is said to be quite a trotter, having shown a full mile in 2:35 and portions of the distance at a rate of speed that entitles his owner to think that the big fellow will beat 2:30 before the snow flies.

The latest discovery in the vegetable kingdom was made by Dr. B. C. Culver, of Anderson, in the preparation of a wine which he has christened potatoes, and that will grow potatoes under the ground he has used the tomato vine at the top.

C. P. Bally, of San Jose, California, the leading importer, breeder and dealer in Angora goats in the United States, and who, for years, kept a herd of Angoras at Soladad, estimates that his clip of mohair this year will reach 25,000 pounds or a value of $100,000. The total number of goats and kids in Mr. Bally's different herds is said to amount to ten thousand.

Col. Leslie Combs, the well known Lexington grower and shipper of tobacco products, himself on having the largest tobacco barn in Kentucky. It is 196 feet long, 56 feet wide and 36 feet high, and is capable of housing 50,000 pounds of green tobacco at one time. Colonel Combs set out 100 acres of the weed this year, and it is said to be one of the finest and most even patches in the State.

A very fine bunch of bananas grown in Galveston, Texas, was exhibited in the Galveston Chamber of Commerce last week. The bunch consisted of sixty-seven full-grown bananas of excellent quality. The feasibility of growing bananas outside the tropics has often been doubted, and all our supply at the present comes from the torrid zone, but Texas is going to try to establish a new home industry.

The largest horse in America is said to be the graded Clydesdale stallion, Jumbo, owned by J. C. Carpenter, of Council Grove, Kansas. He is five years old, weighs about 8,000 pounds, measures eleven feet eight inches in length, and is twenty hands high. He is a well proportioned horse and very kind, having been shown at the Kansas State Fair under a saddle containing four ladies.

It is estimated that the farm profits will this year be one billion dollars more in the United States than during the recent years of depression. In its annual review of the harvest, the American Agriculturist advances that this year, unless unexpected influences change, the value of the current events, the whole of corn on the farm will average fifty cents a bushel, wheat $1 a bushel and oats at least 40 cents a bushel.

A dark, vertical strip runs along the right edge, possibly representing the spine or a binding edge. The pension commissioners have abundant reasons for acceptance of the resignation. In the course of the hearing, they have been tendered a long and ample justification during the length of time for asking it.

Noble begs the question. He says that under Gen. Ransom's transacted by the bureau, "it is a veritable prith that does not exist in the institution." He then complains in that position, "I have invested in business," the commissioner has "sent the bureau to the president," who were not clerks. He knows that, as a result, he made a practice of "the bureau" and "neglecting his" and ball match.

THE BUST AND BUSTLE

It is not in some quarters that it is becoming fashionable to have larger busts and wider gowns than heretofore dictated by the unreasoning masses of fashion. The evidence is that women are coming to have better ideas of the proper proportions and balance of the human figure, and because they are introducing such artificial busts and bustles. They are not, as they are trying to patch them up in this way. Take a woman whose spine is straightened through corseting, whose chest is flattened, abdomen protruding and hips set in instead of being well set out, the needs a huge bust to balance her bad posture of shoulders and the artificial bust to balance the protruding abdomen and the bustle to balance the flattening of her chest and her round shoulders. But if a woman has a proper curve in her spine, her chest well elevated and her hips well back where they belong, she has no need of these artificial busts. Judge Garrison, who is a victim of her unnatural curves and restores the natural ones, her figure is good without resorting to the bustle. A natural figure in a dress of figure looks better patched and padded up than without, but the proper thing to do is to correct the misproportions and the bust and bustle should be discarded, and need no hiding.

When a bad figure is inherited, great pains should be taken to correct the standing posture in childhood and a course in thorough physical culture institutions may much be done in nature. It improves a poor figure by systematic exercise combined with proper dress. Some four years ago, when visiting the Yuma Indians, I discovered the origin of the bustle. The native costume among the women was a simple little apron on either side of the face, a small black apron and a huge hair bun. When one of the Yuma Indians took an Indian girl to his tent to prepare her for some measurements, I wished to take it. I heard her say, "Do take off your bustle, it is not enough the young Indian maiden had an enormous bustle beneath her poor apology of a dress. I thought she must not scruple to adopt any absurdity from savage life, and all her devotees readily submit to add it to their apparel."

When a figure is in good pose and the hips well back, a bustle would be elevated at an angle of about forty degrees, than which nothing could be more ridiculous. But when the hips are well back no bustle is needed. The artificial bustle is just as superfluous when the chest is well elevated and the abdomen retracted to its normal place. President Harrison, who came out to Chicago to open a library, was unable to make a journey thither for the purpose of assisting at the unveiling of a monument to Grant. He wrote, however, to a committee on invitations saying: "I am glad to know that Gen. Grant, who was so honorably associated with Gen. Grant in the campaign of the army of the Tennessee, has been selected as the orator of the occasion, and do not doubt that his personal knowledge of the great commander will enable him to speak a fitting phrase of one whose name is so closely associated with the name of the hero."

Judge Graham fully justified the confidence reposed in him, a habit of speech as he has shown in his speech at the late convention of the National Republican Convention, but was not chosen. To such vacancies as have occurred in the Supreme Court, Mr. Harrison has not seen fit to promote the gentleman of whose ability to speak fittingly and of praise Judge Graham was not personally a candidate for the republican nomination three years ago, and probably does not change his mind with the flight of years. He is in the political right to remain, and if President Harrison were of broad and gracious disposition the highest possible honors of the bench would be given him.

The president of the United States, a beneficiary of the Dudley block-out, is a victim of temporary aberration. From the fact that the character of these so-called banks is not, public confidence in banks in general might have been seriously impaired by these repeated failures at a time when a

When, with democratic success, Quays, these so-called banks began to fail, setting the country with the disclosures of their rottenness. Contemporaneously, similar disclosures have been made in other states, for the political bank is not confined to Pennsylvania, though it has flourished there more than anywhere else. In Pennsylvania each one of these political banks is the headquarters of a ring of politicians, masquerading as financiers. The ring was sometimes local, but in the case of the Philadelphia banks it was a national importance. Both state and national office holders were or less involved in the ring which gained control of the Philadelphia city treasury, operating it in connection with the Keystone and Spring Garden banks, who held themselves out as a national importance. But the republicans, however, have been trying to make capital out of the political works that are purely mythical, and it has been necessary to expose the falsehoods that have been circulated with reference to them. Louisville Courier-Journal.

A FAIR PROPOSITION. How the Increased Tariff Affects the Farmer. Gov. Campbell is making a magnificent fight. Whether he shall be selected or not, he has shown himself to be the most courageous Democratic leader and the best stump-speaker in the west. Speaking at the center of the glass and pottery industries, and again in the mining and iron region, to greet crowds of farmers, he has shown himself to be a great leader and a great speaker. Gov. Campbell asked them to their faces how many had received an increase of wages since the increase of the tariff on the products of their labor. The answer in each case was "Nary one!"

Gov. Campbell boldly challenged Maj. McKinley to name a single person who had received an increase of wages since the increase of the tariff on the products of their labor. The answer in each case was "Nary one!"

WHOLESALE POISONING.

Indiana Teacher and Pupils in a Fatal Case.

Two Scholars Have Died and More Will Probably Follow—Wholesale Water From Neighboring Wells Believed to Be the Cause.

FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 26.—Information has been brought to County Superintendent Lytle that one of the public schools in Fort township in the eastern part of this (Clinton) county, had been closed by the wholesale poisoning of the pupils and also the teacher. An investigation proves that the teacher and fifteen of his pupils are in a critical condition, while two of them are dead.

The school is located in the country and a few weeks ago the township trustees caused a well to be drilled on the premises, from which the school got their supply of water.

The past three weeks the teacher, Geo. Goss, and the pupils have been growing gradually less, all caused by sickness. One week ago Goss died, and since then the pupils have been dying.

It was found upon investigation that all the pupils who died regularly drank of water from the well where sick, while a few pupils who lived near the school house and went home for meals were not affected.

Similar to those of typhoid fever, Thursday a child of Robert Diller, that was taken to the school, died rapidly and died Friday, Saturday another one of the pupils, a girl named Margaret of Robert Diller, died.

Investigation Monday evening showed that the water from the well was decidedly worse and several more deaths are expected by the doctors. The doctors say it is a case of water poisoning. An incomplete analysis of the water was made Tuesday which confirmed their theory.

They say that the water possesses some peculiar chemical property which in its action on the human system is very peculiar. Samples of the water have been secured and will be subjected to a critical analysis in order to unravel the cause of the trouble.

It is to the effect that the teacher is growing rapidly worse. What makes the case more dangerous is the fact that those who have drunk the water are afflicted with blood poisoning.

A LAND SLIDE.

Tragic Catastrophe Near Toccoa, on the Northern Pacific Railroad.

TACO, Wash., Nov. 26.—A land slide occurred on the Northern Pacific near Canton Station, fifty miles from Tacoma, which caused the death of fifteen men, and the possibly fatal injury of twenty more. The slide occurred at the base of a high bluff, at the foot of which the railroad runs along the bank of the Green river, and came without warning to the doomed men, who were sent into eternity without any sort of opportunity to help themselves. A force of about sixty men were sent out from Tacoma to fix up the track, which had been injured by the recent floods and washouts.

When the slide came thousands of men of earth and stones crashed down upon the men, some of whom were thrown into the river and drowned before they could help themselves. Some of the bodies were undoubtedly carried down stream and it will be some time before they can be found.

As soon as the tragedy was known, the work of digging for the bodies of the men who were killed was begun. A relief train was sent out from Tacoma in the afternoon, and arrived at night with the necessary equipment, and many of the men are in a precarious condition, and can hardly live through the night. Most of the dead are Irishmen and some are English.

Larson was thrown nearly across the river by the force of the slide, but was not injured, and was managed to swim out.

RANSOMED.

The Price for the Return of a Stolen Boy.

Five Thousand Dollars Was the Price Paid for the Return of a Stolen Boy.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—Thanksgiving day, a day of rejoicing, was transferred into a day of sadness for David T. Beale and his family. His two-year-old son, who was kidnapped and held for ransom, was returned to his family for a price of five thousand dollars.

Friday, one of sorrow for the family, was transformed into a day of gladness. The child was recovered.

A Thanksgiving remembrance of the Beale family took place Thursday at the home of Mr. David T. Beale, a wealthy banker of this city and a capitalist well known throughout the west. Details of the Heroes of the Toccoa, China, Mass.

LOANER, Nov. 26.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Tien-Tsin says: Official reports of the Toccoa massacre detail almost without parallel in the history of China. Previous dispatches have given but a faint idea of what happened. The members of the little Belgian mission had no opportunity of escaping.

The last figures give the Democrats a majority of the New York Legislature on joint ballot.

The Senatorial contest in Ohio does not get any less interesting, although it is evident that Sherman will succeed himself.

The Governor has offered one hundred and fifty dollars reward for the arrest of each of the Kennells who recently escaped from the jail at Georgetown.

The trial of Cal Tucker on the charge of assisting burglar Anderson to escape from jail in Cincinnati is now in progress, and is attracting much interest.

Next Monday Congress meets, at which time Hon. Calvin S. Brice will take his seat as Senator from Ohio, and Senator Sherman will interpose no objections to the proceedings.

Last Saturday the Scott county Democracy held their primary election for the nomination of candidates for the offices of Sheriff and Circuit Clerk to be elected eleven months hence.

There was a tremendous jam of grain laden vessels in Buffalo harbor last Saturday. It was the greatest in the history of the port, and the amount of grain afloat was estimated at three million bushels.

St. Paul, Minnesota, wants the Democratic National Convention in 1904, and her neighbor, Minneapolis, having already captured the Republican National Convention, says she will do all in her power to assist St. Paul to accomplish her desire. The offer is truly neighborly.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has suitably requited for the arduous labor it performed in behalf of the Democratic party in the recent Ohio campaign, to raise its voice to proclaim what sort of a man the Democratic members should not elect as Speaker of the Lower House of the next Congress.

They have commenced figuring on the Speaker contest, and the first ballot, according to some of the figures, Crisp is certain of 92; Springer, 41; Mill, 45; McMillin, 20; Hatch, 14 votes on the first ballot, with 24 uncertain. Of course this is the result of the vote of the friends of Crisp, and Mills' followers can make as good showing for him.

An Indiana politician visited Cincinnati the other day and got the impression that Foraker will succeed Sherman in the United States Senate. Probably the Indiana man got hold of some exclusively Foraker refreshments, while in the city, and he was not in a condition to receive correct impression on a subject of such moment.

Mr. BLAINE visited his medical adviser at Philadelphia the other day, and received the gratifying information that he is thoroughly a well man. Although sixty-one years old, the Secretary is satisfied that he is young and hale enough to tackle the Democratic buzz-saw in 1902, and if Bennie does not get out of the way he may get run over.

It is said that Judge Holt is setting up the pins for a reelection as Judge of the Court of Appeals. He is a Republican, and his election to the Judgeship he now holds was an accident, but he hopes to retain the office by telling Democrats that he is an Independent, and at the same time declaring to the Republicans his never ceasing love for the G. O. P. Between the two stools the Judge will fall.

The Philadelphia Times of last Friday tells of a Grant county man who went on East to invest in "green goods," but got a brick at a cost of three hundred dollars instead of counterfeit money, which he thought the sharpers had delivered to him. The fellow gave his name as Jasper L. Houston, saying his place of abode is Holbrook, Grant county, Kentucky. Jasper is a man who needs watching as he has developed a desire to shove the "quack."

The jury in the Franklin Common Pleas Court, in the case of Miss Jennie McKean against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad returned a verdict in favor of the young lady for eighteen thousand dollars. Miss McKean was a passenger on one of the company's trains this fall, going from Louisville to Frankfort, when some drunken negro passengers engaged in a shooting, during which the lady was accidentally shot and permanently injured.

The recent disastrous fire at Harbourside is said to have been the work of some of the liberated Tennessee convicts who were concealed in the country near the town. The convicts were pitched by hunger and cold, and resorted to the torch as a means to relieve their sufferings by glorifying them an opportunity to raid the town and replenish their pockets, secure necessary clothing and get something to eat. Much of the devilment done in this State for a while will be charged to Tennessee's convicts—much more than they will ever be guilty of.

It will be but a few days until the Democrats will have decided who is to preside over the House of Representatives in Congress this winter. The indications point to the election of Mr. Mills as speaker, but combinations may yet be formed by which he will be defeated. He is one of the ablest advocates of tariff reform, and his work in that direction has given him a party prestige that will be hard to overcome in the selection of a Speaker, although his opponents are all in accord with him on the tariff question. Mr. Mills' friends claim that his election as Speaker at this time will emphasize the Democrats' determination to make tariff reform the leading issue in the Presidential campaign next year.

There is considerable trouble on tap in revenue circles in this district just at present, and it is all on account of the colored brother, W. A. Gaines, colored, of Covington, holds a commission as gauger, but Collector Comingle refuses to assign Gaines to duty—in other words he is trying to freeze or starve him out of the service, as the story goes. To this proceeding the colored brother most generously objects, but so far to no effect, and the trouble has found its way to headquarters at Washington, where it was thought the colored man could submit his case with perfect certainty of gaining what he claims to be his rights in the matter of an equal divide of time with the white men in the service. But so far he has been unsuccessful in his efforts to compel the Collector to put him on duty. Gaines has a considerable following, and they are raising a loud howl about the treatment of the colored gauger. The colored men ought to have learned before now that the only use the Republican party has for them is on election day, and they should learn not to obtrude themselves upon the party at any other time, for their services are not wanted, notwithstanding it is by their votes that several of the Northern States are held in the Republican column.

Indian Summer.
Back beyond all recognized history, a hundred years before the advent of Daniel Boone, in the dim twilight of tradition, what is now the State of Kentucky, was, without dispute, the very best hunting ground in the United States—perhaps in the civilized world; filled with roval elks, deer, bears, buffaloes and all sorts of game. By a universal law among the Indian tribes inhabiting the present contiguous States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, North Carolina and West Virginia, no tribe was permitted to make a permanent settlement, establish a village or claim exclusive territorial jurisdiction (as elsewhere) within the present limits of the State of Kentucky, it being set apart, and only to be used as a common hunting ground for such Indians. And however relentless and bloody the wars between the several tribes were, no fighting should be, or ever was known among them there, and that condition of peace continued until the hunting parties everywhere returned to their several villages, the reason being that at this particular time of the year, just after "squaw winter" or leaf falling, each tribe selected its best hunters and sent them to that common hunting ground to kill, prepare and carry back the meat for the winter's supply at their villages. This could not be done in the warm summer or early autumn months, and only safely before cold weather, generally in the month of November. Hence, the pioneer border settlers so far back that memory and tradition "run out" not to the contrary, called this happy, beautiful season "the Indian summer," or, more correctly, "the summer of the Indians."

The great abundance of game and the custom of the tribes afore said, were the reasons why the Indians resisted the settlement of Kentucky as they never resisted the settlement of any other portion of the United States—making the close of the last and the beginning of the present century, almost weekly excursions of fighting parties, killing the men, capturing the women and children and compelling the early settlers to live in stockade forts, the adult males never leaving without their trusty six-foot rifles. Hence, the State was long ago baptized, and still is known in story and song, as "the dark and bloody ground."—Jos. F. Brown in Indianapolis News.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27, 1903.
To the Editors of the Recorder:
Cleveland and Boies, or Boies and Russell, or Palmer and Flower, or Cleveland and Gray, would give the country sound and honest Democratic government after 1902. Take your choice out of the combinations for out of them the choice will be made.

[New York Sun.]
"This is going to be a very hard winter," said an old resident of the Lackawanna Valley yesterday, "and I'll tell you why I say so. In the first place, look at the horns' nests. You will find them high up this fall. That's a sure sign of a hard winter. If it was going to be a mild winter you would find them nearer the ground. Two years and three years ago the winters were mild, and the horns' nests were low down."

"Then take the angle worm for another sign. Dig in the ground now and you will find them crawling two feet or more below the surface. They know what kind of a winter is coming, and they go down to avoid the frost. Two years ago I found them not three inches below the surface, and they stayed there all winter."

"Fuzz on hogs is another sure sign of a severe winter. Butcher a hog now and you will find a thick fuzz at the roots of the bristles. The fuzz wouldn't be there if next winter wasn't going to be a tough one. Two and three years ago this fall there wasn't any fuzz at all on hogs, and you know how open the winters were."

"I predicted a hard winter in 1885 from these signs, and my neighbors ridiculed me, or tried to, but we got it just as I said. I had so much faith in the signs that I got a lot of boys to trap all the quails for me. I wintered over 200 quails, and in the spring of 1886 there wasn't a live quail in the Lackawanna Valley except the ones I had. I turned them all loose at various points, and in the fall we had some good shooting, which we wouldn't have had if I hadn't paid attention to the signs."

Corn is selling from $1.50 to $2 per barrel in some neighborhoods in Grant county.

The prices at which the new tobacco crop has started is certainly quite satisfactory to the producers. There is good money in tobacco at ten dollars.

A Minnesota man has adopted a new way of selling a horse. He advertises him for sale and will receive sealed bids for the animal up to a certain date, when the bids will be opened and the horse sold to the highest bidder.

Mr. Kahn shipped, Saturday, 17 car loads, or 254 head of fat cattle, for export, to Goldsmith, of New York, which were purchased in this county recently, at an average of about 65 cents. They averaged about 1,500 pounds.—Winchester Sun.

Some corn has been delivered in Lexington at low prices as $1.05 per barrel. Good barn, sound clover hay is selling, delivered, at $9 and $10 per ton, and clear timothy at $12 to $13 per ton; feeding barley at 45 cents per bushel. Shocked fodder in the field at 10 to 12 cents per shock.

The Lexington Gazette says: "From the present outlook there will be a down year for the smallest area of hemp ever known here. Much of the land suitable has already been utilized with small grain and the prospective good price for tobacco will consume much of the land suitable."

SEND IN YOUR VOTE.

It now seems that about every nineteenth man in this Congressional District has congressional aspirations, and to test the temper of the district to that direction the Recorder will poll it in accordance with the following rules: Out of the following ballot, write your name and the name of the person for whom you vote, as therein indicated, and mail the ballot to the political editor of the Recorder.

FOR CONGRESS:

VOTER'S NAME: _____
I now solemnly swear that I will support the laws of the United States and the Constitution thereof, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of Representative in Congress to which I am elected.

The ballots will be kept secret, and no person but the party sending the ballot and the editor will know for whom he voted.

The result of the voting will be published every week.
No ballot cast at Grant county will be counted. Only legal voters will be counted.
The following names have been received:
Hon. Harry Baker..... 1
Hon. George Washington..... 1
T. F. Hall..... 2
L. W. Lanning..... 2

An attempt has been made to stock Grant county with California quails, and the local press is pleading with the hunters not to shoot these birds until they have become more numerous. As baited at Grant county birds are like all others, it is pretty certain that when a covey of quails get up before them they will not hold their fire long enough to obtain information as to the quail's proclivities.

and Coughs
Tobacco Warehouse Co., of Louisville, Ky., Nov. 23.
Our market retained the same strength this week which has characterized it for the past three or four weeks. Owing to more favorable weather, the new crop has begun to come in more freely, as is evidenced by the fact that 271 hogheads of the 1891 crop sold this week.

The noticeable feature of the market is the high price realized for the new crop, and the fact that thus far out of sales of 483 hogheads, there have been only 19 rejections, or a little less than four per cent. The highest price paid for new tobacco this week was $21, which was paid Friday. Old tobacco also continues strong with the exception of those grades ranging from $7 to $9, which seem to be in little demand; but it must be taken into consideration that most all this class of tobacco is badly faked.

Receipts this week, 839 hogheads against 772 for corresponding week last year, and sales, 1,872, of which 772 were dark against 1,875 in 1900.

Last week's quotations on old tobacco hold good to date. We quote prices only on the new burley crop, as so little new dark has been received, that it is impossible to give any figures.
Burley—Trash, $6 to $11; lugs, $8 to $13.50; medium leaf, $13 to $17; selections, $18 to $24.50.

BULLITTOWN.

David Beall, our worthy sheriff was on our streets last Friday.

We had the pleasure, last Thursday evening, of attending the reception of Edward Stephens, at his parents', Mr. and Mrs. John Stephens, who reside near this place.

Ed recently embarked in the merchandising business at Delhi, Ohio, and finding his labors and toils, he concluded to remedy the matter, which he did very successfully last Thursday afternoon, by leaving to the altar one of Delhi's most lovely young ladies, Miss Kate Weeks.

The marriage took place at the home of the bride, Rev. Mr. Weeks, a Methodist minister of Delhi, officiating, the ceremony being witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives of the parties.

After the ceremony all present were invited to a commodious dining room, where a bountiful repast prepared for the occasion was enjoyed, when the bride party, composed of the bride, Miss Kate Weeks, and a Miss Cassidy, of the bride, left for the home of the groom's parents in this neighborhood.

The young ladies were very much pleased by the outward appearance, we can most heartily congratulate her on her choice of the man whom she has promised to love for life. The best wishes of the many friends of the bride follow her and her husband to their home in Kansas.

Last Friday's Enquirer contained an account of a bloody riot at a party the night before in the lower end of the county, at which two or three persons were fatally shot or cut. The parties reported fatally hurt have been several times since, and were in their usual healthy condition. The article giving the account of the shooting and cutting was wholly the work of some fellow's imagination, who is desirous of being the halitator of a lot of lawless citizens—touch of the deepest blue. Just who it is, we cannot tell, but it is a pity that such groundless and sensational items, is not known, but he certainly has very little regard for the good name of Boone county, and is doing all he can to place her on a par with other counties where it is claimed that human life is in jeopardy at all times. It should be remembered that a lie once started can never be overtaken, and such fabrications of the above referred to are not for the benefit of the county, but for the benefit of the publisher.

The ladies in the lower end of the county are justly indignant over the matter, and should they discover the modern Annals, they will make it rather unpleasant for him.

Miss Little Stephens received the guest in her usually happy state, and made all feel that they were welcome.

The only thing we noticed, was a little coquettish game engaged in by two young ladies who seemed to be struck on the same fellow, our good friend Jimmy Clow, no doubt, of thought of that well written verse, "How happy would I be with either were another young gentleman of the neighborhood made a little ship of which we would only bid. It seems that he was requested by one authorized to do so, to seek the company of a certain young lady, and to accompany her to the reception. Being of a very accommodating nature he readily agreed to do so, and set about to make arrangements by writing his girl a note. She immediately answered by stating that she would be more than happy to accompany him, but circumstances were of such a nature that it would be impossible for her to attend. Consequently, my young friend feeling that he could not enjoy the party, he being a declared bachelor, he, to and fro, when we arrived, about the first one we met was the young lady above referred to. My gentleman friend, as he did not desire to go, requested us to report to him the next day, and we did so. Can you imagine—I cannot describe.

During the evening the young ladies entertained the guests with some excellent music, and especially did the bride's performance elicit much favorable comment.

The Owingville Outlook has the nail squarely on the head in the following: "The pecuniary advantages resulting from well constructed, permanent roads are only part of the reason which should stimulate the community to proceed without delay in the work of constructing good roads. Good roads have been ranked among the first of civilizing influences, as they not only make it possible to place farmers to attend church, visit neighbors and friends in the town and send their children to attend good schools. Many objections against the farmer's occupation could not be urged in a section with good roads where the usual isolated condition would not be felt by an enterprising and worthy class otherwise unfavorably impressed.

If the following be true Robertson county is badly off. The Palomont Guide says: "The grand jury of Robertson county has found everything in bad shape at the court house of that county. Records neglected, office dirty, bonds illegally taken, the ex-Sheriff misappropriated funds, ex-Supt. of public schools has done likewise, trustees of the school has in their duty and so on all the way through."

You can tell more about a man's character by trading horses with him than you can by looking at him talk for a year in prayer meeting—Ram's Horn.

The "iron" editor of the Louisville Times sums up as follows for this year: "The wheat crop of 1901 is the greatest in our history; the tobacco crop is the greatest. The corn crop is the second greatest and the cotton crop is equal to the greatest in quantity and the equal of the best in quality. The vegetable crop was never better, and the fruit crop was never so prolific. The orange crops of Florida and California are so fine that importation of oranges from the Mediterranean are about shut out."

The recent grand jury in Rowan county was a bustler from awayback. The Outlook says: "At the recent session of the Circuit Court in Rowan county the grand jury returned 610 indictments, for various offenses."

Owen county has a young man who is in pursuit of one of the numerous offices at the disposal of the Democrats at Washington. The News says: "Mr. Reuben Bourn left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where we understand, he expects to present a rigorous fight for postmaster of the next House. Mr. Bourn served as assistant postmaster for several terms under his uncle, Lycurgus Dalton, and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office. He is a young man of untarnished reputation and stands high with all of his acquaintances, and if he is successful he will make an office acceptable to the members and reflect credit upon the State of Kentucky."

But Wilson, the main witness in the Perry case, again developed his propensity to run when about to be issued the cold process of the law. The jury had been empaneled. On the convening of court in the afternoon everything was ready for the trial to go on. "Call our first witness," said the court. "The defendant," said the Attorney General. "Bad Willson" shouted the sheriff three times, but no Bud came. The court at last dumbly stated for quite a while and then it dawned that maybe Willson had slipped—such was soon proven on the fact. He had left town with Mr. Collins, but the sheriff was soon on his trail and caught him at Cleveland. Willson was put in jail until time of trial, when he testified that he was the cold process of the law. We can also issued an attachment for Mr. Collins, who is a constable in Henry county, for contempt of court. Willson being held in the court when, as he says, a few dollars is offered him to skip. The man who took him away, if he did it knowing he was a witness in the court should be taught a lesson and, in fact, anyone who could be proven to have had anything to do with it. Willson's deeds go unpunished is liable to produce a general feeling of contempt for all courts and a spirit of ridicule—Owen News.

Perry was on trial for killing Aaron Johnson, but the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

He came to Dearborn county, March 20, 1816, and has never been away from the county six months at a time since. He has lived in Lawrenceburg 42 years, and has a wonderful memory of events that have transpired here during his long residence and enjoys nothing so well as to meet an old friend and talk over the incidents of a generation or two ago. Mr. Anderson modestly says that he gave himself three-fifths of his name, although for this reason we know not. However, in his case, a long name has been coupled with long life, and with his present degree of health he bids fair to survive for many years to come."

IMPERATIVE DUTY

Washington to Democratic

The great democratic majority in the new house of representatives was elected on the issue of tariff reform. The people have sent these men to congress to make laws for the people's relief. If the people had had a chance when this congress was chosen they would have created a democratic senate and a democratic executive. It would then have been the duty of the democratic house to frame and pass a general bill, carefully considered in all its parts, for the reform and reconstruction of the tariff law upon just principles and in accordance with the requirements of the public welfare. Such a bill, in such a case, could have been made law.

But the people had no chance to do thia. The senate remains republican by virtue of its deliberate packing, and a republican president has the right to pack the liberal tariff bill framed by the senate. The liberal tariff reform is likely to become law while these conditions exist.

But the fact does not relieve the democratic house of representatives of its duty. It was elected to give to the tariff the measure of relief that is possible under existing conditions. Its imperative duty is to do this in the most practical and practicable way it can devise, and not merely to frame ideal bills which are certain of defeat in the senate. Many a reformer has passed a general law, a general declaration and protest, but it

The practical way under the circumstances is the detailed way. Congress should pass a bill to put binding twine on the free list, with no encumbering provision. The senate would not venture to defeat that, though it would pretty certainly defeat a comprehensive tariff-reform bill of democratic construction including that provision. It should pass another bill making the raw material of iron manufacture free; another doing the same, or something like it, for the woolen-cloth makers; another repealing those extra dan-

If bills of this kind are passed by the house the senate will pretty certainly accept them. The republican majority there is small and is difficult to hold together for high protection even when a comprehensive bill is under consideration. It could not be held together in opposition to measures of relief like these, involving the vital interests of the northwestern farmers in the one case, of New England manufacturers and their workmen in another and of the great mass of the people in others.

The senate would almost certainly pass such bills and the president would sign them. To do otherwise would be to invite defeat in next year's election with the certainty that the invitation is it not the perfectly clear duty of the house of representatives this year—whatever it may do in the matter of a general bill—to seek in practical way the accomplishment of the purposes for which it was elected? Is not that also the wisest political policy?—N. Y. World.

BLAINE'S WEAVING WAYS.
The Game of Plot as Played by Reputable Gamblers.
The position of Hon. James G. Blaine as constructively an aspirant for the republican nomination for president next year, while at the same time secretary of state under President Harrison, who is an avowed candidate for nomination, is so anomalous that there is reason to believe Mr. Blaine must soon announce the abandonment of his ambition or the resignation of his cabinet position.

The Blaine movement already under way in several states is unwaveringly anti-Harrison movement. In the state of New York it is engineered by the Warner Miller opposition to Thomas C. Platt's control of the party, which has been made absolute by federal na-work of the Harrison officeholders, and in Indiana the anti-Harrison men have well-laid plans to capture the delegation from that state for Blaine as marked humiliation to the national administration. In brief, wherever throughout the country there is to be

Ordinary political decency, of course, forbids the secretary of state to hold his present position in politics to the end of the month. If he is to lead the revolt against the head of the administration tration, courtesy to his chief requires that he tender forthwith his resignation to the president. But, on the other hand, if he does not intend to be a candidate for the nomination next year, it is equally a duty to the president to announce that fact and put an end to the use of his name as an un-

Harrison rallying cry. The ways of Blaine, however, have always been devious, and as the situation demands a frank statement from him, which almost any other man in public life under like conditions would hasten to make, that probably is the last thing to be expected from Mr. Blaine.

PENSIONS FOR VETERANS.

The Fair Means of Claims Upon the Government for Pecuniary Aid.

Only those may speak with freedom and by authority who have suffered the disgrace of our pension legislation, in whose name and for whose benefit pension laws have been enacted.

I have earned the right to speak, says an old soldier. I stood in the ranks, a loyal volunteer, in the ranks of the 10th Maine. Now the first gun were fired at the skirmish of Blackburn's Ford, three days before the first battle of Bull Run. I was with the company at the last grand review at Washington in 1865. I lost not a day from service, and I was discharged honorably when disabled by a wound received in the battle of Fair Oaks. No man can say that he has not served his country.

He demands pensions for loyal service, because I did not serve or did not suffer.

I have written my record with my blood and my tears, and I demand that you demand pensions for duty done, because my loyalty is not and never was, for sale.

What would be a just basis for pensions? In forming the legislation of the pension bill, the Government should honorably should not be considered. When the pension roll is relieved of the names of those who are no longer willing to earn a living it is fitting opportunity is found for them. They are not to be the victims of the few who can, under the most favorable circumstances that can be found, support themselves; those who can do nothing toward themselves; those who can do nothing and can do nothing and who periodically require the aid and assistance of others. The abundance of these classes abundance should be given. No honorable person will for the full sympathy and support which are their due. When the pension roll is relieved of the names of those who are left-moral and physical wrecks who have reached the lowest depths of degradation, the Government can then create, except the names of those who are in the opinion that a class can be formed in securing the active support of all least a hundred thousand real veterans for the war, and the government will change the legal basis of the claim from "support by manual labor" to "impairment of earning capacity."

OPINIONS AND POINTERS

The announcement that Blaine and Harrison "understand each other" is the highest tribute to the understanding of the two men.

When a billion congressmen so much money that there is nothing left for the people, the president of the Philadelphia national bank, what is to become of the hard earnings of the people of Pennsylvania?—Louisville Courier.

Mr. Harrison's message will be his platform for next summer. It will show whether he is a protectionist or Blaine as a jug-handle reciprocity? Or will he continue to insist that the tariff is for the consumer and untaxed goods for the foreigner?—N. Y. World.

It is not clear whether the republicans are in the position of the republicans in 1860, when they were the only party in the country that was not in opposition to the republicans in 1860.

reciprocity of the assembly and the senatorial body. The president is to "stop them" in order to protect itself in perpetuating the crime of violating the constitution. The president is to "stop them" in order to protect the representation in the legislature.—Buffalo Times.

The republican party regards "reciprocity" as the trump card in its hand to be played in the presidential election. It is the trump card which it offers reciprocity with a half-dozen or so countries. But the democratic party has a trump card of its own. It is reciprocity with the United States and the other countries. Judging from the result of the last two elections, the democratic card is the commanding one.—Buffalo Times.

Democracy will never be set down to my single issue as against reciprocity. It will be set down to my making secondary the greatest issue in principle between the parties—the issue of the right of the people to earn wages, and to a full realization of the value of his product by fair exchange.—Buffalo Times.

Democracy will not be set down to my change that absolutely will

Mr. Crisp will treat his political opponents fairly. In battle he will prove to be a "democrat." It will also emphasize the difference between a gentleman and a politician. He will not look in the direction of the house-larber-shedding machine.

Perhaps he may forget to see Mr. Root at times. But if he should fail in the future, it would be because of his proper allowance.—Chicago Times.

Judge Crisp would be a very different man from the one who has shown the significance of this single fact. The truth is that the democratic party have been so long in power that the republicans had when the McKinley tariff was pending. They could not come to the aid of the republicans until they came to, as the republicans did last year. Speaker Crisp is now in the hands of the republicans since the leaves of 1896. Let nobody imagine that it is going to wreck the fair play policy, or that it is going to wreck the silver policy, or by a reactionary law policy, or by engineering his office into the hands of the republicans.

The national mill at Washington has commenced its grind.

The Kentucky legislators are packing their grips, preparatory to a considerable sojourn at Frankfort.

In writing his message President Harrison accomplished the feat of "getting out" the most voluminous message ever issued from the White House.

From whom did the Press get that information?

How lonesome the Republicans will feel in the House at the National Capital this winter. As regards the proceedings they will be little more than spectators.

The Governor of Texas will call a special session of the Legislature to meet in March, when a successor to Senator Reagan will be elected. Hon. Roger Q. Mills is said to be a candidate for the office.

The National Democratic Executive Committee has been called to meet in Washington City on 21st of January to fix the time and the place for holding the National Convention for the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency.

Two Cincinnati-Kentucky Pow has little to do when it attempts to slur some of the country press, but the Pow is only happy when it is throwing mud at somebody, and it will ultimately discover that it has only befouled itself.

The Directors of the World's Fair will propose to Congress that the Government take five million dollars stock in the fair instead of lending that amount to the association. That would place the Government on the same footing with the other stock holders in the matter of losses.

There are no reasons why separate coaches should not be provided by the railroads for the accommodation of their negro passengers. The demand that such shall be done has become almost universal in this State, and the Legislature will have that with other new matters to consider this winter.

The following is going the rounds of the press, and it may be true and it may not—more than likely the latter:

The grand jury at San Antonio, Texas, found an indictment against the judge of the court they were serving under, and notice was served on him while he was on the bench. The judge fined each juror $50 for contempt of court, and they refusing to pay, he put them all in jail.

The census taken by enumerators appointed by the city authorities of Frankfort show the city has 4,863 white and 2,968 colored inhabitants, making a total of 7,831, which is a less number than the Porter census shows for that city. Frankfort would claim the right to count the 861 convicts in the penitentiary were it not so humiliating when compelled to admit that about one-tenth of her population are felons and in the penitentiary.

Dr. MARSH, who killed J. E. Honsaker in Owen county last October, was captured at Evansville, Indiana, last Friday. A box of clothing shipped by the doctor's wife to him from Hinton to Evansville gave him away. It was shipped him under the name of E. Serby. The doctor makes a statement of the trouble that led up to the killing, but it does not exactly tally with other accounts that have gone out. He will be brought back to Owen for trial.

The State Grange in session at Louisville last week re-elected Dr. Clardy Master. Most of the other officers were also re-elected. An effort will be made to revive the subordinate grange which were so numerous and strong throughout the State a few years ago. But one subordinate grange in this county has maintained its organization and retained its charter, and that is the Grange, located at Gunter. The members of the other granges consider that the association has well repaid them for the trouble they have taken in organizing up the society.

The cities of the Fifth Class sent delegates to Louisville to a charter-making for cities of the Fifth magnitude. The delegates had a very pleasant time, but did not accomplish much in the line of business for which they met. They agreed to fix the minimum price of saloon license at five hundred dollars.

It matters not from what political standpoint the President's message is examined, it is plainly to be seen that he would like to have the Congressional and Presidential election machinery taken from the control of the States and lodged in an Election Commission with headquarters at Washington. But the people of this country have nothing to fear in that direction so long as the Democrats have control of one-third of the veto power as they now have.

This time last year all the distilleries in and about Frankfort were in operation, now they are nearly all shut down, and their fires will not be started until 1892. It indicates that there has been considerable over-production, and that the distillers are afraid of the exceptionally large corn crop.—Capital.

Let the distilleries in and about Frankfort fire up at once. Should their supplies be exhausted during the session of the Legislature the capital might be removed to some city where the members would have nothing of that kind to fear in the future.

For the special information of the Williamson Courier the Recorder will say that it has no intention of betraying the confidence of those who send in their ballots for their choice for next Representative in Congress. Some paper or papers in the district might be guilty of such a breach of confidence, the opportunity being offered, but the Recorder and its publishers aspire to stand on a higher plane of honor. The name of every voter casting a ballot will be kept a profound secret and this office, the Courier's suspicions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Gov. Brown does not believe in confining the youthful convicts in the penitentiary with the hardened felons, and gave the following reasons for pardoning a young chap the other day:

Sam Alexander, a colored boy only eleven years of age, was, on the 10th inst., confined in the penitentiary for house-breaking. By judgment of the Cumberland Circuit Court, Capt. Bolen, the warden, by letter this morning has informed me of the fact of his confinement, and says that he is the youngest prisoner ever sent to the penitentiary. He is a mere child, however bad he may be, will make him worse. It is no proper place of correction for those of his age, and I do not feel that I abuse the pardoning power in releasing him.

RAILROADS are not such bad things to have in a State after all, when it comes to collecting taxes. This year they will pay taxes on over fifty millions two hundred and forty thousand dollars worth of taxable property. On that amount they contribute to the support of the State government, besides opening up and making self-sustaining sections of the Commonwealth that would remain a burden to the revenue sections of the State were it not for the railroads. Give Kentucky a sufficient number of miles of railroads, and she will immediately go up about the head of the procession. The development of her great wealth depends on the railroads penetrating her oil and coal fields.

The power that be, to wit: Col. Monday Friday Striger, has appointed the following Republican Committee for the city of J. C. Tomlin, G. L. Miller, Geo. W. Baker and George W. Cayton. If Striger should desire to get more opposition to Collector Comingore, in the same number of men, it is hard to tell how he would go about it. Mr. Striger has evidently declared war on Harrison, Comingore & Co., and if his appointees in the other counties in this Congressional district occupy the same attitude towards Mr. Comingore as his appointees in Boone do, there is no question but a very warm time is just ahead for the Republicans in the Sixth.

As Ohio county couple ran off to get married, and in order to expedite their movements the man appropriated another person's horse which he sold, giving the money to his wife. The parties were arrested, tried, convicted and sent to the penitentiary. The Governor pardoned the woman the other day for which he gave the following reasons:

Joeie Roach, a white girl from Ohio county, was this day confined in the penitentiary under a judgment for horse stealing. The facts as represented to me are that she was persuaded from home under a promise of marriage by one Crowe, who on the trip they made, feloniously appropriated a horse which he sold for five dollars and gave to Joeie. She is only sixteen years old. She was evidently under the influence of Crowe, and if she has committed the crime, she is a victim of the law, and if she has not, she is a victim of the law. Let her go and sin no more. A pardon is granted.

It is evident that there will be no trouble in finding enough applicants to fill the offices that are at the disposal of the elected officials of the National House of Representatives. There are enough applicants to go around and a few over.

Thomas Coyle, of Beaver neighborhood, lost his residence and all its contents by fire, one day last week. Three of his children were confined to their bed with sickness and had to be carried from the burning building. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a defective flue.

That the Speaker might have an opportunity to devote some time to the arrangement of his committee, the House adjourned from last Wednesday until Saturday with the understanding that it would then adjourn until day. It is not believed that he will be able to announce his committees before the holidays.

Our young friend, Rankin Revell, son of J. C. Revell, is an applicant for a position under the Clerk of the National House of Representatives. Rankin has many friends who will be glad should his application be favorably considered. He is a neat and rapid penman, and is especially qualified for any office, the duties of which are clerical.

The sockless statesman from the State of Kansas secured a seat immediately in front of Speaker Crisp, in the front row. Now, if Jerry is not recognized by the Speaker when he is entitled to recognition it will not be on account of location, but, perhaps, on account of some of the tricks Mr. Crisp was taught during the last Congress.

Since Louisville has acquired the distinction of being the only first-class city in Kentucky, it has the biggest fires and more grippe than all the other cities in the State combined, while snakes two and a half feet in circumference, are to be seen in the back yards of her citizens, basking in the bright sunshine. Louisville is a hummer, and don't you forget it.

The striking coal miners in Indiana are still holding out, although starvation is staring them and their families in the face, and many of them are subsisting on oat meal a day. An appeal has been made to all the coal miners in the United States to tax themselves twenty-five cents a day and forward it to the Indiana strikers to assist them to force the mine owners to yield to the demand of the miners. The strike bids fair to continue for some time.

The President says that the Commissioner of Pensions has investigated the matter, and is of the opinion that one hundred and forty-four millions nine hundred and fifty-six thousand dollars, will be sufficient to pay the pensions for the year ending June 30th, 1893. The people have been brought up so gradually to the payment of this large sum of money that but little attention is paid to it, and no surprise is manifested at any demand made by the Pension Department.

This report has been started at Washington that the Republican Hill takers his seat as a Senator from New York. His credentials have not been filed with the Senate and he is still holding the office of Governor of New York, which he intends to occupy until the first of January. It is of that that the complaint is made and upon which the claim that he has thus forfeited his office as Senator, is made. Governor Hill has informed himself on that subject, and is fully advised as to the soundness of his claim to the Senatorship, although he will not assume the duties thereof until this term as Governor expires.

Suppose the Independent Democrats were elected by the overthrow of the regular Democratic nominees—as they generally were. Suppose they have worked for the defeat of their own party—as they did in their own elections. Suppose they have voted the straight Democratic ticket themselves—and induced other Democrats to vote against it. Suppose they were elected by a combination of elements hostile to the Democracy, with a few disaffected Democrats—as was more than occasionally the case. Are they still to be taken into full faith and fellowship with staunch party men? Are they entitled to the same consideration as party nominees and workers? If so, be the case what is the use of parties, or of nominees?

So far as the Times is concerned it would very unanimously say, "Not Much," to any such.

THE POPE FAINTS.

At First It Was Thought He Was Dead.

Indications That His End Is Not Approaching—He Is Suffering From Chronic Intestinal Catarrh and From Stomach Ailments.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The Lancet's correspondent at Rome, who has, on a number of former occasions, given information regarding the Pope's health, which subsequently proved to be absolutely correct, telegraphs Wednesday confirming a rumor which has heretofore been treated as doubtful, that his holiness was seized with a fainting fit at the Vatican on the 23rd inst.

It was thought for a time, the correspondent stated, that he had an apoplexy, but the strong efforts of the physicians attached to the Vatican, who were hastily summoned, succeeded in restoring animation, and the sufferer rallied, though his condition remained critical for several hours. The fact that the pope had fainted was kept a profound secret at the time, in compliance with a standing order of the Vatican, according to which, even in the event of the pope's death, the fact is not to be divulged until the final disposition of the body has been completed.

It was a damp, dreary Christmas.

Big times at Frankfort for an indefinite time.

Mr. Cass, Speaker of the House, has a severe attack of the grippe.

A great many of the country papers are taking the advantage of the holidays for a week's rest.

Kentucky's biennial has opened at Frankfort again. The first performance of interest is the selection of a Speaker.

Two of the leading trotting horses men of this country, Jerome I. Case and R. S. Strader, have died within the last two weeks.

Quite a number of ballots have been received since our last issue. The interest in the matter is growing, and the votes will likely be more numerous from now on.

After this week the Recorder will give the proceedings of both the National Congress and the Kentucky Legislature. Now is the time to subscribe, and keep posted.

The Williamson Public Opinion, always a handsome sheet, was a daily last week. The editors of that paper are live men, and their patrons surely appreciate their efforts.

Have you made out a list of the resolutions you have adopted to go into effect on New Year's day? Don't make your resolutions too numerous, for it is difficult to look after them successfully.

Opposition to Harvey Myers' election as Speaker has left nothing undone to compass his defeat, and if he is the stripe of fellow they represent him to be, he is a terrible fellow from Terrible Territory—but then there are a great many in the country, who don't believe the charges by which it is hoped to show him under at Frankfort this week.

Mr. Mills had not shown a disposition to stink after he was defeated in the Speakership caucus, he might have been Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. But, notwithstanding his display of childlike meanness Mr. Crisp ought to have passed that over and tendered him the position in which he has been tried and found so capable to fill.

The grand jury in Louisville returned five indictments against the fellow Holliday, who tampered with a tally sheet and a ballot box used at the last city election. The chances that the accused will have been free board at Frankfort for several years, are decidedly favorable. Ballot box corruption should be nipped in the bud, and an example made of the transgressors as speedily as possible.

The proposition to have a law passed by the next Legislature requiring the railroads in this State to provide coaches for the exclusive use of colored passengers, does not meet the approval of some of the most prominent citizens of African descent, and Governor Brown was waited on a few days ago by a delegation of that race, that entered a protest against the enactment of such a law. The Governor gave them a respectful hearing.

Senator Sherman's friends are pretty well posted in ex-Governor Forsaker's political career, and deny that he is guilty of any achievements in that line that show him to be better qualified for United States Senator than Sherman, at the same time remembering some transactions that are not at all creditable to the ex-Governor. The most serious objections raised to the reelection of Sherman are his age and the length of time he has held the office, although it is admitted that he is one of the ablest Republicans in Congress. As the contest progresses it increases in interest.

It was an exchange, all the locomotives in the United States were coupled together they would make a train three hundred miles long; then add the passenger cars and we should have three hundred miles more; and if we wanted a mixed train, and were to put in the box, flat and every other kind of freight car, our train would be over a thousand miles long. If we added one million five hundred passenger cars, and upon these would be loaded all the pyramids of the State Capitals of

The devil has been loosed for a season in Glasgow. The Times says "bombs have been thrown, property wantonly destroyed, life endangered, and law officer resisted. Lady shoppers are not safe on the streets at night; even in broad daylight turbulence and disorder reign, and that some of the business men declare they will sell out and leave the town if the outrages continue." Such is a deplorable state of affairs for an important town as Glasgow, and it is hoped that public sentiment will come to the assistance of the law, and that order will be brought out of chaos at Glasgow. The condition of affairs now prevailing there of ruin to the town. It is strange that such a reign of lawlessness should break loose in a community heretofore noted for peace and quiet.

The Republicans continue to persist in their misrepresentation of the Democratic party's position on the tariff question, but notwithstanding their efforts in that direction they have not succeeded in misleading the people as evidence by their emphatic verdict at the Congressional elections in the fall of 1890, and which was reaffirmed in 1890.

It is clear that the masses are with the Democratic party in its struggle for tariff reform and an economical administration of the Government. Had the people the direct choosing of the President and United States Senators, the Democratic party would, to-day, have control of both the Executive and Legislative departments of the Government. Why should a party, the principles of which are so dear to the people, desire to hedge on an issue that has enlisted them in its enthusiastic support? The election of Mr. Crisp carries with it no indication that the Democratic party is weakening in its fight for tariff reform, and it will continue the good work which it has advanced so far.

SPEAKER CRISP placed the Kentucky members as follows on the House Committee:

Breckinridge—Appropriations, Expenditures and State Department.

Carroll—Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and Education.

Dickerson—Banking and Currency, Labor, Irrigation and Arid Lands.

Ellis—Pacific Railroads.

Goodnight—Judiciary.

McCreary—Foreign Affairs, Columbian Exposition.

Kendall—Claims.

Montgomery—Ways and Means, Expenditures, War Department.

Payton—Elections, Expenditures in Postoffice Department.

Stone—War Claims, Militia, Expenditures in Treasury Department.

Wilson—Leaves and Improvements of Mississippi River, Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and Agriculture.

Montgomery is Chairman of the Committee on War Department Committee. The Speaker was not partial to the Democratic members south of Mason & Dixon's line in placing the chairmanships.

The reciprocity scheme for which the Republicans are appropriating to themselves the credit is of Democratic origin as pertains to this generation. A writer in the State Journal of the 23rd inst., quoting from the Congressional Record of March 29th, 1890, says Congressman McCrory, of this State, introduced in the House a bill authorizing the President of the United States to arrange for a conference for the purpose of encouraging peaceful and reciprocal commercial relations between the United States of America and the Republics of Mexico, Central and South America and the Empire of Brazil. The writer traces Congressman McCrory's record on that subject, and finds him pushing his bill to a passage. He quotes the following from a speech made by Mr. McCrory in the House on May 3d 1890: "I trust that I will be excused for being somewhat particular about the details of the law, for strange as it may seem to those who have read certain newspapers for several months past, I had the honor to prepare, introduce and give to the House of Representatives, both in the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses the bill that gave life to the International American Conference, which has just adjourned, and this was the only bill ever passed by either branch of Congress, authorizing a conference at Washington between the United States of America and the Republics of the North, South and Central America, and the distinguished ex-Representative and ex-Senator whose name has been so prominently connected with the conference in the public service of a quarter of a century in Congress, introduced no bill or resolution, and did nothing while in Congress to provide for a Conference of American Republics."

On the testimony Mr. Blaine is clearly convicted of appropriating Democratic thunder.

The editor of the Milton Free Press has been informed (?) by a German scientist who has been gathering statistics and information concerning the human race, "that man is becoming shorter in stature every generation, and that the average height of man in all those countries where he has been collecting information has diminished two inches in the last two centuries. He has made particular investigation concerning the inhabitants of England, France and the German Empire. The average height of Europeans is a little over five feet six inches." On the above statement the aforesaid editor comments as follows: "Now let us pause and think a little. In thirty centuries, therefore, man will be six inches high. If we have been evolutionists and have been charged at the thought of our lowly ancestors, we may now turn our unpleasant reflections from our ancestors to our progeny. Just think if you please of the time when our descendants, as animalcules, will be riding around on the particles of the atmosphere. The railroad and the steamboat will have had their day; there will be no use for the air ship and the flying machine. The modes of travel will altogether have changed. The exorbitant fair will be a thing of the past. But just imagine your great, great, great, great grand son in the form of a tubercle or a gripper microbe, being chased about by the progressive doctor, being imprisoned by millions of his fellow-in-bottle, and dragged out in all kinds of weather to be inspected under a microscope. It makes one's blood run cold. Our descendants will be held responsible for all the disorders of mankind, and will be chased about with cruel relentlessness. True that they will have cheap and rapid methods of transit, but there is no telling in what country they will be safe. "Their privations and vexations will be so great that they will want to fold the drapery of their couch about them and lie down to dream that shall be forever undisturbed. Remorse for our ancestors must not be swallowed up in misgivings for our descendants."

Is what purports to be a recent interview with Congressman Dickerson, he is represented as speaking as follows: "I'm going to see that those ornamental committees, that don't meet once a year and have no business to do, are not allowed clerks. There are a lot of such committees, which were apparently for no other purpose than to provide chairmanships for certain men and give them a little patronage to distribute in the form of clerkships. These clerks to ornamental committees either do nothing at all but draw their salaries, or else they merely look after the private correspondence and department business of the chairman. I'm going to let the country know about these things, and I'm going to do what I can to have the abuse stopped."

Another thing I am going to do is to propose the creation of an entirely new officer of the House, who shall have as much power and dignity as any other officer. He will have entire charge of all purchases of supplies of the House. While I know the creation of new offices is contrary to Democratic policy, I believe that such an officer as I propose would save his salary ten times over in the course of a year. The supplies of stationery, ink, pens, pencils and hundreds of other things for which the House spends thousands of dollars annually are now bought by a dozen different people. As far as I can find out, the contracts for furnishing these supplies are now given out purely as a matter of personal favor and friendship. They are not bought, as they ought to be, of manufacturers and wholesale dealers. Very often they are bought of relatives and are purchased of the latter at retail rates by personal friends of the officer of the House who has the giving of the contract. Then the officer's friends sell the goods to the officer at a handsome profit. Now the amount spent by Congress for supplies is too large. If there was one man to look after these purchases, and approve all the bills, this sort of thing would be stopped, as it ought to be and thousands of dollars could be saved annually."

The Forsaker men claim that the Sherman men have an abundance of money to use in his interest, and that they have offered as high as five thousand dollars for a single vote for "Honest John," while his friends are indignant because of the charge, and declare that it shall be investigated and its falsity exposed. Money has such a potent influence in political contests in Ohio, that the suspicion of corruption surrounds every successful candidate, and hereafter the heretofore spotted (?) political lion of John Sherman is to have a tinge of corruption even if he is not re-elected to the United States Senate. He is inclined to believe that Forsaker's campaign cannot be conducted on high principle.

The National Democratic Committee will meet in Washington on January 21st, to fix the time and place to hold the National Convention for nominating a candidate for the Presidency.

LOUISVILLE has made long and rapid strides in the way of increasing her leaf tobacco market within the past few years, and is now the largest tobacco market in the world. Her sales for 1891 amounted to one thousand two hundred and thirty thousand hogsheads more than for last year, and the warehousemen will try to wind up next year's business with still an increase over the sales of this year. The reputation of being the largest market in the world is worth a great deal to the Louisville tobacco men, and lessens the labor of increasing the sales annually. Were all branches of business at Louisville expanding with the rapidity of the leaf tobacco trade, that city would soon be the inland commercial center of this country.

It is stated on good authority that Lieutenant Governor J. W. Bryan, of Covington, will be a candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. He is one of several very able Covington politicians who might win in the office chase if all the others were not determined to do so. They say that two of these Covington politicians are on speaking terms with each other. —Owensboro Messenger.

Hon. James W. Bryan, it is stated on very good authority, will be a candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. He is one of several very able Covington politicians who might win in the office chase if all the others were not determined to do so. They say that two of these Covington politicians are on speaking terms with each other. —Owensboro Messenger.

Mr. J. W. Billingsley, when speaking of the mild weather we are having, said it called to mind the statements made by an eminent scientist in a recent lecture in New York.

The scientist argued that there would be no more cold weather in Kentucky or Tennessee. He attributed this climatic change to the change in the Gulf Stream caused by the Charleston earthquake.

In this great convulsion a portion of the bottom of the Atlantic had been forced up six hundred feet, changing the course of the Gulf Stream so as to greatly modify the climate in the localities named, and even modify the extreme of cold as formerly experienced in New York.

To establish this theory he called attention to the fact that the winters since the Charleston earthquake had been extremely mild, and but one snow storm of any consequence had struck New York. Western irrigation was changing the course of storms, so that those of a blizzard character passed further north than heretofore. Facts appear to substantiate this theory, and if we are to have such moderate winter weather we do not object. Only we would like to know what to depend on before hand.

Shiftless Tricks For Farmers.

To try to farm without manure.

It is shiftless to buy poor stock. A poor cow eats as much as a good one.

To allow the hogs and sheep to wander at their own sweet will over their owner's and his neighbor's premises.

To allow the barnyard to drain into the public road or into a stream. A good many farmers are guilty of this.

To let the cattle fodder themselves at the hay stacks. It saves a little labor, but the waste will make their owner poorer.

To turn cattle out into the bare fields in cold weather when there is nothing for them to eat there, and they lose flesh shivering in the cold.

To waste through the mud to the barn and outbuildings when good, dry paths can be so easily made.

To pay doctor's bills for wife and children because their feet became raw through lack of good paths. —Farmers' Home Journal.
